U.K. MAY RAID DEFIANT ISLE

LONDON (Reuters) — British paratroopers left for the Caribbean tonight as a military invasion of the rebel island of Anguilla appeared imminent.

More than 100 paratroopers in full combat dress moved from their Aldershot barracks near London to an RAF base in Wiltshire before leaving.

It was also learned that three British warships — the frigates Rhyl, Minerva and Rothesay — are within striking distance of the defiant little island, which has for almost two years refused to be part of a federation with nearby St. Kitts and Nevis.

Britain also has 250 troops stationed in British Honduras on the Central American mainland.

In the House of Commons, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart fended off a direct question about the invasion plans by telling Parliament to wait for a later statement on the Anguillan situation.

The 34-square-mile island, with a population of 6,000, broke away from the British-created Federation of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla in May, 1967, and later declared itself an independent republic.

Its leaders rebuffed British attempts to bring Anguilla back into the federation. Last week, a British government peace-maker was forced off the island at gunpoint.

The rebuffed peace-maker, Junior Minister William Whitlock of the foreign and Commonwealth office, returned to London with a warning that the islanders are being held in complete subjection by armed "gangster types," including Americans.

Death Toll 155 In Worst Air Disaster

MARACAIBO (AP) — The death toll in aviation's worst disaster reached 155 today as searchers combed through the wreckage of homes destroyed by the crash of a Venezuelan jetliner bound for Miami, Fla.

Five more persons died today from injuries suffered when the Viasa airline DC-9 with 84 persons aboard plunged into a residential area Sunday and exploded minutes after taking off from Grano de Oro airport.

All 74 passengers and 10 crew members, at least 47 of them U.S. citizens, were killed in the crash. Authorities estimated that at least 71 persons have perished on the ground and feared the total would increase as the grim search continues.

Airport officials said Sunday night one of the passengers was a Canadian. However, the passenger list did not show any Canadians aboard. It listed one of the passengers as John J. Heney of Los Angeles, who was born in Canada. His Canadian birthplace was not known.

ONLY ROSE 150 FEET

The DC-9 had attained an altitude of only 150 feet when it faltered minutes after takeoff and plunged into a cluster of low-cost homes in Maracaibo's La Trinidad and Ziruma districts. The area was quickly enveloped in flames.

Eight separate investigating teams are trying to determine what caused the crash.

An airport official said the pilot reported no trouble and his last radio contact with the control tower was a routine request for permission to take off.

The plane lifted off the end of the runway, climbed to about 150 feet, then suddenly lost altitude and went down. The explosion appeared to have occurred when one of the plane's two rear-mounted turbine engines grazed a high-tension wire.

Fifteen other air crashes have taken more than 100 lives. The previous worst aviation accident occurred Dec. 16, 1960, when two airliners collided over New York City, killing 134 passengers and persons on the ground.

HIT POWER POLE

A policeman who was a witness said the plane lost altitude after taking off, hit a high tension pole, spun and fell in pieces on the residential districts of Ziruna and La Trinidad. The area on the outskirts of Maracaibo, Venezuela's principal oil centre, is inhabited by about 15,000 Colombians, Venezuelans and Guajiro Indians.

The plane had been in service only 10 days. The flight originated in Caracas, 330 miles to the east, and picked up more passengers in Maracaibo. The airline said there were 74 passengers and a crew of 10 aboard.

VIASA sources said the pilot was Capt. Emiliano Sabelli Maldonado, who had logged more than 1,000,000 miles in the air.

Killed in the crash were three Venezuelan baseball figures—Nestor Isaias Chavez, a pitcher on his way to San Francisco Giants' training camp in Tucson, Ariz.; Antonio Herrera, owner of the Venezuelan Cardenales de Lar club, and Carlos Santeliz, a player with the Cardenales.

THE DOTTED LINES show the curving route the final section of the Rose-Blanshard through-road will take sometime this year. With the Rose-Bay intersection already completed but not yet in use, the new road will swing onto McBride and emerge on Blanshard about 50-yards north of Memorial Arena. The small section of road shown angling from Bay to Blanshard will be closed and the land sold by the city to private developers. Blanshard will continue to carry traffic across Bay but only as far as Kings where it will terminate at the southern boundary of the Rose-Blanshard low rental housing project. Remaining on the small "island" flanked by Rose and Blanshard will be two or three houses, Island Farms Dairy, Holyrood House and Andy and Jack's Batteries. The new road link will sweep right past the front entrance of Holyrood and the Bay Street Armory parking lot.

$200,000 Link-Up For Rose-Blanshard

By JIM HUME

Victoria got its first look today at the final link of a major road which, to date, leads nowhere.

The new road section, on the books for two years but now close to the tendering stage, was brought to light when the city advertised for demolition prices for the last eight properties standing in the way of phase two of the new Rose-Blanshard six-lane highway.

Phase one, running from Bay Street to Hillside, was started last year and, apart from a few finishing touches has now been completed at a cost of $160,000.

Phase two, which will link the new Rose-Bay intersection with Blanshard at Pembroke via McBride, is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Closing date for demolition tenders is March 19 at 11 a.m.

The properties involved are: 942 Kings, 2515 Rose Street; 753 Queens, 2548 Blanshard, 738 Queens, 2016-18 Blanshard, 2502 Blanshard and 2347 McBride.

Construction of the remaining link will give Victoria a four to six-lane highway from Pandora to Tolmie where it ends abruptly.

City officials are still hopeful that revised provincial plans for the Patricia Bay Highway will provide a link-up at this point

CBC Workers In Walkout At Toronto

Rotating Strikes Planned

TORONTO (CP) — More than 500 members of the Association of Radio and Television employees of Canada walked off their jobs at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation today following earlier warnings by the union that it may stage a series of rotating strikes.

A CBC spokesman said the union has about 560 workers at CBC Toronto but it was believed not all had left their jobs. The workers represent CBC sales, clerical, international service and announcer personnel.

The spokesman said it was not immediately known whether the walkout was a temporary work stoppage or when the workers might return to work. Union leaders were not immediately available for comment.

The CBC spokesman also said it is "the intention of the corporation to stay on the air, with news getting top priority." He said CBC news broadcasts would not be interrupted and that management personnel are filling in on some jobs.

The walkout followed a breakdown in talks between the CBC and ARTEC in Ottawa at 4 a.m. EST today. The union initiated a work-to-rule campaign following the breakdown but a union spokesman later indicated in Ottawa that surprise rotating strikes would be the union's next step. The work-to-rule campaign included a ban on overtime and a request that bilingual employees speak one language only

VOTED TO STRIKE

ARTEC members last week approved strike action by a vote of 1,617 to 184. At that time, members also voted to back demands for implementation of a conciliation board report recommending wage increases to ARTEC members because they had slipped behind other groups of CBC employees.

However, the board made no specific recommendations.

ARTEC, affiliated with the Canadian Union of Public Employees, has asked for a 20-per-cent wage increase in a one-year contract and an additional seven per cent for members who must speak a second language in their ordinary work.

Fernand Daoust, the union's chief negotiator, said Monday in Ottawa the CBC last week agreed ARTEC members needed 6.5-per-cent increases in addition to guideline-type increases to catch up with other CBC workers.

However, he said that the CBC on Sunday offered only an additional 1.5 per cent in the first year of a new agreement and one-half per cent in the second year.

SPILLER PRISON TERM RAISED TO SIX YEARS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ann Kathleen Spiller, 26, today had her three-year prison term for the theft of $494,000 from a Royal Bank of Canada branch doubled by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Miss Spiller was given a six-year term by a unanimous decision of the three appeal court judges.

The Crown had protested as "grossly inadequate" the term imposed Nov. 8 by Magistrate R. D. Colliver after she pleaded guilty to theft over $50.

'Separatists Don't Belong'

Bertrand Launches Campaign On Strong Nationalist Plank

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand lanuched a campaign for the permanent leadership of Quebec's governing party during the weekend by saying the separatists do not belong in the Union Nationale.

The 52-year-old interim leader announced his candidacy at a special party meeting which voted to hold a leadership convention here before June 30.

Mr. Bertrand told a news conference that if there are members of the Union Nationale who prefer separatist leader Rene Levesque's ideas, "they should join Mr. Levesque's (Parti Quebecois) movement."

His comment on separatists was a sign of possible change in the Union Nationale, which began courting separatists under the late premier Daniel Johnson, an advocate of "equality or independence."

No cabinet ministers made an immediate move to challenge Mr. Bertrand

WILL DECIDE LATER

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, viewed by some Union Nationale elements as the best leadership bet, said he preferred "to think things over" before making up his mind.

One of the "things" to think about was the pro-Bertrand atmosphere of the one-day meeting of the party's national council, ruling assembly of the Union Nationale.

During the meeting Mr. Bertrand got four standing ovations and four rounds of bravos. When he announced his candidacy, delegates jumped to their feet amid shouts of "hip, hip hurrah."

On the Bertrand bandwagon already are at least nine cabinet ministers, including Finance Minister Paul Dozois and Tourism Minister Gabriel Loubier.

All this contributed to making Mr. Bertrand more confident, tougher and more powerful than ever since he was named interim leader following Mr. Johnson's death last Sept. 26.

Last Act Tragedy For CSP

The final act of Commonwealth Savings Plan Ltd. will be played out next Monday in the 2,800-seat Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

For most of the audience it will be grim tragedy.

That's the date set by bankruptcy trustee Harold S. Sigurdson for a meeting of the creditors to decide how they will share the "deficiency" of almost $3.3 million which the company owes them and cannot pay.

Most of the audience will be composed of depositors who kept their savings in the company's vaults, and purchasers of its investment certificates.

Claims against the company—one of three in the 50-firm Commonwealth group which was ordered into bankruptcy last week—must be filed before the meeting, Sigurdson said in a weekend circular letter.

(Commonwealth Savings Plan's affairs were intimately interwoven with those of Commonwealth Trust Company but it did not have the benefit of Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation coverage for depositors, nor is it included in the provincial government's proposed legislation to advance a

Pearson Not Cleared by Diary LaMarsh and Newman Insist

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Former prime minister L. B. Pearson has failed to explain why he remained "silent" so long, in effect helping to destroy his then justice minister the late Guy Fabreau, both Peter Newman, editor of the Toronto Star, and Judy LaMarsh, former secretary of state, said today.

They said Pearson by his actions in releasing confidential papers to the Toronto Star and Montreal Star had simply stirred up the controversy again. It had not "cleared" Pearson but had supported the claims they had made in their books, both the authors said.

BETTER DEFENCE

"He should have stayed silent unless he had a better defence than he has produced. He has stirred it all up again. Why does he have to pick on Guy Favreau who is dead and cannot say anything now?" asked Miss LaMarsh from her law office in Niagara Falls.

In an article by Anthony Westell, Pearson is quoted as saying:

"I am anxious to remove the impression—created by LaMarsh and Newman and perhaps others—that I sacrificed Favreau and Cardin for my own selfish purposes and that they felt that this was being done: that I was throwing them to the wolves to protect myself."

NEWMAN

STAYING SILENT

Newman said the memoranda and correspondence Pearson released "does not excuse his actions in staying silent so long. "Pearson is trying to rewrite history.

"The fact is that as a result of these episodes the careers of both Cardin (Lucien Cardin, former justice minister) and Favreau were ruined while Pearson went merrily on," he said.

Miss LaMarsh said Pearson's disclosures "don't answer or explain anything. He has missed the point completely."

The two authors were not

Cabinet Almost Disintegrated Under Stress of Spencer Case

SECOND OF A SERIES

By ANTHONY WESTELL

Two months before the Spencer spy case plunged his government into its worst political crisis, in 1966, Prime Minister Lester Pearson proposed to his colleagues a course of action that would almost certainly have averted the difficulties.

But the cabinet decided against the Pearson plan for dealing with the issue before it became critical in Parliament. The result was:

- The cabinet almost disintegrated under the stress of the crisis, and Pearson, surveying the resignation threats, wrote in his diary a few days later: "Things were really falling apart."
- The Commons sank deeper into bitter debate of the Spencer case which led directly to the disclosure of the Munsinger scandal—one of the low points in Canadian parliamentary history.

Former Prime Minister Pearson discloses his inside version of the Spencer case in the private papers he has released. He is anxious to answer suggestions that he betrayed his justice minister, Lucien Cardin, during the crisis.

Letters from Cardin included in the Pearson papers show in fact that the justice minister remained deeply attached to his prime minister throughout the affair, and eventually left public life without in any way blaming Pearson for his troubles.

Cardin took the view, contrary to most opinion, that it was his mistakes that caused Pearson's problems, and not Pearson's performance that brought him down.

George Victor Spencer was an obscure postal worker in Vancouver who was recruited as a small-time agent by the Soviet spy masters working out of the embassy in Ottawa.

His main task seems to have been to collect information which could be used to create "legends," or false identities, for more important Soviet spies.

But he also provided information on pipelines, on farms for sale near the U.S. border, and on the security system in the post office.

The RCMP had been aware of his activities for a long time, but took action only in May, 1965—perhaps because the force wanted a dramatic success at that moment to offset the bad publicity it had received during the Dorion enquiry into the Rivard scandal.

In any event, the RCMP encouraged the external affairs department to announce that the two Soviet spy masters had been sent packing and to describe their activities in colorful terms.

Israel Bombs Guerrillas In Jordan

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Jordan today for the second straight day, hitting suspected Arab guerrilla bases in the foothills of the Gilead Mountains southeast of the Sea of Galilee.

An army spokesman said four or five planes strafed and bombed Arab gun positions that fired missiles at Israeli settlements in the area Sunday night, touching off an artillery duel.

A Jordanian spokesman said the planes showered rockets, napalm and machine-gun fire on three towns. He said there were no casualties but an agricultural area was damaged.

Earlier Sunday Israeli planes raided three big Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan. The Israeli army said all planes returned safely, but in Amman a spokesman for the Al Fatah guerrilla organization said its anti-aircraft guns downed six of the attacking jets. He said two crashed inside Jordan and the other four in Israeli territory.

One of the targets was only six miles from Amman—the cloest attack to the Jordanian capital since the 1967 war.

A Jordanian spokesman said only civilian targets were hit, resulting in four dead and at least seven wounded. The Palestine Liberation Organization, the guerrilla coalition, said three guerrillas were killed and four wounded.

The PLO said the dead included Maj. Fayez Jarad, 30, "one of the chief guerrilla commanders."

Israel did not say how many planes participated in the raids, but the PLO said 18 planes took part in one strike, using "rockets, napalm and machine-guns."

The Lebanese Army announced that an Israeli patrol intruded into Lebanon Sunday and was driven back by border guards. The Lebanese claimed a number of casualties, but there was no confirmation from Israel.

ATTACK A PATROL

In the Gaza Strip, an Israeli patrol came under bazooka attack Sunday night near Erez, but the army said there were no serious casualties.

Israeli police also arrested an 18-year-old girl in the Strip after she hurled two hand grenades at an army patrol, slightly wounding three soldiers.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al Gumhurriya said the Israeli raid near Amman ushered in "a new era in the escalating Israeli terrorist measures against Arab countries."

Top Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tourism expert Richard H. Street says tourism could be British Columbia's top industry in 10 years if it is properly organized by the provincial government. But, he said in an interview, the province risks misuse of tourist resources and factilities because there is no regional planning of tourism.

critical of Pearson for his "human failing" of forgetting that Favreau had informed him of the Rivard case on the plane flight. But they did attack him for failing to acknowledge in the Commons that he had forgotten and for delaying three weeks to make it known in a letter to a royal commission.

Newman said today, "The Pearson papers reveal the curious relationship he had as prime minister with his party . . . that ministers were constantly trying to find excuses for him and were willing to take the blame themselves.

PUBLIC MASKS

"The Favreau-Cardin letters to Pearson are fascinating in that they reveal a great deal about the dealings of politicians when they are wearing their public masks. These masks are as stereotyped as the masks in a Greek drama, projecting an expression that says in effect 'You are my leader, you can do no wrong.'

"Beyond this I don't feel that the Pearson papers reveal anything particularly new and they don't cause me to change my mind about anything I wrote in my book," said Newman.

Miss LaMarsh noted that Pearson had produced a letter from Favreau written to him when he was prime minister. In that letter Favreau had repeated that he had informed Pearson on the plane and gave some of the details of what he told the then prime minister.

"But then Pearson wrote across the letter that he did not recall all those details in their conversation. He must have been preparing a defence even then for his actions. It is a strange thing to do," said Miss LaMarsh.

EFFECTS ON FAVREAU

Newman spelled out the effects on Favreau in his book: "Mr. Favreau arrived in Ottawa only two years before, a man full of promise, his black hair touched with grey, his future golden. Now he was distraught, his hair nearly white, his future clouded. He had been unable (and never was able as it turned out) to recover from the intense strain of those three weeks when he was allowed to shoulder full blame for the forgotten conversation of Sept. 2."

TAX LOTTERY PRIZES WON BY ISLANDERS

British Columbia had eight small-money winners in Montreal's monthly voluntary rax draw.

Only two were from Vancouver Island—James Stothard of Victoria and Mrs. Sharon Sambrook of Campbell River, who won $250 each.

Other B.C. winners included Stephen Lum Min, Vancouver; Mrs. Angela Maleskewski, North Burnaby; Mrs. Eva Legreeley, Port Coquitlam, and Mrs. Mary Rodger, White Rock, all with $1,000; and A. G. Horton, Vancouver, and Morna S. Knutson, Port Kells, $250 each.

Winner of the grand prize of $100,000 was Piereete Fortin, a 23-year-old Quebec City secretary.

because as it stands now, the outlet goes nowhere.

The final city link in the arterial road is expected to be under construction this year and could touch off another wave of criticism from road-building contractors.

When phase one came up for tender in 1968 the city public works department was the low bidder for the contract, a fact which drew the ire of private firms who claimed the city had the inside track on such bids making it virtually impossible to compete.

No decision has yet been made on whether the city will tender on phase two, but there is every likelihood that it will.

With the major intersection at Rose and Bay already in place Rose Street will swing slightly west onto McBride, past the front of Holyrood House and to the rear of Island Farms Dairy and Andy and Jack's Batteries, to emerge on Blanshard where the road is at present divided by a parking island.

The section of Rose which now links the existing road with Blanshard from Bay Street will be eliminated when the new section comes into use.

Although used as highway now the small section, angling from Bay to Blanshard, is city-owned property and will be sold for private development.

It is understood that the owners of Holyrood House are interested in purchasing some of the property for parking and possible expansion.

MAIN HIGHWAY

Once phase two is completed Rose Street will be the main highway out of the city and will form the western boundary of the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal project.

Blanshard will remain in existence—but only as far as Kings where it terminates at the southern boundary of the low-rental housing project.

Final word on the construction of 180 housing units in the area is expected this week.

It is hoped that completion of the new houses and the last road link could take place at approximately the same time to bring to a conclusion the first major phase of the urban renewal program now more than two years in preparation.

deferred-interest loan of up to $3 million to save Commonwealth Trust from bankruptcy.)

Sigurdson's letter set out assets of CSP at $5,905,824, most of it in property, according to a Feb. 10 estimate.

LIABILITIES

The liabilities totalled $9,200,073, including $1 million in unpaid interest owing its depositors who held $5,552,044 in deposits and investment contracts.

Other liabilities included $537,998 in income taxes due, $2,074,974 owing to other companies in the Commonwealth group and $35,057 in accounts payable.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the provincial government last November refused a plea by its own appointed manager of Commonwealth Trust that it deposit some provincial funds —covered by special guarantees—with the firm.

The pleas was made by A. D. Peter Stanley one week before RCMP were ordered to seize huge amount of documents from 35 companies in the group while several firms and individuals had their assets frozen by court orders.

The provincial government's public actions touched off a rush by depositors to withdraw their money from the trust company but Stanley was able to obtain an immediate $3.5 million line of credit from the federal CDIC which enabled him to keep the firm going despite the B.C. refusal to help financially.

His appeal to the provincial government, among hundreds of documents tabled in the Legislature last week, was made in an Oct. 30 letter to deputy finance minister Gerald Bryson.

Bryson replied Nov. 12 that he could not "see how the government (of B.C.) would entertain the thought of making deposits with the Commonwealth Trust Company or any of its subsidiaries."

Canada Doesn't Want Missile Protection

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he is not interested in gaining more U.S. missile protection for Canadian cities if that means a greater danger to peace.

He gave this reply in the Commons several times as the opposition quizzed him on the Washington announcement Friday that the U.S. will go ahead with an anti-ballistic-missile (ABM) system with two of the bases in North Dakota and Montana.

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker asked whether Canada has consulted the U.S. on moving these two bases farther south.

He said any counterattack from the two sites would cause radioactive fallout from Penticton to the Lakehead.

. . . SEPARATISTS

Mr. Bertrand's comments on separatists appeared to be a warning to four or five UN members of the national assembly who would like the party to take a stronger nationalist line.

THINKS ALL WILL STAY

However, he told reporters that he did not expect, nor was he asking for, any members of the 56-man caucus to resign.

The national council is made up of about 400 members, including three delegates for each of the province's 108 electoral ridings plus the 56 members of the Union Nationale caucus.

But the leadership convention will assemble more than 2,200 delegates—21 from each riding, including seven people under 30 from each riding.

This will be the second leadership convention in the 33-year history of the Union Nationale, founded as a coalition of conservatives and nationalists by the late premier Maurice Duplessis in 1936.

At the party's first leadership convention, held here in 1961, Mr. Bertrand lost by 94 votes to Mr. Johnson at a meeting marked by charges of voting irregularities.

As a leadership candidate, Mr. Bertrand said he proposes to lead the Union Nationale along "an intermediate course," between "the adventure" of separatism and "the status quoa La Trudeau," of the Liberals.

PARENTS WIN FIGHT TO CUT SPEED LIMIT

NELSON (CP) — The speed limit on Highway 3 — will be reduced in the Thrums area, where parents removed their children this week after a boy was injured when hit by a logging truck.

Regional Highways Maintenance Engineer P. B. McCarthy said the department was advised Friday that the speed limit will be reduced on a two-mile stretch.

Magistrate William Evans, who had also been approached by the parents said he had been advised by deputy attorney-general Dr. G. D. Kennedy that the speed limit will be reduced.

A woman who witnessed the break-in of a jewelry store was relating the incident to an investigating officer.

"Well, this large van pulled up in front, a man hopped out, dragged an elephant out of the back of the truck and took him to the front door.

"The elephant pushed the door open, the man grabbed up a bunch of stuff, then they both ran back to the truck and escaped."

"I see," said the officer. "What kind of elephant was it, ma'am?"

"What do you mean?" asked the woman.

"I mean was it an African elephant or an Indian elephant?"

"I don't think I know the difference," said the woman.

"Well, an African elephant has large, wavy ears and an Indian elephant has short-cropped ears."

"Oh," said the woman. "Then I can't help you there. This one was wearing a stocking over his head."

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Now is the time when the semi-annual bulletin about stomach ulcers is due. The bad season for those who suffer from ulcers is about to come again. Doctors have noted that about a week or so after the first day of spring their ulcer patients begin straggling into the waiting rooms.

Stomach ulcers sometimes come on with the change of seasons. October is just as bad a time for those who have ulcers as is late March and April.

Doctors say they wish they knew why duodenal ulcers flare up in March and October. People who have had little or no pain from ulcers during the winter know that they won't be so comfortable when spring comes. They look forward, however, to summer, because real warm weather is a time when ulcers may quiet down and stay that way — until fall.

Bill Seeks to Eliminate 'Delinquent' Stigma

By JOHN SLINGER

The legislature Friday gave first reading to a bill seeking to remove the Dickensian stigma from juvenile delinquents.

It would have the law and the community view a troubled youngster with a problem as simply "a troubled youngster with a problem," said Welfare Minister Dan Campbell.

The bill, amending the Protection of Children Act, repeals the Training-Schools Act, and gives the provincial child welfare superintendent and youth resources panel wide discretion in choosing a "child care resource" to best help a youngster.

These resources will be used when a child in trouble, even to the extent of being sentenced in court under the federal Juvenile Deliquents Act, is referred to the superintendent.

The resources include a child's own home, or a foster home, group-living home, community-sponsored home, diagnostic centre, day-care centre or "any other facility established for the care, treatment, training and rehabilitation of children."

CHILD CARE RESOURCE

Among these are the Brannan Lake School for boys and Willingdon School for girls which, said Campbell "will continue as a child care resource to which those children who will most benefit from the schools varied and active program will be referred."

The minister said the legislation will better permit "formation and carrying out of an individual treatment plan specifically designed and administered to meet the unique needs of a particular child."

New to the act is the requirement that a child be given a complete medical examination before being placed in any of the child care resources. Campbell said this has been in practice for a number of years.

Among non-government bills introduced Friday, were a bill to amend the Insurance Act and a bill to amend the Landlords and Tenants Act.

Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver East) introduced the latter, calling it "a bill of rights" for tenants.

Berger said his bill would place a one-year freeze on rents to new tenants and would require a landlord, after giving notice of a rent increase, to sit down and negotiate with tenants and "agree on a fair increase."

The member said that in the current desperate housing situation, it is imperative that some control be placed on rent increases until more housing units are available.

Asked by a reporter whether he favored some sort of arbitration body, such as a rent review board, to settle landlord-tenant disputes, Berger said he did but he could not ask for it in his bill. Only government bills can include sections that would require expenditure.

"It is clear," he added, "landlords should have to justify tax increases."

Garde Gardom (L — Vancouver-Point Grey) introduced the insurance bill that would provide greater uniformity in licensing insurance adjusters and ensure equivalent standards by extending the examination and licensing requirements throughout the industry.

Buddhist Monk Convicted Of Harboring Deserters

SAIGON (AP) — A militant Buddhist leader already sentenced to 10 years at hard labor was convicted today of harboring and assisting deserters and draft dodgers. He was given a second sentence of five years in solitary confinement, to run concurrently with the other.

The monk, Thich (Venerable) Thien Minh, did not attend today's trial saying he was "too tired" and would accept whatever verdict the court handed down.

His first sentence, for harboring conspirators and illegal possession of weapons, excplosives and Communist documents, was imposed Saturday. He has denied all the charges.

The first trial brought a heated protest from the An Quang Buddhist sect, which called the verdict "unjust and inhuman."

Thich Tri Quang, once the most powerful Buddhist leader in South Vietnam, emerged Sunday from two years of seclusion in a pagoda and accused the United States of helping President Nguyen Van Thieu repress Buddhists.

The monk led the Buddhist movement which played a big part in the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime in 1963.

INFLUENCE DECLINED

Tri Quang's last public appearance was in late 1967, when he conducted a hunger strike in front of the presidential palace. Since then he has remained in relative seclusion, and his political influence has declined.

He said no violence is planned to protest Thien Minh's imprisonment, but added; "We have other forms of protest."

He did not elaborate, but his remark recalled the self-immolations of Buddhist monks protesting the Diem regime.

Two army sergeants and a corporal tried with Thien Minh were convicted of desertion and sentenced to prison terms ranging from two to five years. On Saturday eight young men were sentenced to terms ranging from three to 20 years for illegal possession of weapons and actions against national security.

The two trials before the Saigon and 3rd Corps military courts followed Thien Minh's arrest in a police raid Feb. 23 at the Buddhist youth centre he directed.

VIET CONG SUFFERS HEAVY DEATH TOLL

SAIGON (AP) — United States, Thai and South Vietnamese forces killed 281 Viet Cong troops in heavy fighting around Saigon and in the Mekong Delta and uncovered 40 graves containing another 152 bodies south of Da Nang, military spokesman reported today.

U.S. infantrymen killed 131 Viet Cong in a series of five clashes during the weekend in the upper half of the Mekong Delta, the U.S. command announced.

Two Americans were reported wounded in the clashes Saturday and Sunday.

Thailand's Black Panther Division reported 400 of its men repulsed an attack early Sunday by more than 1,000 Viet Cong only 18 miles east of Saigon. The defenders said at least 109 Viet Cong were killed and four captured.

They said two Thais were killed and 19 wounded.

As the Viet Cong's spring offensive went into its 23rd day, about 30 rocket and mortar attacks were reported on military bases and towns Sunday night. Two were followed by infantry assaults on American bases northeast of Saigon.

Nine Viet Cong were killed in one of the attacks and 30 North Vietnamese soldiers died in the other. Ten Americans died in the first and one American was wounded in the second, U.S. sources said.

In another fight on Saigon's eastern flank, Viet Cong troops attacked a South Vietnamese military district headquarters before dawn Sunday after firing 20 mortar rounds into it. Two of the 100 militia defenders were killed and seven were wounded. Five civilians were reported killed and six wounded. A spokesman said two Viet Cong were killed and one captured.

U.S. headquarters also reported that six American helicopters were shot down and destroyed during the weekend. Three Americans were killed and seven wounded in the crashes. The losses raised to 2,436 the number of helicopters reported last in the war.

U.S. Marine Surrenders In Slaying

MIAMI (AP) — A 21-year-old United States marine deserter accused of murdering a fellow soldier-of-fortune at a secret Haitian guerrilla camp in the everglades surrendered to sheriff's deputies Friday.

Charles Smith, 21, a Haitian, gave himself up as a posse of deputies arrived at the camp 50 miles west of Miami, where police say the guerrillas were training for an invasion of Haiti.

Sheriff Robert Brown had issued a wanted-for-murder bulletin for Smith Thursday, accusing him of killing Gerald D. Baker during a live ammunition manoeuvre Tuesday.

Baker died en route to a Miami hospital, and deputies came to the camp to investigate. They arrested 12 men—a Canadian, an American and 10 Haitians. The 12 were charged Thursday as accessories to murder.

Objectives Secure

THE CONTINUING WARLIKE actions of Russia and China continue to astonish Western observers and so far no one has come up with the true explanation for the high-pressure frenzy with which the current mutual onslaughts, both military and verbal, are taking place.

The objective of the latest fighting—an insignificant sandy island in the Ussuri River on the border near Vladivostok — is hardly important enough from any point of view to warrant a serious international incident. Yet the island has been the scene of a number of clashes in recent years, and both sides, claiming ownership of the territory, have built up sizable military forces in the area.

The facts, including the vehemence of the recent diplomatic reactions on both sides, suggest that the island on which border guards have been slain is merely a focal point for international anger arising from other, much deeper causes. The ideological dispute over fundamental Communist procedure has been raging at various levels between Peking and Moscow for more than a decade, and today appears to be more divisive than ever. The Chinese assert that Lenin urged military force as the only effective means of spreading Communism into other lands. Russia — and particularly under Mr. Khrushchev's regime — argues that in the modern world the conflict must be economic rather than military.

Against this background, the Ussuri River fighting and the massive public demonstrations which have since been staged in both countries may be strongly suspected of serving as a preparation for the congress of the Chinese Communist Party which will be held very soon. This conference will be an occasion for Peking to strengthen its influence over the Communist delegates who will attend from other countries, and perhaps make a significant bid for the leadership of world Communism.

To discredit Russia as a perpetrator of reckless armed provocation against a neighbor would obviously be in China's interests at this time. And a hint of this same trend could be seen in recent Peking charges that Russia was acting in a suspiciously friendly manner toward the United States. Such a wish to stand out as the only simon-pure anti-capitalist power would also explain China's sudden cancellation of projected talks in Warsaw with United States representatives.

If this is indeed the substance of Peking's attitude and actions today, it can only be said that the Communist Chinese leaders are dealing in an exceedingly dangerous manner by rousing the whole population to such a pitch of hatred. Exhortations to be ready for war and to defend the "sacred soil" of China are risky in a nuclear age, particularly when addressed to more than 700 million Chinese. If China were already a major nuclear power, rather than one with merely a foot in the door of the nuclear club, such pyrotechnics would be of serious world concern. Clearly there is a big job of world organization to be done unless nuclear armaments are to grow from their present state as an ominous background threat, to become an active hourly menace to mankind.

Blood on the Screen

ONE OF THE MANY WAYS IN which Canada is closely bound to the United States is through television. Most Canadians live close enough to the border to pick up at least one U.S. station, while our home-grown networks are heavily laden with American content, despite the brave efforts of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Viewers in this country therefore seem sure to benefit from a government study ordered by President Nixon into the effects of violence portrayed on television. The relationship between crime and violence in society and the content of so many television programs will be the particular concern of the commission.

Although the special panel is presumably starting without preconceptions so it can weigh all the evidence, including defensive arguments by the networks, there can be little doubt that such a relationship exists. The question for the commission to answer will be to what extent, and what should be done about it.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover estimates that the average American child by the time he reaches 15 has witnessed on the television screen the violent destruction of 13,000 human beings. In another survey it was found that two TV channels in one American city showed during one week 2,696 acts of violence and 1,261 agonizing deaths. These figures include only the crime programs and not the large number of fictional war films or newsreel clips of the real thing in Vietnam. Even the cartoons are criticized by some child behavior experts. Psychiatrist Dr. Albert Bandera of Stanford University says children learn aggressiveness more quickly watching cartoons than from seeing actors portraying the same violence.

Some psychologists argue that exposure to make-believe violence can have healthful effects through sublimation, by helping man act out his aggressive instincts harmlessly. But this is like saying cigarettes are good because they help ease tension. The climate of violence that exists in society today is at least partly fed by the constant exposure on television and other media.

The television industry has begun reluctantly to accept government restrictions on cigarette advertising, and it is encouraging to see that a serious step now appears to have been taken toward curbing excessive TV violence.

Broaden Their Horizons

STUDENT MILITANTS ARE fond these days of quoting Marx and the Thoughts of Chairman Mao or proclaiming the wisdom of Che Guevara as the key to our salvation. Whatever their doctrines may have achieved for the people of Russia, China or Cuba, it is another thing to suggest they offer a panacea for North America.

The words may sound inspiring, but what about the reality? Perhaps the best way of convincing the student rebels that all political systems have their disadvantages is to let them see at first hand the application of these other doctrines.

That is just what a prominent U.S. sociologist, Dr. Lewis Feuer, now teaching at the University of Toronto, proposes. He wants governments and universities to establish fellowships allowing student activists to study in any country of their choice. This is not merely the stock reactionary gambit of "If you don't like it here why don't you go to Russia," but a plan that seems to offer a number of advantages worth considering.

The obvious one is the lesson likely to be learned that things aren't always greener on the other side. Students everywhere are unsatisfied with the methods and values of their elders, as well they might be, and it could be instructive for some of our students to come into contact with Russian or Chinese students grousing about the deficiencies of their own society.

On another level, any step that increases contact between East and West and breaks down the barriers of ignorance and misunderstanding is worthwhile. Mixing of different cultures and ideologies at the student level could be our best hope for world peace.

And of course an added fringe benefit of Professor Feuer's plan would be that it might help to take the heat off some of our embattled campuses through the absence of some of the most militant student leaders.

Portents of Danger in Our Rising Debt

IN the light of Robert Stanfield's conviction, expressed in a thoughtful Vancouver speech, that Canadian inflation is out of control, it is difficult to see how the Conservatives can make a persuasive case against the government's decision to abandon the Northumberland causeway. It was obviously a hard and embarrassing decision, bound to infuriate the islanders and virtually an admission of past folly. But the promise was irresponsible when made and it would be more irresponsbile to seek to implement it in present circumstances. Precisely because the decision is hard, it may help to convince the public that the government is at last in earnest and thus reinforce the efforts being made by the Bank of Canada through the new seven per cent bank rate.

Western

One of the dangers is that the ministers may take comfort too soon; that too much wishful thinking may go into their readings of the indicators. This has been the record: warnings, gestures, then yielding to spending pressures on the assumption that a bit of trimming has already restored the situation. For appearances may be very deceptive; it is quite possible to have a latent inflationary threat without visibly dangerous manifestations.

Crocodile in Stream

This was the situation some years ago when the government chose to ignore what one very eminent official described as a crocodile on the bed of the stream. Unhappily it did not remain passive but rose to mangle the economy. It would be foolish to assume that it is satiated yet.

The spending habits of the government, which acted for years as if the sky was the limit, have led to a disproportionate increase in the money supply. When the minister of finance runs a cash deficit, increasing government debt for both current and capital account, new money is created as borrowings are acquired by the central or commercial banks.

Unlike prudent consumers, governments rarely pay off debts; they simply re-borrow, coaxing lenders with various high-priced devices to take their new issues. We have reached a point at which, even with the present steep rates of interest, it is extremely difficult for the government to market long-term bonds. Such are the inflationary expectations that lenders are reluctant to tie up their funds for extended periods.

If the government could dispose of its bonds to people already holding bank deposits, there would be a simple transfer of resources with no net increase in the money supply. But to a great extent bonds have been taken up by the central and commercial banks with two significant results.

As the government has spent its borrowings, the money pool has expanded. With more dollars available, competition among purchasers has pushed up prices. In such circumstances the tendency to import also increases, as people bring in goods from outside or spend on trips to Hawaii or the Caribbean.

Loaded With Bonds

Meanwhile the banks have stocked up with far more government bonds than they would normally regard as necessary to protect their positions. They have a basis for a great expansion of deposits and an incentive to lend at rates more remunerative than bond interest. Bankers, once the most reticent of citizens, now beat paths to the customer's door.

Although the Bank of Canada in recent months has been doing its best to check the expansion of the money supply, there is now an inflationary potential in the economy, of which we may not yet have felt the thrust. Obviously there must be some expansion in a normal year to take care of increasing business activity but it would appear from the statistics that this has been outpacing the rise in GNP and has also been exceeding the increase in the United States (which has latterly come under strong criticism from influential economists).

The situation in the neighboring republic bears comparison with that which obtained at the time of the Korean war. According to charts published by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, the rate of growth in the money supply has been running at about 8 per cent. This is well above the growth in GNP. But in Canada last year the money supply on the same basis increased by almost 15 per cent. The over-all figure, including actual coin and currency — which has not increased very much — shows a jump of nearly 11 per cent.

But this happened in what was supposed to have been a year of retrenchment. So Spartan was the mood last spring that the government even sought to reassure the financial community with the promise (revoked in the fall) of a balanced budget.

The weekly statistics published by the Bank of Canada are conveniently arranged to show the 12-month trend. Thus on Feb. 26, the gross public debt of Canada was $1,526 million higher than on the comparable date a year ago. (Politicians have discovered that this looks better if it is placed on a per capita basis; unfortunately new-born babes and newly arrived immigrants are not in a position to help much with the tax burden.)

Not only is it a bigger debt; it is also a more costly one. Thus between Sept. 18 and Feb. 19, the interest rate on a 1969 maturity increased from 5.75 per cent to 6.81; on a 1973 maturity from 6.46 to 7.09 and on a 1983 maturity from 6.62 to 7.41. There is, in addition, the well hidden but very sizable cost of handling new issues and redemptions since commissions have to be paid.

As at Feb. 19, the Bank of Canada owned $657 million more of the debt than a year ago; the chartered banks $789 million more. The public owned slightly less; since January, 8 people evidently have been cashing bonds and the holdings of the Bank have been rising as the government borrows to pay them off. There are portents of danger in these statistics.

Letters

Litter

Are Victorians, in general, litter conscious? Not by the evidence to be seen on most streets and boulevards where the mess of discarded paper wrappers, cigarette packages, bottles, broken glass etc., would shame any self-respecting rural town.

Outdoors Unlittered Society, formed a year ago, has been trying by all means in it power to alleviate the litter problem. It has had limited success in spite of individual and organized clean-ups by its members and sympathizers.

We need active support from municipal councils, school boards and principals of schools where students of all grades are among the worst offenders. Education is important but often a slow and discouraging process. In the meantime the litter accumulates on boulevards, beaches and public parks.

The only immediate remedy is direct action by all householders in helping to keep their own vicinities clear of trash, plus their support of "Outdoors Unlittered." We need more members! Last summer we organized systematic clean-ups of various beaches and parks but that is a beginning only. Government action on non-returnable bottles, cans, etc., and litter law enforcement are still long awaited.

We urge everyone interested in a clean Victoria to join this organization. The treasurer is Mrs. K. E. Dickieson, 1597 Midgard Ave. Individual membership is $1.00, Family $2.00 and student 50 cents.

Form letters and other literature for distribution are available from Mrs. K. Sherman our chairman, phone 386-1965.

Conglomerates

New York Times

The conglomerate corporations that grow at a dizzy pace by taking over companies in unrelated industries are being subjected to a two-pronged attack from Washington. Assistant Attorney-General Richard McLaren, head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, serves notice that conglomerate mergers that lessen competition can and will be prosecuted under the monopoly laws. And chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee has introduced a bill that would eliminate most of the tax incentive for corporate takeovers.

The road to successful anti-trust prosecution is hard, and even so powerful a figure as Wilbur Mills may find it difficult to deprive the merger-makers of their tax glue. But if the growing concern in Washington does little more than slow down the merger gold rush, the critics of conglomerates have scored a point.

The Case for Compensatory Education

A LEADING American educationist has now said what none has dared to say before. He has said, first, that human intelligence mainly depends upon heredity instead of environment. And he has said, secondly, that black Americans suffer from a detectable average handicap in this respect, as compared with white Americans. It would be nice to be able to denounce these statements as mere ugly racist bosh. But one cannot do this with the formidably buttressed paper just published in the Harvard Educational Review by Dr. Arthur Jensen, professor of educational psychology at Berkeley and vice president of the American Educational Research Association.

Alsop

This is, in fact, a paper that has to be taken very seriously indeed. It is in line, too, with the accumulating evidence one finds in other learned journals, that differences of history and culture frequently produce quite dramatic genetic differences between human-breeding populations.

To illustrate, there are the Masai, the African warrior tribesmen who live almost exclusively on meat, blood and milk products. The diet is so high in cholesterol that all Masai should in theory die of hardening of the arteries before the age of 40. Instead, Dutch researchers have just discovered that natural selection has provided the Masai — but not their nearest neighbors, the Kikuyu — with a unique, still unexplained metabolic mechanism that somehow suppresses cholesterol.

Yet Dr. Jensen need not be taken seriously when he blandly dismisses "compensatory education" as a possible remedy for the grave problem he describes. This part of his paper is by no means marked by the careful sifting of all evidence that sustains the main argument.

Conventional Sneer

For example, Dr. Jensen includes the conventional educationist's sneer at the ill-success of New York City's Higher Horizons program in the high schools. He does not say, however, that Higher Horizons was the starveling misbegotten offspring of the decidedly successful Demonstration School Project. And he does not point out, either, that one failed where the other had got results, because of a very drastic cut in the per pupil investment.

The truth is, you cannot say that compensatory education is no remedy for the very simple reason that systematic, radical school improvement — a much better description — has never really been tried anywhere in the United States. High costs have been one main reason. We shall never have ghetto schools that really educate until the federal government pays most of the bill for them.

Another reason, considerably more discreditable, has been the doctrinaire hangups of ultra-liberal educationists. School integration was their unique remedy until just the other day. While that lasted, ghetto-school improvement was openly sabotaged as a supposed enemy of integration.

Belatedly, these doctrinaire liberals were then forced to face the cruel facts of our urban demographic patterns. Whereupon they leaped straight from integration to advocating a system of "community control" that might be made-to-order for George Wallace.

Slanted Report

Typical of the sabotage above-mentioned was the outrageously slanted report condemning the More Effective Schools program, comprising 21 New York primary and elementary schools. This is, in fact, the only serious-though-limited attempt to improve the ghetto school that has yet been made. Because of the saboteurs, it is now adrift and leaderless, though there are now reasons to hope that it will soon be rescued.

Even the MES program had obvious and grave faults, moreover. For instance, there were no rules-changes to prevent the enormously high rates of pupil turnover that are common in ghetto schools. And even MES was no more than a small initial experiment.

Truly systematic, overall school improvement should begin at the beginning, with diet supplements for pregnant women living in deep poverty, to insure full brain development of their babies. In the worst neighborhoods, the actual school experience should then start in pre-kindergarten, or even in pre-pre-kindergarten; for the younger the children are, the easier it is to overcome their language handicaps.

Back to 'McGuffey'

School improvement should extend, too, from primary and elementary school all the way to high school. It should include new textbooks, using the plain old teaching methods which, Dr. Jensen rightly remarks, work better with ghetto children — "McGuffey's Readers," let us say, with appropriate emphasis on black history. And it should also include a maximum of enriching after-school experience.

If rightly done and generally done, all this will cost billions of dollars per annum. But no price is too high to pay to equip the next generation in the ghettos to compete on equal terms in American society.

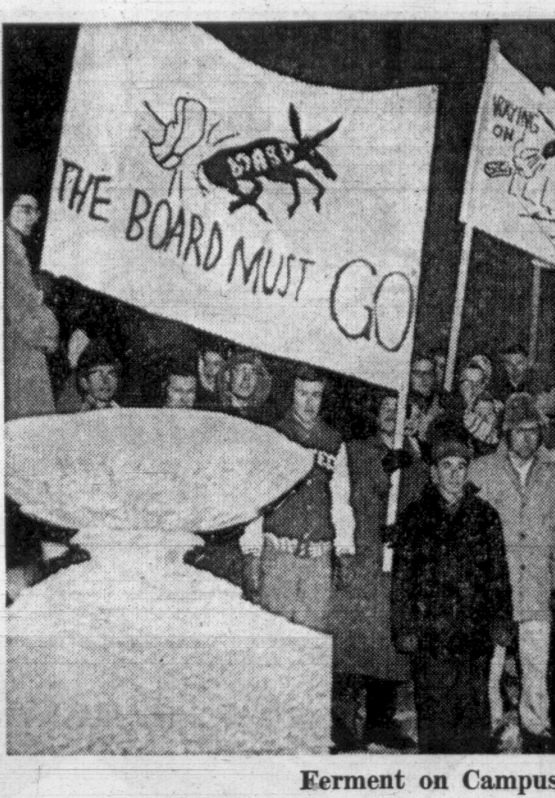
'Academics Must Stop Sitting On Status Quo'

By GORDON VICHERT

(Dr. Vichert is associate professor of English at McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont.)



THE BOARD MUST GO
BOARD
THE FINE OLD COLLEGE TRADITION

Ferment on Campus

Just at the moment when our society needs them most, the universities of Canada are falling apart. The evidence for this is not so much in the spectacular upheavals, at Simon Fraser or Sir George Williams.

The signs of disintegration can be found rather in all the little surrenders and compromises, in the grains of sand steadily being washed away by a tide we can as yet perceive only dimly.

The government of Saskatchewan, distressed by the ribaldry of its own youth, threatens the academic freedom of its university.

Professors at York take to the press with veiled threats of a strike. Students at New Brunswick occupy the office of a fired physics professor.

Faculty and students join in an act of rebellion at Windsor, traditionally one of the most conservative universities in Canada.

At Toronto the president is subjected to repeated public indignities, while the faculty voluntarily proceeds to dismantle the honours program, a program which shaped the nature of higher education across the country.

And at British Columbia one of the most able university presidents in Canada finds his job impossible and resigns after serving for less than a year. These incidents are only the ones that come readily to mind; below the iceberg's tip lies a volume of unrest that we can only guess at.

Universal Unrest

Even the few examples above, however, support certain conclusions. In the first place, unrest is universal and not confined to any specific part of the country. Secondly, despite the tendency of the press to blame everything on student radicals, the evidence suggests that faculty have been trouble-makers as often as students, and that even governments and boards of governors have taken part in the process of disruption.

University administrators alone have not demonstrated; they must be the only part of the university community that has not been engaged in agitation.

But administrators are by definition somebody's servants. The problem is that all their potential masters are so busy sniping at each other that the poor administrator has no idea whose orders to follow.

Inevitably, therefore, if he is to make the university function at all, the administrator has to make up the rules as he goes along. Very few of today's buttoned-down, business-trained university executives are fitted for this role.

So as the pattern of the typical university emerges, it appears to be one in which faculty and students are trying, from different directions, to find theoretical cures for the illness which infects higher education, while the administration searches desperately for some immediate, pragmatic cure.

What has happened, and this is the most melancholy fact of all, is that the three estates of the university world, faculty, students, and administration, no longer have a common understanding of what a university should be.

Comedy, Tragedy

A very few years ago it was still possible to speak of a community of scholars, of "our university". None except the sentimental speak in those terms any longer.

In the confrontations now taking place, in the recurring images of insolent students and well-meaning, helpless professors, there is much comedy, but it is the comedy which illuminates high tragedy.

Canadians are much prouder of intellectual achievement than are Americans, but even Canadians do not often notice how important the universities have become in modern society. Ours is increasingly a Mandarin culture; degrees are held in almost superstitious reverence.

To introduce oneself in a beer parlour as a university professor is to invite the kind of awkward diffidence formerly reserved for priests.

And indeed the university has in our society largely replaced the church as the source of cultural and moral guidance. That it does a poor job is beside the point; the record of the church is not all that splendid either.

As the great originator of ideas, as the source of cultural enrichment, as the conscience of the nation: in all these roles the university is more important now than it has ever been.

It goes without saying that our material well-being also depends on the university, because now more than ever industry needs technological skill and the fruits of pure research.

The universities are not only vital to our productivity, however, they are also central to our hopes, to our aspirations about ourselves, and to our cultural heritage. This is why their fall has in it the elements of tragedy, why the casual destruction of our greatest institution implicates us all.

In retrospect it is easy to see that the trouble began in the unresolved tension between the university as ivory tower and as servant of society.

Until recently most students, and most faculty, believed that North American society was headed in the right direction, toward that blissful state of universal wealth and complete equality, in which the universities would provide cultural enrichment and moral stability.

Students saw the universities as training schools, and faculty, as long as they preserved what passed for academic freedom, were perfectly willing to serve the state.

One by one the independent universities of Canada disappeared. In all of Ontario only one remains, and the formerly-independent institutions are faced with the spectre of a California-style University of Ontario.

The sell-out has been complete and amazingly rapid, partly because it has been conducted with such tact and such convincing arguments. Society must have its doctors and engineers, its schoolteachers and University Women's Clubs.

No one in Canada can point to examples of gross interference by governments in academic matters. It is precisely because the dictatorship is so benevolent, and so subtle, that the level of frustration runs so high.

Lost Confidence

As long as the universities were content simply to affirm the values of affluence and the democratic way of life, no one needed to care that they had become servants of the government.

But a new generation has lost confidence in the American (and Canadian) way of life. Twenty years after the Second World War the old heroisms no longer apply.

And the universities, which should have provided a focus for this discontent, a place where new ideas and theories could be hammered out, are now too committed to the old order.

The academic is still free to say what he likes, but the radical would argue that academic freedom in an institution which serves a cruel and greedy social system is meaningless.

The academic in such a situation is like a night-club satirist performing for an audience of expense-account executives and their mistresses. They listen, and may even applaud, but remain untouched. Society can tolerate a few moralists, so long as technologists and managers continue to be produced.

If one really believes that Canadian society, as a branch-plant of the American economy, is becoming more and more incompetent and oppressive, and that the universities are too deeply involved in the structure of society to do anything more than apply a bit of plaster to its flaws, what is one to do?

Odd Compliment

Surely it is logical to argue that if one wishes to change the nature of society, one ought first to change the universities. In a perverse way it is a compliment to the power of the universities.

This, then, is the movement which we must all now face. Not every agitator is consciously trying to change Canadian society, but all are affected by a disillusionment with what Canada has become in the 1960s.

It is where hopes are highest, in the universities, that disillusionment is most profound. For many activists the feeling that the universites have become smug and out-of-touch is enough. For them it is also enough simply to destroy and disrupt; inevitably, they think, what emerges from the chaos must be better.

If we are to save the universities, we must recognize the strength of this feeling, and its implied diagnosis of our society. Because if the universities are indeed destroyed there is no hope for any of us. A society divorced from ideas is a dying society.

So the great urgency now is to make universities the instruments of constructive, rather than destructive, revolution.

An academic who maintains his traditional judicious detachment is not being impartial; he is inevitably favouring the status quo.

The very real danger now is that if academics refuse to help in the restructuring of society, they will find themselves swept away in its collapse.

Perhaps we should listen to Pierre Trudeau, back in the days when he, too, was an academic and a radical:

"The reason intellectuals do not become involved in necessary political reform is that they are too disgusted with a society that either ignores or despises them. But had trade unionists shown such reticence, they would long ago have lost all freedom. Take up the cudgels, for goodness sake! If our culture is in such pressing danger that you feel justified in bypassing the constitution, why not begin by ignoring the law: go on strike, refuse to pay your taxes, or, better still, demand that the federal government grant a tax reduction applicable solely to university professors."

It is not necessary for academics to be as lawless or as selfish as this appeal demands. Academics are not ignored or despised nowadays; they are pampered, largely because they are so useful and so harmless.

Unless they take up the cudgels on behalf of real freedom and real equality, however, they are doomed.

'Letting the Peasants Into the Cathedral'

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

There's pathos in the story that Mr. Trudeau is to find time in his crammed life for a weekly luncheon with a varying quartet of Liberal backbenchers. It's a touch of grace, like letting the peasants into the cathedral and then giving them at least one close look at the altar.

Fisher

Poor brothers to the ox . . . to get a second glimpse of glory to match the wondrous election night when their success gives reason to support a new head of state.

Are we being bitter? For a lolligag of Grit MPs? Mildly compassionate; that's how we feel for them, especially for the new ones.

They come to Ottawa fresh and eager, the approbation of the electors dressing them in clothes of glory.

Crowe

Then, after the opening and the voice-flexing of the first half-dozen caucuses; after a few months of listening to dreary debates with no one begging them to speak or listening if they do, as the personal bills and duns begin to pile up as never before; after the thrill has disappeared from processing cranky, often losing cases of immigration and pensions and tax dilemmas of constituents; then (we repeat) disaffection appears in a few and disgruntlement among many of the government backbenchers.

If this fading of the rose occurs in each new Parliament one must be very careful not to give it too much significance. That is, make no cries of "Pierre, your sky is falling . . ."

★

The first symptoms we remember noticing of the weaknesses which eventually toppled the Diefenbaker government (1958-1962—huge majority) were the private comments of the backbencher MPs.

What were they? Early in the second session of that Parliament one met more and more MPs, who in conversation would make sardonic references to the Chief and to his lofty isolation.

At this same time there emerged the disenchantment with the bureaucrats. They didn't give a damn for MPs and minister after minister seemed to take the word of his officials or turn the MPs back to them for decisions and information.

We remember that these earliest rumblings tended to come from B.C. and Toronto MPs, probably because both places, as political regions, are volatile and crackle with criticism more than does the rest of Canada.

★

These early, internal reactions to the Diefenbaker regime didn't burst into the open for another three years. And when they did they seemed to come after public disenchantment, much abetted by press and business hostility.

Our point is that much of what was the stock criticism by 1962 was latent but there among Tory MPs long before.

Those first stirrings of chagrin and frustration could be summed up on the following points:

The Prime Minister was isolating himself from his MPs;

The ministry was postponing decisions and talking about having lots of time before the next election;

The ministers were now the captives of their officials, mired in both routine and expertise and studies;

★

The weekly caucus was lapsing back into a mere beef session, dominated by the loudest, and both the PM (when he came) and the other ministers were talking at it, if at all, not talking with it;

The proceedings of the House were being recognized as a charade, so far as MPs were concerned, a forum for the opposition and a few stars in the cabinet;

The committees of the House were taking a lot of time but most of the ministers were getting edgy and wanting party discipline to rule there, rather than so much freewheeling by government MPs with ideas and policy suggestions.

In the past month we've heard every one of these points made by Liberal backbenchers, particularly by the new ones and those from B.C. and Toronto.

We don't exaggerate the importance of it or even suggest that the history of '62 and '63 for the Tories will be repeated for the Grits.

After all, Mr. Trudeau is going to have lunch with them, four at a time, and that will probably dissipate the grievances.

O Salve Mio—More Frog Maidens

By RUSSELL BAKER
New York Times

Baker

WASHINGTON — The all-purpose opera, composed during a coma induced by a Saturday-afternoon broadcast of "Die Walkure," or perhaps "La Pasticerria de Seviglia":

As the curtain rises, we hear the ghostly Schwampmusick sung by the frog maidens of the Danube as they lament the fate that compels them to stand guard over the swampy approaches to the underwater summer palace of the Duke of Palermo.

Twenty fathoms down, there are distant sounds of rejoicing from the duke's household, as the chorus celebrates the birth of twins, Giulietta and Jaochim, to the happy ducal couple.

●

As the duke and his valet, Mazeppa, sing the joyous duet, "Nicht Ein, Aber Zwei," the frog maidens are approached by a mysterious gypsy who offers to tell their fortunes.

Singing the menacing song of the kidnapadors, the gypsy crone predicts that the frog maidens will immediately be turned into Wagnerian sopranos unless they give her an aqualung and the key to the palace door.

The frog maidens obey reluctantly, pleading, in the beautiful chorus, "Taken Sie Nicht Both Kinger, Alte Crone," for the gypsy to leave one baby for the duke. The gypsy agrees ("Ja, Ja, Ein fur Mir and Uno per Duco") as the curtain falls on Act I.

●

In Act II, the plot comes to a halt while Wotan and Thor sing the immortal "Lebensraumenlungenleid." ("Where Is the Life that Once We Led?") A 50-minute intermission follows to allow the audience to get prescriptions filled.

Act III opens at a gay wedding reception in Cadiz. Joachim, now a handsome young tenor disguised as a wastrel cavalier, is searching for his long-lost sister, Giulietta, kidnapped many years ago by the gypsies.

Accompanied by his father's faithful valet, Mazeppa, he observes the happy wedding celebration then pours out his heart to the valet in the beautiful "Papa non e Longo per Questo Mondo" ("I travel the World to Reunite Giulietta with Father Before He Dies").

Mazeppa's aria, "Est-ce-que Je ne le Sais pas Bien?" ("You're Telling Me!") draws the attention of the ravishing, fatally ill courtesan, Rosa Maria, who is the life of the wedding party. Flirting with the downcast Joachim, she sings the enchanting "Warum so Glum?" ("Cheer Up!").

Smitten with love, Joachim strides into the centre of the wedding party and leads the chorus in the soul-stirring "La Hababeera." Everyone joins him in hoisting huge tankards of beer and drinking, as the curtain falls on Act III.

Word that Joachim's search for Giulietta has foundered in Cadiz while he sings "La Hababeera" nightly to the voluptuous tubercular, Rosa Maria, has reached the dying Duke of Palermo during the intermission.

In the first scene of Act IV, the duke, arriving in Cadiz, begs Rosa Maria to take up residence in Paris and set Joachim free.

●

Sobbing and coughing, she agrees to go in the pathetic aria, "En France on dit 'Oui, Oui'." ("I Love Paris in the Autumn when It Drizzles.") The curtain falls.

In Scene II, Wotan goes mad, followed closely by Thor.

In Scene III, Joachim discovers that Rosa Maria is gone. Furious with his father, he tells him he loves Rosa Maria ("Rosa Maria, I Love You") and announces that he is going to Paris to dine with a statue who, he has reason to believe, knows Giulietta's whereabouts.

As Joachim storms out, the duke sings the murderous aria, "Was Gibt mit Statues Gemeeten?" ("That a Son of Mine Should Expect Me to Believe that Cock-and-Bull Story!")

In Act V, the duke, believing that Joachim has really come to Paris to meet Rosa Maria, arrives at the banqueting hall early and instructs the loyal valet Mazeppa to put poison in the wine to be given to Joachim's guest. Mazeppa, who has gone mad, agrees.

●

The statue arrives before Joachim and, to wet its whistle ("Ach, Ich Habe ein Thirst!") drinks the poisoned wine. The statue is dying when Joachim arrives. "Mort, Mort!" it screams.

"I'm not mort," sings Joachim, "I'm Joachim." ("Non Sono Mortone, Ich bin Joachim!" "And I," sings the statue, "am your long-lost sister Giulietta." She dies. Learning that he has murdered his own daughter, the duke kills himself. Joachim, crazed by the tragedy, curses Wotan and Thor. ("Basta, Wotane! Basta, Thorone!")

Infuriated, Wotan and Thor turn Joachim into a frog maiden as the dying Rosa Maria sings the timeless "O Salve Mio." ("Bring Me Some Salve.") Curtain.

Gradual Withdrawal From NATO Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — Escott Reid, onetime Number 2 man in Canada's foreign affairs, says he believes Canadian forces should be withdrawn from Europe.

Writing in The Globe and Mail, he says:

"I believe that Canada should negotiate with its North Atlantic allies the progressive withdrawal of Canadian armed forces from Europe, the withdrawal to be completed in about four years.

"I believe that over the next four or five years the Canadian defence budget should be reduced by about 50 per cent."

Much of the money spent on defence could be spent instead on aid to poor countries, which face "anarchy" if not helped, writes Mr. Reid, a senior official in the external affairs department until 1962 and now principal of Toronto's Glendon College.

Mr. Reid was acting under-secretary of state for external affairs from September, 1948, to March, 1949, "the period when the North Atlantic Alliance was conceived and brought to birth."

Now, he writes, NATO has been reduced to playing a secondary role in world affairs because of the gap between China and the rest of the world and because of the plight of the poor two-thirds of the earth.

He says the Canadian government should encourage and assist Canadian newspapers and Canadian news agencies to maintain representatives in China and also support the exchange of scholars and students with their Chinese counterparts.

ROGERS PASS OPEN; SNOW DANGER OVER

REVELSTOKE (CP) — The highways department reported Sunday the Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canada Highway had reopened after being closed for several hours because of high avalanche hazard.

A storm dumped 19 inches of snow overnight Saturday and made driving conditions hazardous, but the road was improved sufficiently to allow reopening early Sunday.

Four Crewmen Safe; Tracker Lands in Sea

HALIFAX (CP) — Four crew members were rescued uninjured Sunday night after their Canadian Armed Forces Tracker aircraft was forced to land in the Atlantic about 400 miles south of Bermuda.

The pilot, Sub-Lt. D. E. Harden of Dartmouth, N.S., ditched the aircraft after attempts to land on the aircraft carrier Bonaventure were unsuccessful because of malfunctioning controls.

Other members of the crew include Lieut. A. R. Nielson of Port Credit, Ont.; Leading Seaman J. L. Mulhall of Dartmouth, N.S. and Able Seaman R. N. Campbell of Virden, Man.

The crew members were picked up by the helicopter-destroyer Fraser.

The Fraser and Bonaventure, along with other ships and aircraft of Maritime Command, are taking part in the annual anti-submarine warfare exercise Maple Springs '69.

The crew members belong to the carrier-based VS880 Squadron from CFB Shearwater, Dartmouth.

WOMAN LIFTS CAR FRONT OFF CHILD

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) —As a four-year old girl lay screaming, trapped beneath a car, Betty Doherty, 35, who weighs 210 pounds, pushed through the crowd and tried to lift the car.

"To my amazement," she said Saturday, "the front right corner of the car came clear off the ground.

"Then I shouted to someone to grab the child."

The girl, Carmel Graham, now is home after two weeks in a hospital with head injuries.

A spokesman for Vauxhall Motors, which made the car, said Mrs. Doherty would have been lifting a weight of about 500 pounds.

Well-Trained Riot-Control Unit Ready

CHICAGO (AP) — It took him almost two years, but the sheriff of Cook County (Chicago) finally has a volunteer riot-control force. It's outfitted in khaki uniforms with black berets and scarves and paratroop-type boots.

Sheriff Joseph Woods has circumvented a Circuit Court decision, which held last year that a proposed 1,000-man riot control unit was illegal under the Illinois Constitution.

At the time, Woods received sharp criticism from Mayor Richard J. Daley and irate citizens sought and won the court injunction barring the unit's formation.

Woods is a former U.S. marine.

He proposed his volunteer force after the summer of 1967, when the western suburb of Maywood was disturbed by racial strife. At that time, Woods recruited some 250 bailiffs and process servers employed by his department to bolster his approximately 250 regulars, expecting their service to be temporary.

Woods says that relatively untrained and unorganized reserve riot force now has turned into a sharp-looking and well-trained 120-man riot control force.

The service is voluntary. The men train on Saturdays and are instructed by sheriff's police and the FBI in crowd control, firearms handling, riot tactics, judo and karate.

Subdivision Plans Made In Panhandle

New property lines are being drawn in parts of the Esquimalt panhandle.

Esquimalt engineer William Gerry said Friday the 20 properties out of 70 chosen for replotting have a potential of from three to 10 lots each.

"We take sections of property and erase all property lines," said Gerry. "Then we plan an access road and a subdivision plan.

"Finally we divide the property back into the percentage contributed by each owner, less what was required for road, and they have something which can be subdivided at a later date."

King Hussein Has Talks With Former U.S. Official

CAIRO (Reuters) — King Hussein of Jordan had an unscheduled meeting today with Robert Anderson, a former United States treasury secretary who had talks here last week with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

The meeting took place at the Kubbeh Republican Palace where the king is staying for two days during talks with Nasser on the Middle East crisis.

American sources have insisted that Anderson, now an international financier, is here on a business trip connected with the sale of Boeing 707 planes to the United Arab Airlines.

But Anderson's talks with King Hussein, following an earlier meeting with the Egyptian president and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, increased speculation that he might also be giving Arab leaders an opportunity to express their feelings on the explosive Middle East situation.

AGREE ON POLICY

Hussein conferred with Nasser Sunday night and they were said to have reached complete identity of views on tackling the crisis.

The authoritative Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram said the talks had special significance following indications there would be more co-ordination between the eastern and western Arab fronts facing Israel.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Abdel Moneim Rifai, taking part in the meetings here, made clear in a newspaper interview his country sets no great store by efforts to find a political solution.

"We should depend first of all on the military buildup," he said.

NATO WARSHIPS BEGIN ANTI-SUB EXERCISES

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters)—Twenty-two NATO warships began anti-submarine exercises in the eastern Mediterranean today amid reports of a similar manoeuvre by the Soviet Black Sea fleet in the area.

The Soviet operations were reported to involve three submarines—one of them nuclear-powered—and other vessels operating from Latakia in Syria.

A NATO spokesman would neither confirm nor deny reports of the Soviet exercise but said NATO ships and planes would be observing any Soviet naval activity in the area.

The 11-day NATO exercise, code-named Early Affair, involves ships from five NATO powers—the United States, Britain, Greece, Italy and Turkey—gathered off the southwest coast of Turkey.

SOCIAL CREDIT DEAD AS DODO, SAYS AUSSIE

Down in New Zealand the word is that Social Credit is dead as a dodo.

The Auckland Herald quoted National Party MP H. J. Walker to that effect after he visited Alberta and British Columbia.

A spate of letters to the editor, is split on the question; one came all the way from Sidney, V.I.

A file of clippings mailed to The Times starts with Walker's assertion that "no country in the world has ever accepted a Social Credit government.

"And in the latest federal elections in Canada the few remaining Social Credit members lost their seats."

LITTLE SUPPORT

In New Zealand the party, after 30 years, could win only 14½ per cent of the total votes cast, he added.

He said Social Credit assumed power in Alberta in 1935 but not a single Social Credit theory ever has been put into effect.

He admitted some Socred legislation was disallowed by the federal government and declared illegal and unconstitutional, legislation to repudiate Alberta's debt, to cancel land mortgage, to issue paper money and to take control of newspapers and radio.

"It is interesting to note that today in the province of British Columbia, where in name there is a Social Credit government, there is the highest per capita debt in Canada, Walker added.

Earl Letourneau of Sidney wrote to Auckland to point out B.C. residents can buy everything they want without shortages and enjoy living standards higher than New Zealand.

"We can own and afford to run, two late model American cars in one family.

"And our Social Credit government has not gone begging and borrowing all round the world . . ."

A New Zealander wrote to say Canada's two Socred provinces lack the power to apply their theories.

Another letter writer suggested ". . . if our own finance minister too a leaf out of (Premier) Bennett's book, he could, with some considerable juggling, make our debt appear respectable."

Still another correspondent says New Zealand could practise Social Credit pure theories on a national basis and make them work. There is little in common between the league in N.Z. and Social Credit in Canada.

A fifth letter asks regarding B.C. Social Credit:

NON-EXISTENT DEBT

"What magical spice does it add to the ink it uses to camouflage high interest payments on its non-existent provincial debt?"

The sixth letter says of the no-debt assertion of Premier Bennett:

"People who know the situation will give that assertion a hearty horse-laugh.

"Official claims to freedom from debt are sustained only because of figure juggling by the government of Premier Bennett."

He signs himself "Anti-Humbug."

CANADIAN TRANSPLANT MAN DIES

MONTREAL (CP) — The last person to undergo a heart transplant operation in Canada in 1968 died Friday of a cerebral thrombosis that struck him a week ago and left him partially paralysed.

Gerald Levesque, 54, of Grande Anse, N.B., received his replacement heart Nov. 29, the 14th Canadian recipient and the ninth at the Montreal Heart Institute.

Three recipients, one in Montreal and two in Toronto, are still living. There have been no other heart transplant operations in Canada since the one on Mr. Levesque.

Reds Demand Resignation Of Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Communist party, after a two-day conference, Sunday demanded the resignation of Premier W. A. C. Bennett for his handling of the Commonwealth Trust affair.

Provincial leader Nigel Morgan said members oppose the proposed $3,000,000 loan to Commonwealth but want the government — which had displayed "devious dealings" — to protect small investors.

The party gave no total but reported an increase of 27 members from a year ago. Many quit and half a dozen were fired last December in a split over Russian intervention in Czechoslovakia.

Defections Increase

SAIGON (AP) — More than 100,000 Communists have defected to the government in the Vietnam war, South Vietnamese officials said Saturday. Officials claim defections have been steadily rising, with 16,000 Viet Cong coming into the government fold in 1968 and 6,660 in the ifrst nine weeks of 1969.

More Violence In E. Pakistan

KARACHI (Reuters) — Workers marched through the East Pakistan capital of Dacca today as strikes hit both the western and eastern provinces of the country.

The strike in Dacca—called by the pro-Peking National Awami party to protest an apparent attempt Saturday to kill its 86-year-old leader Maulana Bhashani in West Pakistan—seemed to be successful.

But in Karachi, a strike call by leftist workers to press for pay increases was only partially observed.

Most textile mills were reported shut and 90 per cent of the city's buses were off the roads, but taxis and rickshaws stayed at work.

The strikes followed a weekend of violence in East Pakistan in which four policemen were killed.

In Dacca today, the streets were empty apart from the marching workers, some bicycles, ambulances and reporters' cars.

DEMAND AUTONOMY

The workers are demanding autonomy for East Pakistan, home of about 60 per cent of the country's 125,000,000 citizens.

At least 150 Pakistanis have died since November, when civil unrest against President Mohammed Ayub Khan's government erupted into violence.

Now both leftists and rightists accuse each other of threatening civil war, as the power struggle develops for the succession to Ayub, who has said he will not contest a 1970 presidential election.

Bhashani has just signed a pact with former foreign minister Zulficar Ali Bhutto, a prominent leftist leader, to bring socialism to Pakistan and rid the country of foreign influence.

Rebates on Water Bills Possible at Mill Bay

By ED GOULD

MAPLE BAY — Ratepayers here who have been complaining about the quantity and quality of water from North Cowichan's south end water supply may be able to avoid paying.

The Maple Bay Ratepayers' Association has been told in a letter from J. D. Baird, deputy inspector of municipalities, that it may be possible to "take action in the small debts court for a declaration voiding the charges until a portable water supply is provided."

The response by Baird came as the result of a query by a ratepayer acting on his own behalf.

Water from Quamichan Lake was used during January and February because of a shortage of water from the municipal well supplying this area due to a break in the line. Also, a burned-out pump was not discovered until the reservoir went dry. Metered water was used from Duncan for a short period.

REGULAR SUPPLY

Mayor Don Morton said the area is now back on its regular supply of water but many residents have complained of rust and silt in the supply and a disagreeable flavor caused by an increased amount of chlorine.

"I do not think that a municipality engaged in the business of supplying water should be in any more favorable position than a merchant or other commercial enterprise who bills a person for unsuitable or unuseable merchandise or for goods and services which in fact were not provided," Baird said.

The matter of whether a rebate should be requested for "inferior" water pumped to the South End during the two months is to be given further consideration at the next ratepayers' meeting.

Beaten Hotelman Improving

CHEMAINUS — A Chemainus hotelman beaten and robbed at the Green Lantern Hotel early Saturday is semi-conscious but "improving" in Chemainus General Hospital.

Austin Kennedy, 65, was found in his hotel room about 1:30 a.m. suffering from head injuries after a passerby reported finding a money bag behind the hotel.

The bag, used to carry cash and cheques from the hotel desk to Kennedy's suite in the hotel, was empty. The cheques were later recovered by about $1,000 in cash is missing, RCMP said.

Police are continuing to investigate but said today they have been unable to interview Mr. Kennedy because of his condition.

A hotel clerk said, "There was plenty of opportunity for someone to stay in the hotel after closing time and jump him from behind one these old, twisty corridors."

Four More Homes Hit at Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — RCMP are looking for a gang of thieves believed to be responsible for a rash of break-ins in private homes in the village during March.

Four similar break-ins were reported during the weekend to bring the total to 12.

Obviously looking for money, the thieves have taken only small goods, "a sweater here, a bottle of whisky there," a police spokesman said.

FURNEY

Pot-Hole Fairway Flattened . . . Sorry for Inconvenience

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

PORT McNEILL — Plans for the second Great International Pot-hole Golf Tournament almost never got off the ground over the weekend.

It was discovered Saturday night the department of highways had graded the proposed course to a smooth finish. No pot-holes!

The event was to be held on the uncompleted road from Port McNeill to Port Alice as part of a scheme to draw attention to the residents' demands for a road to the north of the Island.

The situation was saved when Chamber of Commerce members jumped into the breach.

First they rounded up a load of dynamite with which they intended to blast suitable holes in the road in preparation for the Sunday morning game. Driving rain doused the fuses but nothing would stop them.

They commandeered a bulldozer and hurriedly gouged enough ruts to create a hazardous 262-hole course, a mile long.

Hundreds watched a team of newspapermen from the legislative press gallery defend the cup it won last year.

There was some doubt as to the accuracy of the final calculation but Gerry Furney, swearing it was a computerized count, announced the broadcasters' team, led by CKNW's Maurie Gwynn, had toppled the scribes.

Prior to the game, guests had been hauled from their beds at the crack of dawn to witness the dedication of last year's pot-hole golf course, which as Furney commented, "had in the meantime been so cruelly blacktopped by the department of highways."

The tournament was part of a weekend's activities that had included dancing, speeches and high hinks.

Furney, publicity chairman for the Chamber of Commerce, said, "We've been cut off from the rest of the Island long enough. The Incredible Gap must go."

"We feel justified in asking for federal and provincial government participation in building the road between Kelsey Bay and Beaver Cove," stated Chamber president Verne Robinson in a dinner speech.

"It would mean redesignation of the Trans-Canada Highway on Vancouver Island. If the federal government will recognize our existence nothing will stand in the way of running the Trans-Canada Highway north from Nanaimo right to downtown Winter Harbor."

"If you pay half, we'll pay half," said Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell in a challenge to Liberal candidate Richard Durante (Comox-Alberni), who also attended the dinner.

With that the Port Hardy Chamber members rushed in carrying a huge blank cheque which they demanded that Campbell sign. Durante followed suit, as did NDP candidate Tom Barnett.

The local access road was christened Campbell Way and the minister hit a ball, which tripped an axe, which chopped a ribbon to officially open the road.

As the last busload of guests pulled away, calling out they would be back next year, Verne Robinson turned smilingly to a companion, "If the federal government does give us our road," he mused, "then what will we do for fun?"

The Gospel Arrives on Wheels

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Gone are the days when Shantymen carried the gospel to remote corners of Vancouver Island in the mission ship Messenger III.

Starting immediately, the work will be done by a jumbo-sized camper truck known as the Messenger IV.

Why? Because practically ever settlement on Vancouver Island can now be reached by road. At one time many could only be reached by water.

"The ship was more romantic," said Rev. Percy Wills, of Victoria, superintendent of the Shantymen's Christian Association, "but, like everyone else, we have to move with the times.

"By building so many roads, the government has made our mission ship obsolete."

The Shantymen's first mission-on-wheels — "a 22-foot green and white unit — was dedicated to God's service Friday afternoon by Rev. Wills.

In charge of the camper are Mr. and Mrs. Don Robertson of Courtenay, long-time workers for the Shantymen's Association.

They travelled in the mission ship Messenger III when it was commanded by Capt. Harold Peters and was known to every port and inlet on the Island.

The Messenger has been Sold to Blayney Scott and Jack Case of Victoria.

"It has a great history," Robertson said. "At one time the crew rescued a family from a burning house at Ucluelet. Another time they performed a mercy mission at the height of a November storm.

SERVICES IN GALLEY

"A woman suffering from a serious infection was moved from Estevan Point into quiet waters to enable the Tofino lifeboat to take her to hospital."

The Messenger carried seven persons, was equipped with twin Chrysler engines, two-way radio and a spacious galley, where services were held and emergency operations sometimes performed.

The new Messenger has two bunks, refrigerator, stove, a cupboard for clothes and a nook.

"It is adequate for two people," Robertson said. "Soon we shall have another camper truck, known as the Messenger V, and I think the two of them will be adequate for our mission.

"We go mostly into mining, logging and fishing camps, where there is no church and hold services either in bunkhouses or in the open air — depending on the weather.

"We didn't distribute food, as we used to, because most pretty well everyone on the Island is cared for nowadays. But there are still lonely old folks living in isolated communities, and we like to call on them now and then.

"We show all kinds of films and, at Christmas, we try to play Santa Claus wherever we can. There is always a shortage of toys at Christmas — no matter where you go."

Robertson was formerly postmaster for the federal government at Port Alice. It was during that time he began working in his spare time for the Shantymen.

The association is an inter-church organization providing religious and welfare services to people in remote places.

Its pride and joy is the Shantymen's Hospital — a long rambling structure overlooking the choppy waters of Tahsis Inslet, which cares for sick and inuured from up and down the West Coast.

Duncan IWA Pushes Contract Reopening

DUNCAN — International Woodworkers of America members here voted during the weekend to seek reopening of their contract for new negotiation because of increasing taxes and higher lumber prices.

The coast forest industry has already rejected the idea.

The contract expires in June, 1970.

'Mariners' Get $500 Toward Youth Centre

NANAIMO — About 75 canvassers from the Committee for the advancement of Youth collected $300 in an Ancient Mariner Trek here Saturday.

Wearing a rock in a plastic bag around their necks symbolic of an albatross, the youngsters canvassed the downtown area collecting funds to carry out their plan to convert the old Nanaimo fire hall into a youth centre.

Through the trek and a teen dance the committee collected $500 for its project.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — A weakness in oilseeds due to pressure of selling continued near the close of trading on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

A U.S. department of agriculture report that flaxseed acreage will be raised by 25 per cent this year has brought heavy selling pressure into flaxseed by local and commission houses. There was moderate exporter buying on oilseed declines with selling from local and commission houses.

Oats and barley saw a fair trading volume and commercial buying. Rye was under liquidation pressure meeting limited support from exporters on declines.

There was confirmation of sale of 100,000 bushels of flax and 40,000 bushels of rapeseed to Japan.

Friday's volume: flax, 596,000 bushels; rapeseed, 941,000 bushels; rye, 90,000 bushels.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 3 cents on the Board of Trade and led most other commodities lower.

Trade was fairly active and all facets were noted on both sides, but buyers were relatively scarce.

The principle factor in the general liquidation was a report the United States government issued Friday on the number of acres farmers planned to devote this year to major crops. The government forecast a 1969 production of 1,080,000,000 bushels of soybeans, 4,500,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,413,000,000 bushels of wheat. The wheat yield would be under the 1968 production but soybeans and corn would be just about what farmers produced last year.

There are surpluses of these three commodities now and these futures came under active selling pressures quickly.

— Growing With Victoria —

Plumbing Costs Jump to $11

Cost of emergency work and spot repairs charged by Victoria plumbers has gone up by $2.50 an hour for the first hour due to increased labor costs.

The new charge-out rate as suggested by the Victoria branch of Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Association is $11 an hour.

But as a spokesman for the industry said, this does not mean that $11 will be charged for each hour on the job, as circumstances, travelling time and other factor sare taken into accout as well.

Association president B. H. Johnson said members have no alternative than to charge the higher rate in order to stay in business. A few non-union firms, or with limited staff, may charge less than the association rate because of lower fringe benefits.

"We don't want people thinking that plumbers are going to be paid $11 an hour from here on in. Neither do we want them thinking that the plumbing contractor will be putting $11 an hour in pocket as profit.

"The fact is that fringe benefits, as well as labor costs, have risen so drastically in the past few years that to make even a slightly below-average profit the contractor must charge a minimum of $11 an hour plus 15 cents a mile for mileage if a truck is required on a particular job."

"We don't want people thinking that plumbers are going to be paid $11 an hour from here on in. Neither do we want them thinking that the plumbing contractor will be putting $11 an hour in pocket as profit.

"The fact is that fringe benefits, as well as labor costs, have risen so drastically in the past few years that to make even a slightly below-average profit the contractor must charge a minimum of $11 an hour plus 15 cents a mile for mileage if a truck is required on a particular job."

While the modern union plumber is paid $4.65 an hour as basic rate his actual cost to the man hiring him is $6.37 an hour.

It works this way: to the basic rate is added holiday pay, unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation, apprentice training, Canada Pension, health and welfare, and standard pension payments.

That gives a grand total of $5.51 an hour in cost to the employer.

The experts estimate that the average firm loses a minimum of 1½ hours a day in productivity through coffee breaks, travelling, cigarette lighting, conversation with home owners and rest breaks.

That amounts to 357 hours a year which are paid for by the employer while they actually produce nothing.

And that loss brings the actual labor cost to the employer to $6.37 an hour.

At $11 an hour does that give the employer $4.63 an hour while the technician gets $4.65. No.

From his $4.63 the employer pays the overhead on his business, the operational cost of his trucks and somehow squeezes the cash for specialist tools.

"I'm the first to admit that $11 an hour plus is a pretty frightening figure," Mr. Johnson said following the new rate announcement.

"But it is geared to the normal 10 per cent profit the contractor must make to stay alive—and I can assure you we are lucky if we make the 10 per net." Net profit average in Canada is about 1.5 per cent.

As in most business expenditures these days the bulk of the dollar paid for a a plubmer goes in wages, some 46 per cent of it.

The balance goes this way: rent, 12 per cent; industry affiliations, 1 per cent; operating costs (light, heat, telephone, etc.), 19 per cent; fringe benefits, 6 per cent; inventory and equipment plus maintenance and replacement, 5.9 per cent; apprenticeship training, .1 per cent.

"It is unfortunate that all the customer sees when a plumber is called is a skilled workman," Mr. Johnson said. "What they don't see is the amount of equipment and capital backing that workman."

Industrial Index Off

OTTAWA (CP) — A slackening off in manufacturing caused a decline of almost 1 per cent in the index of industrial production during January compared with the previous month.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics said the index dropped to 164.7 in January from 166.2, a drop of nine-tenths of 1 per cent from December, 1968.

The decrease in the index, a key economic indicator, ended a series of gains since last September.

Manufacturing fell off by 1.6 per cent in the period while mining and utilities scored advances of 2½ and one per cent, respectively.

Three-quarters of the decline in non-durable manufacturing was concentrated in foods and beverages, printing and paper. Textiles, chemicals and rubber products were responsible for the rest of the dip.

Partially offsetting these declines were gains in other non-durables, largest being in clothing which advanced by more than 5 per cent to its highest level since the summer of 1966.

IRON, STEEL DECLINE

The decline in durable manufactures was mainly in wood and in primary metals, and in the latter particularly in the iron and steel mills industry. Small gains in transportation equipment and in furniture and fixtures partially offset these declines.

In mining, nearly all of the gain was due to the sharp advance in metals which reached their highest level ever, largely because of increased iron ore and nickel output.

In utilities, most of the gain was due to increased natural gas consumption that was largely attributable to abnormally-cold weather in most of Canada.

$410 Million Bond Issue Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — Details of a bond issue of about $410,000,000 were announced today by Finance Minister Benson. It will be applied to 5½ per cent bonds due April 1 and for general purposes.

Details of the issue:

Union Plans Petrochemical Plant in East

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Union Carbide Canada Ltd. is eyeing the growth of the petroleum refining industry east of Montrea with a view to building a $35 million to $40 million petrochemical plant, possibly in the Atlantic provinces.

Company spokesmen described it as "a major petrochemical complex," producing a wide range of products but principally ethylene, from which a wide range of plastics and chemicals are derived. A 500-million-pound plant is proposed.

The company is arguing before the tariff board that the present import duty on petroleum distillates, such as naptha, should be abolished so that the Canadian price of these raw materials for the chemical industry are competitive with world prices.

L. C. Audette, chairman of the board, asked whether the projected plant might be located in the Maritimes.

"We have several alternative sites available," replied W. A. Dimma, executive vice-president of Union Carbide. The company's existing plant in Montreal East draws raw materials from six refineries, and the new plant might be built there or elsewhere east of Montreal.

Mr. Dimma said the new plant — whose economics depend on getting cheaper supplies of raw materials — could be tied to one crude oil refinery, depending on the kind of contract Union Carbide could arrange.

Builders Should Refute Reputation

VANCOUVER (CP) — A construction industry executive said today Canada's $13.5 million building business is the most maligned business in the country.

R. G. Saunders, National vice-president of the Canadian Construction Association, told the Canadian Sheet Steel Building Institute the public has come to believe that construction industry leaders are the most inefficient businessmen in the country and "we should refute it."

"Our industry at all levels is the most controlled business in the country, regulated by all levels of government from federal down to municipal," said Saunders, president of Smith Brothers and Wilson Ltd. of Vancouver.

"It is this control and restriction which does not permit us to be as efficient as we are capable of being," he said. "We have a long way to go in obtaining the respect of the . . . general public which is usually apathetic to our problems."

Saunders said there is a widespread belief that the industry uses medieval methods.

"The very fact that one is called a contractor immediately breeds an air of suspicion," he said. "This image also applies to manufacturers, designers, labor and building code officials."

He said the industry has to start devoting more time to polishing its public image if it is to share in the tremendous growth ahead for the nation as a whole.

SELF IMPROVEMENT

"Within our own industry-wide associations there must be a greater emphasis on building a better image," he said. "Governments and private industry must co-operate in organizing their work programs in order to minimize the wide swings in the construction demand cycle."

Saunders said that in the next 10 years alone Canadians will require 2 million new homes and double the number of schools, hospitals, factories and office buildings.

A second speaker at the institute's one-day annual meeting, Derek L. Tarlton of Toronto, director of engineering and research for the Canadian Institute of Steel Construction, said there is a trend in North America toward building on a highly complex "system" basis.

He defined the "systems approach to building" as utilization of "intellectual techniques of systems analysis" to resolve large-scale project problems by simulation and operational reasearch.

Tarlton said present trends indicate construction companies of the future will employ more prefabrication of component parts at the factory level and less at the site.

Grt. Can. Oil Sands

Breat Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. has a net loss of $8.66 million for the last three months of 1968, its first period of commercial operation.

The company said start-up difficulties at its plant near Fort McMurray, Alta., to extract oil from the Athabasca oil sands was the chief reason for the loss.

In a report to shareholders, directors said the company has deferred an application to the Alberta oil and gas conservation board to increase its allowable output by 20,000 barrels daily.

Q. I am in a farming partnership and some of the depreciable assets are owned individually and some jointly. What is the best way to show our capital cost allowance claim?

A. The profits of the partnership should be allocated to the partners before a claim is made for capital cost allowance. You should list the assets owned by the partnership on one schedule and the assets owned by you individually on a separate schedule. You may claim your share of the capital cost allowance on partnership assets and full allowance on your own assets.

Q. My daughter is 17 and attends school. She is receiving a Youth Allowance of $10 a month. Do I claim $300 or $550 for her?

A. You can claim an exemption of $550 for her. Youth Allowances are different from Family Allowances in that they don't affect the exemption you can claim for your child.

Canadian university education is being stamped "MADE IN USA" as more and more American professors come to teach in Canada. They are shaping a new generation of Canadians in their own image. And they are doing it at our invitation.

Today non-Canadian scholars make up more than half of the total number of professors in Canada. Last year three-quarters of all academic vacancies were filled from abroad — mainly from the U.S.

What effects will this have in the future? Can our universities survive as Canadian institutions?

Two Hour Session Ends Summit Talk

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Warsaw Pact summit meeting ended today scarcely two hours after it began, informed sources said.

Leaders of the seven member countries signed a declaration and the final communique. It was the shortest Pact summit ever held, indicating that the documents had been prepared in advance.

The sources said the declaration was on European peace and dealt mainly with the German question. The communique was believed to deal also with Vietnam, the Middle East and Warsaw Pact matters.

The meeting was delayed at the start, prompting speculation that Soviet leaders wanted time for informal discussions with their East European allies on the Soviet-Chinese border conflict.

The Warsaw Pact is a military organization of Communist countries in Europe.

Because each country was represented by its Communist party chief, premier and foreign and defence ministers, today's meeting was viewed as a small-scale dress rehearsal for the world Communist conference to be held in Moscow in May.

The Soviet delegation was headed by party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alex Kosygin. It included Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Defence Minister Andrei Grechko as well as Marshal Ivan Yakubovsky, the Warsaw Pact military commander.

Other members of the Warsaw Pact—the Communist answer to NATO—are Bulgaria, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

CO-OPERATION between churches but not necessarily union is favored by Rev. Clifton J. MacKay, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. During the weekend Rev. MacKay said he fells "churches are not quite ready for complete union, but our church has always been ecumenical in spirit."

Higher Postal Rates End Labor Newspaper

The Labor Statesman, monthly newspaper for B.C. unionists, has been forced to shut down by the new postal rates.

Previously mailed to its 60,000 subscribers for one cent a copy, the new rates would have seen the mailing cost jump to four or five cents a copy, adding about $1,800 a month to the Statesman's monthly production costs.

The last issue of the newspaper will roll from the press this week. It first published in 1924.

"We just have no way of coping with the increase," Clive Lytle, public relations director of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said from Vancouver today.

SUPPORTED CHARGE

At a federation convention in the fall delegates supported a five-cents-an-issue charge from members which would have handled a 100 per cent mailing cost only, he said.

Nothing could be done about considering more financial help from unionists before the annual meeting next fall. The postal rates legislation allowed no time for phasing in the new rates, he added.

Earlier Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the federation, said: "If the government had passed a law to stop publication of such newspapers there would be a terrible uproar.

"But in effect the government has done just that by hiking postage costs to the point where it is too costly for small periodicals to continue in operation."

Lytle said the higher postage rates are hitting at small publications which frequently represent the voice of dissent in the community.

About half of The Labor Statesman's copy dealt with political, social and economic issues, he said.

"It is a voice of comment which should not be cut off."

Father Releases Children

PARIS (AP) — A factory worker released his two young children today after holding them in his house for 24 hours and threatening to shoot them rather than hand them over to his ex-wife.

The mayor of Verrieres le Huisson, 10 miles south of Paris, escorted the children from the home of their father, Lucien Cuello, 36.

Authorities had feared a repetition of the tragedy last month at Cestas, in southwest France, where a besieged father killed himself and his two children when police tried to move in on him.

Cuello had told the mayor the children were safe as long as he was left in peace. Police had barred traffic from the area and kept out of Cuello's sight so as not to excite him.

"He read every word on the Cestas affair and kept clippings on it out of all the newspapers," said Mrs. Cuello, red-eyed from weeping. "The man who killed his children in Cestas was a hero to him."

When a divorce ended Cuello's marriage last week, the two children, Jans, 7, and Nadia, 6, were awarded to the mother. Cuello was given visiting rights once a week.

He appeared at the mother's home Sunday morning with a shotgun and took the children away before anyone could call for help. He barricaded himself in his house and told neighbors he would stay there until the divorce court reversed its custody award.

WIDELY SUPPLIED

In 1967, 1,530,000 Canadian homes were supplied with natural gas.

High Court Trial Ordered On Rape Charge

Three Brentwood Bay men charged with rape were committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate D. G. Ashby following a preliminary hearing in Sidney court Saturday.

Wilfred Joseph Henry, 23, Simon James Smith, 31, and his brother Fraser Henry Smith, 23, were charged following a complaint Feb. 14 in Central Saanich.

The complainant testified on Feb. 14 she drank 10 bottles of beer with the defendants and two younger men in three downtown beer parlors.

About 8 p.m. the party of six left Victoria in a car to catch a ferry to Vancouver. On the way to Swartz Bay the car was stopped and she was attacked in the front seat by Henry and the Smith brothers, she said.

She was then pushed into the back seat of the car. When it stopped again she jumped out and ran for help at a nearby house.

Border Patrol Officer Shot; Two Girls Held

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A United States Border Patrol officer was shot and critically wounded Sunday in his office here while interrogating two teen-aged girls from Canada, police said.

James Mee, 29, underwent surgery within an hour of the incident. He was in critical condition after the operation.

Mee, who said after the operation he had questioned two girls earlier and then determined they had given him false addresses, went looking for them again, police reported.

The girls were apprehended shortly after noon and taken to Mee's office, police said.

During the interrogation, one of them, police said, pulled a .25-calibre automatic pistol and shot the officer in the side. A radio operator in patrol offices upstairs heard the shots and found the wounded Mee.

GIRLS CAPTURED

The girls fled, police said, but were captured.

One of the girls is a patient at Kingston Psychiatric Hospital in Kingston, Ont., police said. They identified her as a minor.

The second girl is a former patient at the Kingston institution, said Ogdensburg Police Lieut. David Bell.

Preston C. Carlisle, assistant St. Lawrence County district attorney, said the girls would be detained by city police until FBI agents arrive. No charges had been filed "pending clarification of the circumstances," Carlisle said.

Second-Half Outburst Gives Maplettes Title

WINDSOR ALUMNI TRIPS WHITE SPOTS IN FINAL

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Windsor Alumni captured their first Canadian senior "A" men's basketball championship in 33 years Saturday night by defeating Vancouver White Spots in a sudden-death title game.

It was Windsor's first national title on the senior men's level since 1936, when Windsor Fords took the championship and went on to represent Canada in Olympic competition at Berlin.

Vancouver failed in its bid to bag its fourth consecutive Canadian crown. One year ago, the British Columbia cagers defeated Windsor 74-51 in the national semi-finals at Halifax, and went on to defeat Halifax Schooners for the title.

Angelo Nazzuchin, who was voted as the tournament's most-valuable player, sparked the Windsor victory with 25 points. Mike Gloster hooped 22. Brent Watson was high scorer for Vancouver with 15.

Victoria Team Captures Second Canadian Crown

By STEWART LANG

Red is the color of fire, blue the tint of ice.

Red-clad Victoria Maplettes melted the defence of the blue-suited Manitoba St. Vital Grads in the second half Sunday to pack away a 64-50 win and second straight Canadian senior women's basketball championship.

Maplettes led 27-23 at the half after a topsy-turvy scramble, in which the lead changed hands seven times. Going into the second frame, Maplettes began to burn up the boards, blasting to a 47-29 jump over the Manitoba squad after a little less than six minutes had elapsed.

Four teams participated in the double-loss-elimination tournament, which started Friday. Victoria went through the series undefeated. St. Vital gained the final by eliminating Windsor, Ont., 63-53 in a semi-final match Saturday night after being relegated to the losers' bracket by a 62-57 loss to Maplettes.

Windsor had reached the semi by eliminating the University of New Brunswick 72-67 earlier Saturday.

Angie Radanovich, selected as the most-valuable player in the tournament and named as a member of the all-star squad, fired 18 points to pace the Maplette victory. She also led the Saturday victory with the same total.

FOULS PLAY BIG PART

Diane Brozuk was another Victoria belle to repeat Saturday's score in the final, contributing 14 points each day.

All-star selectees Arlene Wallwin and Mary Coutts added 12 and 11 points for Maplettes in the Sunday contest. Mrs. Coutts fired 17 points Saturday while Miss Wallwin tallied 10.

Leslie Hamerton, who led Saturday with 20 points, and Diane Theberge paced St. Vital on the final day with 13 each.

Joyce Douthwright of New Brunswick and Miss Hamerton rounded out the all-star team.

Fouls played an important role in the final victory.

Maplettes put 10 of 19 foul shots through the hoop for a 53-per cent accuracy. St. Vital hit only seven of 17 free shots for a 42 per cent accuracy.

Miss Radanovich also led in this department, sinking six of the eight shots attempted.

Mrs. Coutts joined Grads' Miss Therberge and Jean Wood on the sidelines during the second half as all fouled out.

Poor passing, lack of cohesion and a tendancy to shoot too soon plagued Maplettes throughout the first half until Doreen Lusk fired the basket that put the Victoria squad ahead 25-23 90 seconds before the intermission.

Maplette coach Jack Lusk attributed their victory to the "same old thing."

"Our team is bigger in average height with a depth of experience the others couldn't match."

Four members of the Victoria squad, Sylvia Campbell, Marilyn Johnston, Mrs. Coutts and Miss Lusk were on the team last year when it won the national title under the name of Victoria Rawlings.

Canuck Rookies Shed Jitters to Whip Finns

JACKIE McLEOD
. . . happier now

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The agony and the ecstasy of world hockey competition was mirrored on the faces of the younger players of the Canadian national team after receiving their baptism in the battle for the championship.

The agony came from Canada's 6-1 loss Saturday to Czechoslovakia. Sloppy shooting and passing cut Canada's scoring chances to a point where the Czechs had a lopsided 35-to-18 margin in shots on goal.

"Rookie jitters," veteran defenceman Jack Bownass called it.

Sunday the Canadians regained their form with a 5-1 victory over Finland. With a break in the schedule today they prepared for their third game of the tournament, against Turris Tuesday.

"Thank heavens we have started to score at last," said Canadian coach Jackie McLeod.

The Russians and the Czechs, one-two in the 1968 Olympics and headed in that direction again, scored 35 goals in their weekend victories.

Russia dropped Sweden 4-2 Sunday after toying with the United States 17-2 Saturday. Czechoslovakia followed up its win over Canada with an 8-3 victory over the Americans Sunday. Sweden tripped Finland 6-3 Saturday.

TIED FOR FIRST

Russia and Czechoslovakia go into Tuesday's third round of the 10-round tournament tied for first place, each with four points.

Russia meets Czechoslovakia Friday and again a week later —March 28. Canada plays Czechoslovakia again Sunday, March 23, and the Russians a second time in the finale of the 15-day tournament on Sunday, March 30.

Today was an open date for all six countries in the double round-robin championship.

Tuesday's schedule (times EST):

6 a.m.—Czecho. vs. Finland
10 a.m.—Sweden vs U.S.A.
2 p.m.—Canada vs. Russia.

The victory over Finland marked the first time Canada scored five goals in a game since last December.

Fran Huck and Gerry Pinder scored goals at crucial moments against Finland. Counting pre-tournament games, the goals were the first for Huck and Pinder in 10 starts.

Pinder's goal brought Canada even in the first period. Huck's in the third period put the game out of Finland's reach.

Terry Caffery was the high man with two goals.

EVENS THE SCORE

Pinder nullified Finnish forward Matti Keinonen's goal in the first period. Caffery clicked for his first goal in the second period.

Then after more than 34 minutes of scoreless play, Roger Bourbonnais and Huck scored 19 seconds apart in the 17th minute of the third period. Caffery completed the scoring with just 83 seconds remaining.

Gustav Bubnik, a Czech who coaches Finland, said it was a wide open game until the last four minutes of play.

"Then I opened up. After all, you might as well lose by four goals as one goal. And then the Canadians scored those three wonderful goals."

McLeod had a special word of praise for Huck, the Regina centre who made the all-star team in three previous world tournaments.

"When he plays well, the whole team plays with him. I never saw a man work so hard for a goal as Fran did when he set up that third goal for Roger Bourbonnais," McLeod said.

"I feel we have turned the corner and we will improve as the tournament progresses."

The Canadian coach limited his defence to four men against the Finns, using an 11th forward instead of a fifth backliner.

EXPECTS SOME CHANGES

"I think you can expect to see two or three changes for the game against Russia Tuesday," he said.

Steve King, 20, a rookie winger from Toronto Marlboros, scored the Canadian goal against Czechoslovakia, his first in world championship play.

"The Czechs aren't five goals better than we are," King said. "Some of the kids were tense in their first world tournament, I know I was. But I felt easier as the game went along.

"I didn't get much sleep the night before. None of us did.

"It was a real thrill to get that goal. But I would rather get no goals and have us win the games. We get another crack at them and I think they're going to be surprised. We'll beat them."

Pinder, a second-year player with the Nationals, admitted that his slump—he hopes his Sunday goal will end it—bothered him considerably.

"When you're in my kind of a slump you just don't know what to do," Gerry said.

Austrian Skiers Uphold Prestige

QUEBEC (CP) — The prestige of the powerful Austrian ski team was upheld Sunday even though its ace member had little to do with it.

Alfred Matt, 21, who got out of the Austrian army Saturday, won the men's two-run slalom event and the over-all men's championship at the three-day 14 nation meet at nearby Mont Ste. Anne.

Team-mate Karl Schranz, 30, who captured the men's World Cup Saturday, was disqualified for missing a gate in Sunday's slalom race.

Kiki Cutter, 19, a student from Bend, Ore., was the top women's competitor in the meet.

Matt captured the men's two-run slalom Sunday with a combined time of 1:33.50 over the 1,500-foot course during a heavy snowfall.

CLINCHES THE TITLE

He finished in 12th place over-all in the two runs of the men's giant slalom, held Friday and Saturday, with a combined time of 3:33.18, giving him the over-all championship.

Billy Kidd of the United States was runner-up to Matt for the men's over-all championship and Jean-Noel Augert of France was third.

Auguert took second place in the men's slalom Sunday, posting a time of 1:34.49 for the two runs. Kidd was third in 1:34.60.

Peter Duncan was the top Canadian skier in the slalom event, taking 16th place with a combined time of 1:38.74.

Schranz clinched the men's World Cup, symbolic of world skiing supremacy, after gaining 14 points in the cup standings with an over-all victory in the men's giant slalom Saturday.

He won the first heat of the giant slalom Friday over a 5,500-foot course with a time of 1:41.40 and was third on the second run Saturday in 1:47.87.

The points he gained increased his total for the reason to 177, 69 more than team-mate Reinhard Tritscher.

There is one event remaining in the World Cup series—at Watterville Valley, N.H., March 22-23, but Tritscher is out of it. He broke a leg in Sunday's second run of the slalom event.

Henri Duvillard of France won the second heat of the giant slalom race Saturday in 1:47.59, giving him a combined time of 3:31.93 for the two runs.

Dumend Giovaloni of Switzerland was runner-up in the second heat over the 58-gate course in 1:47.83. The Swiss skier finished second over-all in 3:30.88 while team-mate Jakob Tischhauser was third in the over-all giant slalom in 3:31.62.

Miss Cutter won the women's slalom Saturday with a total time of 1:09.80 for the two runs over the 1,200-foot course. She was sixth after the first heat in 36.02 and won the second heat in 33.78.

MARGIN WAS NARROW

Miss Cutter finished 1/100 of a second ahead of Ingrid Lafforgue of France in the second round. Florence Steurer of France was third in 1:09.94.

The women's World Cup, won by now-retired Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., for the last two years, will not be decided until the final event in the World Cup series.

Gertrud Gabl of Austria went into the three-day competition with 131 points but she had trouble in every event and failed to increase her lead.

Wiltrud Drexel of Austria moved into second place in cup standings with 107 points, 24 fewer than Miss Gabl.

Judi Leinweber of Kimberley, B.C. was the top skier among Canada's women in the slalom event, finishing 11th with a combined time of 1:14.34 for the two runs.

Optimists Grab Playoff Berth

Victoria Evening Optimists crushed Saanich Braves 9-1 Saturday to capture the two-game, total-goal peewee Lower Vancouver Island Hockey championship 16-5 at Memorial Arena.

Cam Kring fired three goals to pace Optimists with Ron Leatham, Lorne Holme, George Reid and Larry Hansen singles.

Steve Hepburn squashed Optimists' chances for a shutout.

Pillar, Baldock Win Trials Race

Harry Pillar teamed up with Roy Baldock to win the second trials event of the season held Sunday by the Victoria Motor Sports Club at the Metchosin gravel pit.

Paul Reynolds and Marureen McDonald placed second, Scott Davies and Rusty Hammond were third, and the Bart Spruyt — Ben Fecht team was fourth.

LIFTS OFFICIALS FROM SOCCER FIELD

Helicopter to Rescue

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Police escorted Neapolitan soccer players from the Palermo Stadium in vehicles with barred windows Sunday and the officials were lifted from the field by a helicopter as Palermo fans staged a noisy, bottle-throwing brawl following a match.

The fans became enraged when officials awarded Napoli a penalty kick at the 76th minute. The kick was good and decided the game in Napoli's favor 3-2.

Fans threw rocks and bottles at the police vehicles conveying the Napoli fans from the stadium to the Punta Baisi Airport.

At the sight of the helicopter coming to get the officials, Palermo fans tried desperately to break through gates and get onto the field. Police threw them back by directing jets of high powered water at them.

JUAN MARICHAL
. . . agrees to terms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal of San Francisco signed a $115,000 contract Sunday and then hurled four perfect innings in the Giants' 9-2 exhibition victory over Chicago Cubs.

The 30-year-old Giant ace, 26-9 last season, threw only an occasional fastball in his spring debut, but disposed of the 12 Cubs he faced on 41 pitches.

The Cubs hit three fair balls out of the infield while Marichal was on the mound.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians kept exhibition winning streaks alive.

Eighth-inning doubles by Brooks Robinson and Merv Rettenmund keyed a two run rally that carried the Orioles past Cincinnati Reds 3-2 for their sixth straight victory.

WIN SEVEN STRAIGHT

Cleveland outlasted California Angels 14-10, running its string to seven, in a struggle that produced 26 hits, 13 walks and eight errors.

Atlanta Braves nipped Washington 4-3, pinning Ted Williams' Senators with their ninth loss in 10 starts; Kansas City shaded the Pittsburgh B team 2-1; New York Yankees topped Detroit 5-3; Oakland bombed Seattle 13-6; Los Angeles shaded Chicago White Sox 3-1 and San Diego beat Arizona Western College 6-1.

Rain washed out Houston versus Minnesota, Montreal against New York Mets, Philadelphia versus Pittsburgh and St. Louis versus Boston.

Trailing 2-1 in the eighth, the Orioles slipped past Cincinnati on Dave May's two-out single and the doubles by Robinson and Rettenmund. Dave Nelson paced Cleveland's 13-hit attack with four singles in as many trips to the plate.

CAME FROM BEHIND

The Braves scored twice in the seventh to overcome a 3-2 Washington lead, Hank Aaron driving in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly. Pinch hitter Ed Kirkpatrick tripled home two runs in the eighth, powering Kansas City Royals past the Pirates B squad.

A five-run sixth inning burst, highlighted by Billy Cowan's two-run single, and newcomer Mike Kekich's strong pitching enabled the Yanks to get by Detroit.

Jim Pagliaroni led the Oakland assault against Seattle with a double and three singles. Tommy Davis had a triple, double and two singles for the losers.

Hutton Sparkles With Seven Wins

VANCOUVER (CP) — Olympian Ralph Hutton of Campbell River made up for missing a trip to Russia by recording seven wins and a second in the weekend Canadian international Dolphin swim meet.

Hutton missed an international event in Minsk because of exams scheduled at Foothills Junior College, San Francisco. Organizers here brought swimmers from University of Oregon to face him.

The imported opposition was left far behind as the veteran swimmer won three senior men's events Saturday and placed second in another. He followed that up with another four wins Sunday.

A string of Canadian age class records fell in competition among 350 swimmers from as far afield as Manitoba and California, with Leslie Cliff of Vancouver setting two in the girls' 13-14 age bracket.

The host Canadian Dolphin Swim Club took the team title with 312 points in the 52 events. Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club was second with 164 and Cascade Swim Club of Seattle was third with 79.

JUST OFF RECORD

Hutton Saturday won the 400-metre freestyle in 4:16.2, just .3 off his Canadian record. He also won the 100-metre backstroke in 1:05.1 and the 400-metre individual medley in 4:57.6.

He picked up second spot in the 100-metre freestyle in 55.3 seconds, behind Bob Jensen of University of Oregon at 54.4. The two were far ahead of the rest of the field.

Sunday, Hutton took the 200-metre individual medley in 2:18.6, comfortably ahead of Pat O'Malley of Oregon. Then he defeated Jensen in the 200-metre freestyle in 2:01.44, well off his record of 1:57.1.

Hutton went on to take the senior men's 100-metre butterfly in 1:03.6 and the 200-metre backstroke in 2:18.0, 1.2 seconds off the Canadian mark held by Gaye Stratton.

Miss Cliff set one age group mark in the 200-metre freestyle at 2:16.8, 4.4 better than the old mark of Elaine Clark of Vancouver.

She also shaved three seconds off the 400-metre free standard of 4:52.8 by Jeanne Warren of Vancouver.

Nanaimo led 15-17 at halftime.

Cougars Have Three Shots At City's First 'A' Crown

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The hot but still unpredictable Cougars are one game and three chances away from bringing the British Columbia junior "A" hockey championship to Victoria for the first time in history.

Cougars applied a 2-0 headlock on the B.C. Junior League championship series Saturday night by tripping Penticton Broncos 4-2 before 3,078 fans at Memorial Arena.

Now the Doug Anderson-coached youngsters need only one more victory to sweep the best-of-five final and earn the right to advance against Alberta's representatives in the inter-provincial playdowns for the Memorial Cup.

They have three chances. The third game is scheduled to be played tonight in Penticton. Other games, if required, will be played in Penticton on Tuesday and in Victoria on Wednesday.

The odds would indicate the Cougars, who now have won 13 of their last 15 starts, are in excellent position to write a new chapter on Victoria hockey history.

In a series between two well-matched clubs, Penticton's main advantage tonight will be home ice. Cougars have mementum and a psychological factor on their side.

As well, the Cougars may operate against a decidely weakened Penticton defence. Talented Jack Taggart Jr., who toiled most of the winter with Canada's national team, was scheduled to return to Winnipeg at the weekend.

Madden's Effectiveness Hampered

Jack Taggart Sr., the coach, said Sunday he was trying to postpone his defenceman son's return in hopes of using his talents tonight. But, the elder Taggart said, "the chances look slim."

Penticton also is suffering from the fact team captain Tom Madden is operating well below form because of an injured ankle. The one-time Victorian has been playing with the ankle frozen to ease the pain, but it is obvious he is hampered by the injury.

Saturday night, for example, Madden was on the ice when Victoria scored its first three goals.

Defenceman John Van Horlick sparked Victoria's sixth straight playoff triumph by scoring two goals. Doug Gibson and Lonnie Miles rattled in singles, while Reg Cherenko and defenceman Jim Whitlam scored Penticton's goals.

Van Horlick's second-period goals enabled the colorful defenceman to quickly shed the goat's horns and emerge as one of Victoria's heroes in a game of missed chances. He was on the ice when Penticton scored both of their goals—along with wingers Adrian Blais and Len Barrie.

It was Van Horlick, in fact, who actually steered Whitlam's high-and-wide shot into Victoria's net.

But he quickly atoned for that miscue to bang in the winner a few minutes later.

Van Horlick's fortunes somewhat typifies Cougars' success against Penticton and Vernon in a four-game semi-final sweep. The Cougars have had altogether too many stuttering moments on defence but managed to prevail because of Ron Grahame's steady goaltending and an adequate attack.

Murray Kennett and Laurie Moore were by far the best defensive alignment for Victoria. Moore was especially strong in body-checking. His best hit of the night was a cruncher applied to Taggart in the opening period.

Victoria wingers, particularly Dave Williams, Barrie and Graham Brown, didn't help Victoria's efforts in their own zone. The wingers consistently strayed out of position to compound defensive woes.

Eight Bruin Tallies Come in One Period

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League players, led by high-scoring Boston Bruins, continued their assault on NHL records during the weekend, breaking two and tying three.

Leading the march were Phil Esposito and his Boston teammates. Esposito picked up eight points in games Saturday and Sunday against Toronto Maple Leafs to increase his league-leading point total to 118 and wipe out the record of 113 points for regular-season and playoff games set in 1958-59 by Dickie Moore of Montreal Canadiens.

And the Bruins equalled the NHL record for goals in a period when they scored eight times Sunday night in the second period as they overpowered Toronto Maple Leafs 11-3 at Boston Garden.

The eight goals matched the record set by Detroit Red Wings in 1944 during a 15-0 win over New York Rangers. The Bruins also equalled the record of 22 points in a period, set by Detroit in the same game.

Other marks broken or tied during the weekend:

—Bobby Orr of Boston broke the record for most points by a defenceman when he gained an assist for his 60th point Saturday night in Toronto's 7-4 win over the Bruins. Pierre Pilote held the record of 59 scored when he was with Chicago in 1964-65.

—Boston scored 15 goals during the weekend to give them a team total of 276 for the season, breaking the old mark of 264 set by Chicago in 1966-67.

—Danny Grant's assist during Minnesota's 2-2 tie Saturday with Philadelphia Flyers gave him 62 points to equal the rookie scoring record set by Gus Bodnar of Toronto in 1943-45.

EXTEND WIN STREAK

Other milestones also were reached. The Rangers extended their unbeaten streak at home to 16 games Sunday night when they came from behind to defeat the Red Wings 6-4.

Despite the loss, the Red Wing line of Gordie Howe, Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio picked up eight points for a total of 230, breaking the mark of 226 set in 1955-56 by Howe, Norm Ullman and Ted Lindsay.

In other games Sunday, Bobby Hull scored his 52nd and 53rd goals of the season to pace Chicago to a 6-2 victory over Philadelphia, Minnesota North Stars downed St. Louis Blues 3-2 and Oakland Seals thumped Pittsburgh Penguins 7-2.

In games Saturday, St. Louis edged Detroit 3-2, Philadelphia and Minnesota played to a 2-2 tie, Los Angeles Kings beat Pittsburgh 3-1 and Montreal beat Chicago 3-1.

At Boston Sunday, Derek Sanderson also contributed to Toronto's downfall with a three-goal performance and three assists while Esposito collected one goal and four assists.

Ken Hodge had his 40th and 41st goals and rookie Garnet Bailey added a pair for Boston. Ron Murphy, Wayne Cashman and John McKenzie also scored for Boston.

Ullman, who got two goals, and Mike Walton, scored for the Maple Leafs, who had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period.

SPARKS THE RANGERS

At New York, Ron Stewart scored two third-period goals to rally the Rangers to their victory over the Wings. Jean Ratelle also scored two and Rod Gilbert and Bob Nevin got one apiece.

Mahovlich scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season and assisted on Howe's 40th and Delvecchio's 23rd as Detroit took a 4-2 lead, but New York rallied with third-period goals to keep their 2½-month unbeaten streak at home intact.

Canucks Nip Bucks To Prolong Battle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks prolonged the race for the Western Hockey League pennant Sunday night when six players scored in their 6-5 defeat of league-leading Portland Buckaroos.

The Buckaroos, bidding for their fifth straight title, lead the Canucks by 10 points and each club has seven games remaining.

Art Jones, the league leading scorer from Portland, scored twice, boosting his total to 105 points.

On Saturday night 6,108 fans saw the Buckaroos strengthen their title claims when they bombed the luckless last-place Phoenix Roadrunners 10-1 in Portland.

In San Diego Saturday night, 12,261 fans saw Len Ronson tie a league record and break a San Diego club record by scoring five goals to lead the Gulls to an 8-6 victory over Seattle Totems.

Portland now has 87 points and Vancouver 77. San Diego has 72, Seattle 68, Denver 49 and Phoenix 47. Seattle is at Denver tonight and Phoenix is at Vancouver Tuesday.

Saturday's game in San Diego featuered the league's second bench-emptying brawl in two weeks.

KILPATRICK OUSTED

At 6:22 of the third period, Seattle's Gary Kilpatrick and San Diego's Jack Stanfield squared off. Kilpatrick received two major penalties and a misconduct, and was thrown out of the game for hitting referee John d'Amico.

The Gulls led 5-0 midway through the second period as Ronson scored two and Bruce Carmichael, Fred Hilts and Warren Haynes each added one.

John Hanna and Bob Courcy scored as Seattle narrowed the score to 5-2 but Ronson made it 7-2 with his third and fourth goals of the evening.

Don Ward, Hanna and Courcy made it 7-5 and Ronson then tallied his fifth. Courcy closed out the scoring with his third goal of the night for Seattle.

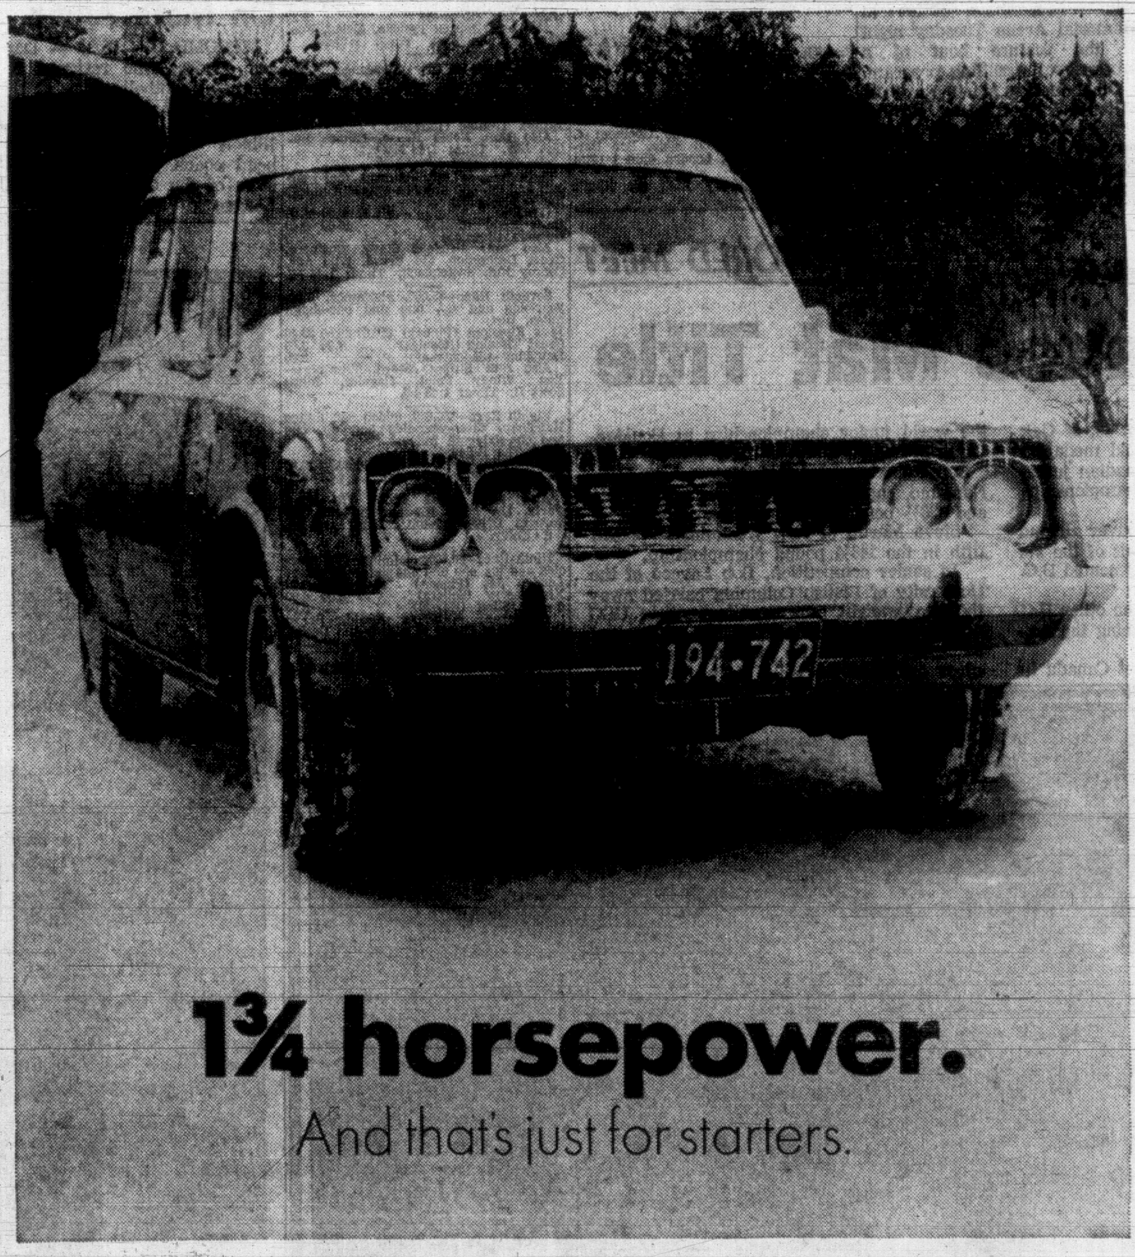
Fitness Council Chairman Named

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of Phillippe de Gaspe Beaubien, 37, former operations director of Expo 67, as chairman of the national advisory council on fitness and amateur sport has been announced by Health Minister John Munro.



1¾ horsepower.
And that's just for starters.

Unlike most cars, the Corona has more starting power.

The result: Faster starts without power drain and engine wear. A starter motor that delivers a power kick that takes the whine out of Arctic cold starts and turns the Corona oversquare engine into a hot, roaring 90 hp powerplant.

Even when conditions are reversed. It cruises with ease at a sleek 80 mph. Backed by a full-synchro 4-on-the-floor and big double barrelled carb.

And forget about pussy-footing around. The Corona's rugged unit construction takes potholes, bumps, dust and salt in its stride. It's been pre-conditioned.

So get started with Corona.
It's never been easier.

'Spiel Honors To Armstrong

Jim Armstrong, who knocked hard but never quite made it in 1964, came back through the Victoria Curling Club doors Sunday to pick off top honors in the annual men's bonspiel.

One of British Columbia's most talented young shotmakers, Armstrong won 10 of 11 games to win grand aggregate honors and the main event prizes with Victoria clubmates Lyall Garraway, Gord Paterson and Rob Thorburn.

Paterson also was a member of Armstrong's rink when, as schoolboys from Esquimalt, they finished as the runners-up in the 1964 aggregate scramble.

Armstrong's rink clinched it Sunday by shading Vancouver veteran Monty Montgomery 7-4 in the "A" event final.

DUNCAN A SPOILER

Armstrong's only blemish on this year's record was applied earlier Sunday when Duncan's Fred Duncan defeated the Victorians in the quarter-finals of the Daily Times ("B") event.

A Campbell River-Courtenay combination skipped by zone champion Art Mayers averted a clean sweep of events by Victoria-area rinks. Mayers defeated Conn Schiller's Victoria foursome 12-5 in the "E" event final.

A Playland Club rink entered by Moe Hill but skipped by Bill Erickson captured the Times event by rallying to defeat Jack Trueman's entry 11-6 in the final.

Esquimalt's Harvey Thompson defeated Doug Conn 7-4 in the "C" final; Don Matheson skipped a Racquet Club entry to an extra-end, 8-7 victory over Bill McLean in the "D" final, and Bill Wilkinson shaded Ken Sturrock 11-9 in the all-Victoria club "F" finale.

PRIZE WINNERS

"A" Event—1, Jim Armstrong (Lyall Garraway, Gord Paterson, Rob Thorburn); 2, Monty Montgomery, Vancouver; 3, Gus Macdonald; 4, Fred Duncan, Duncan.

Monsanto Open Delayed by Rain

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—The final round of the $100,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament was postponed Sunday because of rain, but the weatherman predicted clear weather for today.

Play was to resume with two former insurance men fighting it out for the $20,000 first prize. Jim Colbert, a 27-year-old former football player, held a one-stroke lead over two-time U.S. amateur king Deane Beman with a 54-hole total of 200.

Colbert posted a 64 Saturday in driving rain over the par-71 Pensacola Country Club course to move into the lead. Beman, 30, also is looking for his first pro tournament victory.

Two shots back of Colbert was U.S. open champion Lee Trevino who fashioned a 66, which included an eagle on the par 5, 526-yard 12th hole when he chipped in from 40 feet.

Tied at 203 were South African Gary Player in his first U.S. start this year, and Ray Floyd, 1963 rookie of the year.

Player, who shot a 65 Saturday, said he couldn't remember playing as well as he has played here in the past three days. But the 1961 Masters champion insisted he is a poor rain player.

Floyd, 26, who chose golf over baseball as a career, shot a third-round 67.

CRAWFORD SLIPS

Second-round leader Dick Crawford slipped to a 69 and a tie at 204 with veteran Tommy Aaron, who shot a 67. Crawford and Aaron also are non-winners in their pro careers.

Al Balding of Toronto, who shared third place Friday, is eight strokes off the pace with 208. He carded a 71 Saturday.

Wayne Vollmer, of Vancouver is well back at 210, in spite of a respectable 70 Saturday.

Former NHL player Bill Ezinicki shot a 76 for a three-round total of 218.

Inspired O'Keefes Chill Firemen, 5-3

VANCOUVER — Victoria O'Keefes' playoff hopes continue to expand.

They fused desire with some of their other talents Saturday to coast to an impressive 5-3 Pacific Coast Soccer League verdict over Vancouver Firefighters.

Running their undefeated streak to four games, O'Keefes stepped into fourth place as the leading University of British Columbia Thunderbirds played to a helpful 1-1 draw with New Westminster.

In another Victoria-benefitting game Saturday, Burnaby edged North Shore 2-1.

Three goals by Vanni Lenarduzzi and a pair by Sergio Zannatta sparked Columbus to a one-sided 6-0 rout of last-place Croatia in Sunday's only match.

But the Saturday results were the ones that boosted Victoria's playoff hopes. Fifth-place Westminster and sixth-place North Shore are the teams O'Keefes must beat out to claim the fourth and final playoff berth.

Westminster has two games in hand on Victoria while the Shores, three points behind O'Keefes, have three in hand. Victoria has five games remaining—against UBC (Next Saturday at Macdonald Park), North Shore, Burnaby, Croatia and New Westminster.

Saturday, the Bill Abbott-coached Victoria team completely overwhelmed the third-place Firefighters. Victoria roared away to a 4-0 lead by the 32nd minute. So dominating was O'Keefes' attack that the Firemen failed to get a direct shot on goaltender Keljd Brodsgaard in the first half.

SHOWED DESIRE

"They really wanted to win this game," said Abbott. "I don't think they could play any better than they did in the opening half. The players went out and made Firemen come to us.

"Firemen finally got to touch the ball in the second half after I substituted to get everybody in the game."

Ike MacKay, the league's leading scorer, counted his 12th and 13th goals. Singles went to Bert Soutar, Peter Wilson and fullback Ray Telford.

The play of MacKay and Soutar completely shredded Firefighters' defences, and Victoria's defensive alignment of Peter Robarts, Telford and George Paul helped Brodsgaard to enjoy a leisurely first half.

BRIAN EJECTED

But O'Keefes failed to escape unscathed. Bruce Twamley suffered an ankle injury that may force him to miss Saturday's game against UBC, while halfback Brian Robinson was ejected along with Louis Trischuck of Firefighters for an altercation in the 24th minute.

Veteran Normie McLeod scored all there goals for Firemen, including one on a hotly-disputed penalty call.

Dave Kotula of UBC and Carlos Franco of Westminster swapped goals in the tie game. Ken Phillips was Burnaby's hero (and a friend to O'Keefes) by scoring two goals against North Shore. Playing-coach Roy Nosella scored Shore's goal.

Gorge Ambitions Quashed by Scots

Canadian Scottish fired their own hopes Sunday and pulled the damper on Gorge Molsons chances of a first-place finish in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division.

The defending league champions, Scottish defeated Gorge 2-1 to move into undisputed possession of second place, three points behind the leading University of Victoria Vikings.

Goals by John Hughes and Franz Van Doesburg pulled out the victory.

The brothers Hamilton dominated the day's only other first-division action. Bill Hamilton, one-time regular with the Pacific Coast League O'Keefes, scored three goals and brother Roy added the other as Tally-Ho improved its fifth-place position by lacing Hourigans 4-1.

'SPURS UPSET

Cosmo Royals took over second-division leadership in a tightly-contested campaign by shading Colony Inn 4-1. University's Norsemen blanked Tillicums 3-0 and cellar-dwelling Gorge upset Watson's Hotspurs 4-0.

Royal Victoria Sailors Had Happy Weekend

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Royal Victoria Yacht Club ruled the waves in two major sailing events this weekend, while RCNSA El Toro sailors took the first three places in a 19-boat event at the Port Angeles Yacht Club.

Royal Vic's Norman Marcus, sailing in the second half of the Inter-City Frostbite Regatta in Vancouver, brought home the coveted Davidson B.C. championship. Marcus finished with a 1½-point lead over Royal Van's Donnie Martin at the end of the 10-race series. The first five races were sailed in Cadboro Bay.

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club hosted the races in English Bay, sailed in steady easterlies of 12-18 m.p.h. Final standings were: Marcus, 35½ points; Donnie Martin, 37 points; and Bob Burgess (RVan), 55½ points.

This is the first time in the nine-year history of the event that it has been won by a Victoria skipper.

Royal Victoria's juniors scored a convincing victory over five other teams in the Gladwell Trophy Regatta this weekend. At the end of the 16-race series, Royal Vic totaled 25¾ points; West Van, 54; Hollyburn Sailing Club, 55¼; Royal Vancouver, 61; RCNSA, 75; and Maple Bay Yacht Club, 77.

Each pair of juniors sailed four races within his allotted division, in Flying Junior dinghies. RVic's Geoff Arndt and David Carere had three victories and one second; Chris and Louise Anstey three firsts and one fourth; Chris Sanderson and Barney Angus two firsts and one second; and Brian Woodward and Marilyn deFrane, one first, two seconds and one third.

RCNSA's El Toro contingent of 10 boats swept the first three places in a 19-boat regatta at Port Angeles Yacht Club over the weekend. Bis Whitby took first place, Jean Whitby second, and Greg Hemphill, third.

SECOND-HALF SURGE . . . . . . PRODUCES RUGBY WIN

Slow Tide Downs Birds

By STEVE HUME

Victoria's Crimson Tide rolled back from a 5-0 first-half deficit and held on for a dull 8-5 rugby win over UBC Thunderbirds in McKechnie Cup play at Macdonald Park Sunday.

The Tide, selected from the cream of the city rugby crop, showed flashes of ability in the game, but for the most part the team just looked slow and sluggish.

It appeared as though the match was almost unintentionally sabotaged by the Victoria Rugby Union, which had scheduled semi-final league playoff matches Saturday between the four teams supplying the players for Sunday's representative side.

★ ★ ★

Effects of two high-calibre games on the same weekend showed early in the match, with Tide scrums being pushed around and the 'Birds dominating line-out play.

UBC established a territorial advantage early in the match, and the Tide forwards soon began to show signs of wear and tear, moving slowly in the loose and mounting only a token cover defence.

★ ★ ★

Alert play and lots of hustle from Mick Ekhardt, Neil Bonnell and John Wenman prevented UBC from scoring on several opportunities, and sparked the Tide scoring punch in the second half.

On the few times the Tide players got rolling, however, they showed brilliant potential.

Some fine moves in the loose sprang Tide backs for a try which was called back on a technicality early in the game before the 'Birds cashed in on one of numerous opportunities and Reed Owen plunged over for a try, converted by captain Don Crompton.

After the halftime rest, the Victoria squad looked more alive. That situation continued, along with enough kicking for a soccer game, until halfway through the second period when Bernie Sinclair, a winger selected from James Bay Athletic Association, broke loose down the sidelines for a spectacular unconverted try.

Immediately the Tide backs, led by Castaway Alan Rees, Vikings Dave Slater and Gary Johnston, and James Bay speed-merchant Bob Hissink, began to run brilliantly.

★ ★ ★

Johnston, who disrupted some attacks by holding the ball too long, also lived up to his reputation of being one of the harder-tackling backs and a useful defensive player.

Slater and Rees, at scrum and fly-half, looked particularly effective in getting backfield attacks rolling in the second half. Rees with sure tackling and pin-point kicking, Slater with a fine clearing pass even under heavy pressure from UBC forwards.

Fullback Jim Wenman, a Uvic contribution, had a bad first half, but redeemed himself by scoring the Tide's winning try on a brilliant move into the backs.

★ ★ ★

Running to the open wing, Wenman turned the corner and fed Sinclair, who pop-kicked into the end zone where Wenman ran the ball down and dropped on it. Ted Hardy kicked the convert.

With slippery turf, a cold drizzle and all the aches and pains of the previous day, delays to nurse injuries were no surprise in the match, and there were many of them.

Jim Wenman's brother, John, picked from Oak Bay, was carried from the pitch halfway through the second period with a leg injury, but returned to action during the final minutes of play.

Morrisons Gain Final By Crushing Alberni

Victoria Morrisons won the two-game, total-goal series for a berth in the Vancouver Island midget hockey championship 15-5 after slamming Port Alberni 9-3 in the final tussle Sunday at Memorial Arena.

Kim Bowles fired two goals to lead Victoria scorers while Jim Wilkinson, Laurie Huck, Grant Leclair, Buddie Watt, Andy Reid, Ronnie Pool and Ray Marshall added single tallies.

Larry Levins, Acker Naesguard and Gordy Unger replied for Alberni.

Morrisons won the first game on Saturday in Port Alberni, 6-2.

The Victoria squad goes to Powell River for the two-game, total-goal final this weekend.

READING DYNAMICS

WHAT IS READING DYNAMICS?

It is a method reading groups of words rather than one word at a time. Reading Dynamics will teach you to read AT LEAST 3 TIMES AS FAST as you now read, with as good or better comprehension, or refund your entire tuition. Comprehension is the most important factor in rapid reading.

WHY DO PEOPLE TAKE READING DYNAMICS?

They take Reading Dynamics so that they can read faster and comprehend more of what they read. Today, we are in the midst of communication revolution. Just to stay abreast in their field or subject, businessmen and women, professional men and women, high school and university students are having to read 5 to 10 times more material than was required in the same subject or field 20 years ago. And they are trying to do it with 18th Century reading skills. Every month literally thousands of people from every walk of life are learning the Wood Method of Dynamic reading . . . the 21st Century method of reading!

Oak Bay to Guard Scenic Waterfront

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

This evening a public hearing will be held in Oak Bay Municipal Hall in connection with a proposed bylaw to protect the waterfront (from Cattle Point to the vicinity of Satellite Street) from further commercial development and preserve it for future beautification.

I think I'm safe in saying that the majority of Oak Bay residents are in favor of such a move. Question is, will they be out to speak their piece when the hearing opens tonight.

Strange as it may seem it's the "fors" who seem to stay away from these hearings. And the "agins" who turn up almost to a man to shout at council members.

Idea behind the new bylaw is a good one. We have, in Oak Bay, a priceless asset in the waterfront.

It's not the kind of waterfront that lends itself to commercial development; nor that should ever be considered for an extended program in that direction.

Oak Bay is a residential municipality. It's a place of homes, gardens and parks. It's easy to look ahead to a time when it could be the finest residential area in an amalgamated Victoria.

Actually it's one of Victoria's best residential areas right now, despite the fact that it works as a separate municipality.

★ ★ ★

Over four years ago (in October, 1964) the late Lance Whittaker wrote on the editorial page of his weekly Oak Bay newspaper:

"Reclamation of the waterfront side of Beach Drive is a long-term but distinctly practical proposition . . . This council (1964) has, here and now, the responsibility of deciding the future of the beach side of Oak Bay itself, the most magnificent piece of waterfront in any residential area in Canada, perhaps in the world."

Mr. Whittaker concluded his editorial with "the highest and best use of this (waterfront) property is public use, as, when and where it can be achieved."

His plea, directed then at another part of the Oak Bay waterfront, is as urgent today as it was back in 1964. More so perhaps for open waterfront property with sand beaches is now almost nonexistent in or near Victoria, except in Oak Bay.

★ ★ ★

There is reason to believe that at the public hearing tonight another effort will be made to bring hovercraft service to the Oak Bay waterfront.

Street talk includes the idea of transporting hovercraft passengers from the proposed landing area into the Village by shuttle bus, to browse and hopefully, to buy.

Practical-minded persons cannot help wondering what visitors would find in the block-long village to keep them from going on into downtown Victoria.

True, there are some very good stores, from the residents' point of view. Visitors, however, are usually looking for the unique little shops . . . the boutiques.

★ ★ ★

They will not find boutiques in the Village. And to create them would mean tearing down and rebuilding almost the whole block.

There is also the hovercraft patrons to consider. Who would they be? Why would they choose this way of arriving in our city?

Half of them could easily be classifed as Victorians returning to their homes as quickly as possible.

There would be business and professional people coming here for day-long meetings and conferences, called in every instance for downtown offices or hotel meeting places.

That leaves a mere sprinkling of others intent on seeing all of Victoria—not just Oak Bay. Would they spend much time in the Village? I think not.

In a recent report on hovercraft operations and terminal locations, the Capital Region Planning Board said that the best terminal for such an enterprise would be the Inner Harbor. Next best would be on the north end of Saanich Peninsula.

Several months ago, an application for hovercraft landing facilities in Oak Bay was rejected by municipal council.

Again I think I'm safe in saying that the majority of Oak Bay residents want it left that way.

I hope some of them will be out tonight to say so.

Oil Station Case Awaits Judgment

Should there be a gasoline service station at the corner of Newport Avenue and Windsor Road in Oak Bay?

The question was argued in Victoria Law Courts Friday before Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

The chief justice finally reserved judgment on an application by Texaco Canada Ltd. to compel Oak Bay council to issue a building permit for construction of the service station.

Lawyer Hugh Henderson, for Texaco, said the southeast corner of Newport and Windsor was zoned as a retail zone and use of the site for a service station conformed with municipal law.

He said that, after the building inspector refused to issue a permit, Oak Bay council met and passed a bylaw exclusing service stations from retail zones.

At the time the application was made, on Oct. 10, 1968, it was legally permissible to build a service station on the site.

DOOR IS SHUT

"It was only the intervening bylaw which prevented this use of the land," Henderson said. "Texaco made a proper application to council only to find the door shut in its face."

D. M. Gordon, QC, for Oak Bay, said Texaco's application was improper inasmuch as it intended the building to be erected over two lots.

One of these lots was not zoned for a service station, counsel said. He added that the bylaw excluding service stations from all retail zones in Oak Bay was passed before Texaco's motion was launched in court.

Gordon said the bylaw as amended would preclude the service station from the area in question even if the application had been properly made.

He said no discrimination against Texaco was intended. It was the general feeling of all members of council that service stations were not wanted in any retail areas.

At the beginning of the hearing, Chief Justice Wilson asked how long it would last. He said he was "somewhat alarmed" by the array of law books produced in court by counsel.

About 30 of them were lined up on the lawyers' table.

City Doctor Will Testify In Mayo Case

A Victoria neurosurgeon who trained at the famed Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., was called there today to be a defence witness in a suit against the hospital.

Dr. Walter R. Lysak, who left here at noon, is first defence witness in a trial which has been in progress for some time.

The claimant for large damages, is a patient who charged that surgery on his back was improperly done. Dr. Lysak was the admitting doctor but is not otherwise involved in the action. He did not know how long he would be required to remain in the U.S.

Hotel Blaze By Arsonist Kills Two

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle fire officials and police launched a search for an arsonist after a hotel blaze late Saturday night killed two little girls and injured six other persons.

The girls were Shara Gatter, 3, and her sister, Tracy, 2½, of Kodiak, Alaska. Both were in a third-floor room and apparently died of burns and suffocation, firemen said.

They were visiting Seattle with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gatter.

Hospitalized with serious burns were two hotel tenants, Gilbert Tomkins, 33, and Kenneth Johnson, 50. Two other tenants, Harry Robertson, 49, and James Forrest, 56, suffered lesser injuries.

Two firemen received minor injuries in the $25,000 blaze.

Driven from Homes

OROVILLE, Wash. (AP) — About 400 persons, one-fourth of the people in Oroville, were forced to leave town Sunday by fumes from insecticides and fertilizers in a burning orchard supply warehouse. They returned to their homes later in the day. Wind carried the fumes as far as Osoyoos, B.C., about six miles away.

Regionally: Confusion, Disagreement

This is the first of three articles by City Hall reporter Jim Hume on regional government.

By JIM HUME

In 1965 Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell introduced the Regional District concept of government to British Columbia.

It was designed primarily to provide a vehicle of government which could cross rigid municipal boundaries for the common good of an area as a whole.

Four years later, at a recent Qualicum Beach seminar, some 90 elected and hired municipal officers met for two days to try and find out whether the new idea was working, where it was heading and what problems it was bringing in its wake.

While the two-day conference resulted in no solid policy statements, no positive requests to government, it did reveal a great deal of confusion among municipal administrators. And it did demonstrate, beyond doubt, wide areas of disagreement as to how Regional District legislation should be introduced and the areas in which it could be effective.

There were some at Qualicum who saw Regional Districts as a fourth level of government in the federal, provincial, municipal hierarchy.

There were others who viewed Regional Districts and their growing strength as a third level of government designed eventually to eliminate historic municipal governments.

Most elected officials leaned, half-fearfully, towards the latter view. One by one they aired their fears, sometimes to find blunt answers, at others a polite waffle and occasionally an honest "we don't know."

'Co-ordinate, Not Interfere'

When it was suggested that regional planning must become a Regional District function, Mayor Hugh Stephen agreed—if cities like Victoria were permitted to retain their own "within municipal boundaries" planning rights.

"When a municipality surrenders the right to control, its own land it surrenders its sovereignty," is the way he put it with the added thought that "regional planning should co-ordinate but not interfere."

A. H. Kennedy, of Vancouver, executive director for B.C. of the Community Planning Association of Canada, took exception.

"Without regional planning, municipal planning doesn't mean too much," he said. "You can have the excellent plan of a city destroyed by unorganized development in unorganized areas on the periphery of the city."

For months Victoria has balked at a proposal to bring the Capital Region Planning Board under the control of the Regional District Board until it is clearly spelled out that the city still controls its own destiny.

That stand has brought off-stage criticism that the city wants to have a say in the development of rural areas, but wants rural areas to have no say in the development of the city.

The existence of that conflict in the Regional District structure in the Capital Region area was readily admitted by Mayor Stephen at Qualicum.

Seminar leader H. M. Rosenthal, of the University of British Columbia extention department, asked if there was conflict between rural and urban representatives on the Regional District of the Capital of British Columbia.

"There is a very real conflict," answered Stephen. "Although unspoken, it is present; although dormant it is there all the time."

What causes the conflict?

Stephen felt it was simply a matter of priorities.

"Our priorities (urban versus rural) are very different. How do we rank a city's urban renewal program againt the need for sewers in Central Saanich?"

Difficult to Switch Hats

Stephen went on to say that what he was really talking about was the structure of the Regional District Board. It was, he said, very difficult for an elected municipal official to take off his local government hat and start thinking regionally.

"If they (regional directors) are elected by the people rather than appointed from various municipal councils, it could be a truly regional government. As it is now I am sure board members find it very difficult to take off one hat and put on another."

Throughout the two days, discussion of one subject led, tangent-wise, to another, related only because they both involved Regional District government.

If a Regional District Board is comprised of municipal council appointees, should those appointees report back to their council on various issues and decisions?

Should those council appointees vote freely at the regional level? Or should they vote on the instructions of their council.

Mayor Fred Hawes, Oak Bay, said he wouldn't dream of voting on a regional issue without direction from his council or without explanation to them as to why he had voted a certain way.

Mayor Hugh Curtis, Saanich, said that with three directors on the board he didn't see any necessity to report back. "We have a pretty good consensus, anyway. One third of our council sits on the board, but I can appreciate the problem when, as in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, only one seventh of the council becomes a director."

And Curtis disagreed with Stephen that there was any difficulty in the changing of the municipal hat to the regional hat.

"I don't share that fear. We have one alderman sitting on the Greater Victoria Library Board. He's an intelligent man and thinks library when he's on that board and municipality when he sits on council. I don't think this has been a very serious problem."

'Wouldn't Achieve Anything'

Stephen stated bluntly that it would be impossible for board appointees to report back to council.

"We just wouldn't achieve anything at the regional level if we did that," he said.

"The Regional District Board must be a policy making body otherwise it will become a bureaucratic paradise and citizen's nightmare.

The questions were posed and discussed. Nobody asked for decisions because this seminar, like those before it and others to follow, was designed to air problems and promote discussion. The solutions may emerge during the ensuing months.

So may the answers to the problems of financing; municipal and public education as to the power and direction of Regional Districts; and, eventually, a clear-cut answer to the big question: are Regional Boards replacing municipal governments?

In Ontario, the only other province in Canada to endorse regional governments, that last question was answered loudly and clearly when the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Municipality was established on Jan. 1 of this year.

By provincial statute 16 city, town and village municipalities were swept into a Regional Government Board, its financing and its power spelled out.

British Columbia, to date, has preferred the voluntary route, groping for compromise, seeking solutions which will leave untouched historic municipal powers.

Tuesday the Times will discuss the Ontario legislation, for there is little doubt that, while travelling by a different road, the Regional District of the Capital of British Columbia is heading for the same destinations as Ottawa-Carleton—and in one word the terminus is amalgamation.

BIG APARTMENT SOLD FOR $2.7M

A Vancouver firm claims to have handled Vancouver Island's largest real estate transaction — the sale of Princess Patricia apartment building on Esquimalt Road for $2.75 million.

The building, which was completed last year, was listed by owner Slegg Bros. Ltd. through Rutherford-McRae and sold by Wall and Redekop Corp. Ltd., of Vancouver. The undisclosed purchaser obtained the property for investment purposes.

The building is 16 storeys and has 208 suites on two acres of land at 701 Esquimalt. There is water frontage of 1,500 feet overlooking the harbor entrance.

Assistant to Get Top School Post

By DON VIPOND

A. J. LONGMORE
. . . "man for the times"

A. J. (Jake) Longmore, 43, will be named the new superintendent of schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

School board chairman Carron Jameson said today a letter from Education Minister Donald Brothers says he intends to name Longmore to the post.

The new superintendent has been assistant superintendent for the past three years and will succeed Joseph Chell, 65, who announced in January he will retire this summer.

The superintendent, who is the chief executive officer of the school board and the department of education's representative in the school district, is a government appointment.

Jameson said the school board is "very pleased" its recommendation has been accepted. The board considered two applicants and the other was not from the school district.

"Mr. Longmore has given every indication of being a man for the times and extremely competent in the three years we have been associated with him," said the board chairman.

Longmore was born and received his early schooling in Kamloops. He has a BA and a bachelor of education degree from UBC and completed his master's degree in education administration from the University of Alberta last year.

He said he sees his main task as continuing to build the local school system in co-operation with the school board on the strong base established by Chell and his predecessors.

This will involve clarification of aims and objectives in education to shape Greater Victoria into a "lighthouse" school district in the province.

Longmore began his teaching career at Oliver and Osoyoos in the south Okanagan in 1947 and was there seven years.

He was district librarian at Creston in the East Kootenays for two years and later was vice-principal at Grand Forks secondary school for three years and principal at Summerland secondary school, also for three years.

In 1962-63 he worked with the education department as curriculum consultant and was superintendent in the Burns Lake and Vanderhoof school districts before moving to his Victoria appointment in 1966.

Retired Man Charged With Murdering Wife

Remand Given To Next Week

By DERYK THOMPSON

A Victoria man was charged today with the non-capital murder of his wife, shot to death early Saturday.

William Clifford, 66, of 1001 North Park, appeared before Magistrate William Ostler and was remanded to March 25. He was represented by Foster Isherwood.

Clifford was taken into custody just after 5 a.m. Saturday.

Police found his wife Edna, 63, dead of a single bullet wound and lying face down on the front room floor, of their house.

Clifford a landlord, and retired painter, appeared briefly before a crowded courtoom. Police officers stood on both sides of the dock. He was expressionless and wore a dark blue blazer and open-necked shirt. He said nothing.

NO BAIL

He was charged with unlawfully causing the death of Edna Clifford and thereby committing non-capital murder. Penalty for the offence is life imprisonment. No bail is allowed.

Isherwood, in asking for the remand, said he had only briefly conferred with his client before court began.

The drama leading to Clifford's arrest began when city police answered a call to his home concerning "some trouble."

Two bullets were fired over the head of an approaching officer and tear gas was used to flush an armed man from a small shed attached to the east side of the house.

FIVE ROUNDS

A .303 rifle with five rounds in the magazine was found inside the shed.

The Cliffords lived in an upstairs two-room apartment at the North Park Street address. A daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Parley, lives nearby at 1018 North Park.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said today he has ordered an autopsy. An inquest is tentatively scheduled to begin Thursday evening.

Clifford came to the city about 10 years ago from St. John N.B., and owned several houses in the area.

Florenda Suffers Setback

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Although her over-all condition remains satisfactory today, Florenda Joy Dick's progress toward recovery has been interrupted by a slight stroke.

A small blood clot that lodged in the six-year-old's brain is held responsible for the setback that occurred early Sunday afternoon.

"The immediate effect of the stroke was to deprive her of speech," a Mayo Clinic spokesman told the Times.

"Apart from this, her general condition is still described as satisfactory, and the stroke does not in itself endanger her life."

Clinic neurologists have joined heart specialists on her case, and an anti-coagulant is being administered through a vein.

Florenda has not spoken since the seizure, which came just short of five days after she underwent open heart surgery described as "most difficult and complicated because of heart abnormalities."

CONSCIOUS

She is conscious, however, and is able to communicate by gestures.

Mrs. David Dick of 355 Gorge Road had watched her daughter's condition improve steadily since the operation last Tuesday. She was with Florenda when the stroke occurred.

Weary this morning from an all-night vigil at Florenda's bedside, Mrs. Dick returned to the hospital this afternoon.

Donations that totalled over $9,000 from well-wishers in Victoria and centres as far distant as Australia made the pilgrimage to Mayo possible for the child who suffered from cardiac abnormalities from birth.

Her present prospect is stated by a cardiologist as "wait and see," with the rider that in a child of Florenda's age, there is reason to be optimistic.

R. T. WALLACE
. . . standing ovation

Dean Pelted By Students With Praise!

It was a student demonstration with a switch Saturday night.

The "target" was Dean Robert Wallace, acting president of the University of Victoria, and the occasion the annual awards banquet of the students' Alma Mater Society at the Red Lion Inn.

At a time when university administrators frequently bear the brunt of stormy student protests, Dean Wallace got a clear message from Uvic students.

It was a five-minute standing ovation—in tribute to his diplomacy, understanding and co-operation in meeting student demands for participation in the university's decision-making process.

During presentation of special awards, last year's AMS president Frenk Frketich thanked the acting president for help and understanding of the student point of view presented in a controversial brief, The Need for Change.

He said the Dean is largely responsible for the number of students currently participating with faculty on committees and sub-committees which advise the president, senate and board of governors at the university.

Go-Withouters Hope To Collect $30,000

Sunday was "go without" day for Roman Catholics across Canada.

They were asked to give up a pet luxury and donate its value to the Share Lent campaign to assist countries in need.

The money was collected at Sunday masses across the country. It is being augmented by the proceeds from rice lunches, marches, concerts, film shows, talks, discussions, socials and dances.

Last year the Share Lent campaign raised $1,405,100 across Canada, of which more than $15,000 came from the Victoria area.

"This year we hope to double these figures," said Michael Doyle, Victoria president of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace.

All Catholic schools and parishes have their own pet projects for raising funds.

Scientists Fish For Information On Pacific Trip

By W. RALPH THOMAS

The Canadian research vessel Endeavour left Esquimalt at noon today on the longest oceanographic expedition ever sponsored by Canada.

A crew of 10 scientists from Canada, the United States and Japan will participate in the seven-week, 15,000-mile expedition, studying stocks of algae and zooplankton in sub-arctic waters.

They will arrive in Tokyo April 6 to participate in an oceanographic conference before continuing to Hakodate for a symposium on salmon in the North Pacific. They will return to Esquimalt May 10.

Headed by Dr. T. R. Parsons, a principal scientist at the department of fisheries Nanaimo Biological Station, the cruise will supplement less intensive studies being made by the Smithsonian Institute and the University of Washington.

CLOSE LOOK

"We're going to be taking a close look at the plankton and algae drifting across the Pacific toward our continent in the sub-Arctic current," Dr. Parsons said.

"This is what high seas salmon feed upon and is naturally of great importance to Canada.

"We know it takes about 2½ years for these food stocks to drift across the Pacific, but in order to predict the amounts of food available for salmon in any given year we must understand the total environment," he said.

50 VARIABLES

"We'll be studying about 50 different variables to determine amounts and types of marine life in every type of condition, he added.

He said during the 30 daily samplings such factors as water temperatures at depths up to 400 meters, marine life from micro organisms to large fish, water salinity, radiation effects, and photosynthesis going on in the sea will be studied.

From the results Dr. Parsons expects to provide a formula for accurately predicting the number of salmon and other fish the available food will support two years ahead of time.

"It is our purpose to describe the actual environment the fish live in," said Dr. Parsons. "This will enable us to predict changes in fish here two years from now on the basis of looking at an existing environment somewhere else today."

Ask The Times

Q. I have been told that Gordie Howe, the hockey player, lives in Victoria. Is this true? I have also been told that Gordie has several business interests here. Does he?—E. P.

A. Gordie Howe has a brother, Norman, who is a chief petty officer at the Canadian Armed Forces Base, Esquimalt. Gordie has no business interests in Victoria.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

ORCHESTRA MEASURES UP TO DYNAMIC PIANIST

Persistent Audience Wins Bach Encore

By BERYL PROUDMAN

In the second half of the Victoria Symphony concert Sunday afternoon, pianist Dimitri Bashkirov left his audience breathless with the dramatic intensity and virtuosic fire of his solo performance.

The reaction of the audience was of such persistence that he finally capitulated and played an exquisite and calming Bach encore.

The Schumann A Minor Concerto (Op. 54) which had roused such excitement was a triumph for pianist and orchestra alike.

As if unleashed from the restricting classicism of the Mozart which preceded it, Bashkirov sprang at the piano with fierce vitality in the first movement of the Schumann.

It soon became apparent that his interpretation was to be as lingeringly romantic as it was forceful.

The orchestra under Laszlo Gati, measured up admirably to the guest artist although sections occasionally sounded understandably thin in tone beside the thunderous reverberations of Bashkirov's exciting onslaught.

By comparison, the Mozart Concerto, No. 14 in E Flat K 449, was unexceptional. Technically this seemed like the lilting third movement.

NOVEL IDEAS

"Missa Brevis," a work unfamilar to many Victorians, was full of interesting sounds and novel ideas typical of Kodaly. Not quite as "breva" as one might wish, this work originally composed as an organ solo, hence the stop like doubling of vocal and orchestral effects, has moments of dancing gaiety and several upsurging, inspiring crescendos, but its overall mood is of solemn if not sombre beauty.

The Victoria Choral Society, trained by Rodney Webster, presented a well-balanced sensitive and moving performance of this work made difficult by intricate orchestration and unusual intervals.

Fortunately, little was demanded of the feeble, apologetic trio of soloists whose part was not extensive enough to spoil the good choral performance.

Orchestral instruments enhanced vocal effects throughout. Stirring brass topped off the triumphant lines in several places and attended the resurrection from the depths.

A touch of hesitation or uncertainty made one slow section drag a little but celestial effects were added by a trio of sopranos who sang the highest and sweetest top notes.

The organ, played by Richard Proudman, accompanist to the Victoria Choral Society, added more variety of tone to the large orchestra.

Both Kodaly's "Missa Brevis" and Pierre Mercure's "Kaleidoscope" are works which I hope to hear several times, for each is full of sound combinations that merit fuller investigation than one concert allows.

BRIGHTLY COLORED

Like its namesake, "Kaleidoscope" is made up of many brightly colored orchestral fragments shuffled and twisted to make the most of their glancing facets. Full of contrasts, the work has sections composed of pointed, irregular fragments depicted in the jerky, irritatingly irregular rhythmic patterns of jazz, and others which are soft and rounded and complete tuneful spectra.

Syncopation and percussion are important in this work and several times the rhythm almost becomes Latin-American.

From time to time, the shuddering, gradual acceleration of a train setting off slows the pace of the basic beat. At one point the train comes so near to taking off that the whistle from the distant valley can be heard.

Aptly named, this symphonic fantasy throws the colorful splinters down and leaves the interpretation to the listener.

The last of this season's concerts will be conducted by Dr. Otakar Trhlik on March 30 and 31.

This ninth and penultimate concert, the last to be conducted by our own conductor, Laszlo Gati this season, will be repeated tonight in the Royal Theatre at 8:30.

Gladys Enjoys 'Playing Penny'

By PENNY SAVER

"I have been playing Penny," Gladys told me when she dropped in for coffee. She had just come from her exercise session and was looking disgustingly trim with a snug-fitting leotard taking the place of a blouse. The twins, who had been at ballet while their mother was doing calesthenics, were occupying themselves with a few exercizes at the barre (alias, kitchen chairs). "Remember when I first started this course," my friend went on. "I couldn't think of where to get all the bits and pieces I needed to wear until you told me about that little shop. Well, a new girl started today and she was in just that same quandary. It really is a beautiful feeling to be able to help her out."

Glady's words reminded me that more and more women are turning to exercise programs and consequently needing comfortable clothing. Oh, shorts and a sweat shirt are all very well, but Gladys for one swears that an all-over leotard is much nicer.

"It doesn't come apart at the waist when you bend over," she explains, "and I always feel so much better when I'm wearing something attractive." She has several leotards, some with turtle necks and some with scoop necks. These have long sleeves and come in orange, blue, yellow, red and even peacock. Made of a good quality stretch nylon these cost between $7.50 and $7.95. They are zippered at the back.

For Economy Lovers

For economically-minded people who don't want to put out a lot of money for this sort of outfit, the store reports (through Gladys who was in the other day) that they have a large stock of sub-standard tights and leotards in black only. These are garments with minor flaws that prevent them from being sold at the regular price, but don't make them completely unwearable. They go up to outsizes. They come with both long and short sleeves and with a scoop neckline only. Regularly these garments sell at prices between $4.98 and $5.98. They are now being sold at $3.98. Another low-priced item that Gladys reported was children's tights in beige only for $1.98.

Another item that many women don't know about is the dance girdle. This is a light panty-girdle with high-cut legs. It comes in pink, black or white in two sizes for $4.98. The two-way stretch of the material gives a woman support without constricting her movement or showing beneath short-shorts or a leotard.

The shop where Gladys buys her leotards also has a wide range of tights in solid colors or sheers. These come in both children's and women's sizes at prices ranging from $2.98 to $7.98.

Please call 382-3131 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. for the name of this shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Woman Should Seek for Cause of Depressed Mood

Lowman

When a woman is feeling "down in the dumps" she is very likely to think of herself as unattractive even though this has not been her attitude in the past. Her depression may cause her to lose interest in herself as an individual. Nothing seems worthwhile.

Often this state of mind is temporary. Such a mood just suddenly descends on us. We do not know why we feel as we do. All we know is that we are, at the same time, restless and bored and too depressed to do anything about it. It is an awful feeling but we can just grit our teeth and stand it if we know it will pass.

Usually if we do a little personal detective work on ourselves we can discover the cause or causes. Perhaps our depression was due to some disappointment or discouragement, which while not serious, knocked our spirit down. Very often this mood is the result of fatigue or loss of sleep. The latter, plus a disappointment, can put you under.

CONSULT CALENDAR

When women have these days, they should always consult the calendar. Many of them feel discouraged or depressed or irritable a few days before their menstrual periods. This is called pre-menstrual tension. Husbands and children should be aware of this so that they can be understanding and a little forgiving.

Naturally a woman should keep track of the date so she will not take her depression or worries too seriously and can control her irritability. I think it is most important for husbands and wives to recognize this fact. I am sure that the majority of domestic squabbles take place at this time of the month, and that many things have been said at these times which would not have been said otherwise. No important matters should be discussed and no important decisions made on these dangerous days.

If you live in a state of chronic depression which lingers on and on, then you should take firm steps to remedy the situation. A complete physical examination is in order. Many physical conditions can cause fatigue which makes one listless. If this does not reveal the cause then take an honest look at your mental attitude.

Are you worrying constantly about some problem you do not know how to solve? If an immediate decision is not crucial, push the problem to the back of your thoughts, and just drift. Don't gnaw it and yourself to pieces! After an emotional rest you will be able to approach it with a fresh viewpoint. But, give yourself a crutch or two until you get over the hump.

It is a fact that a few new clothes are of therapeutic value. A lovely new suit or dress, or even a new hat, can brighten the day. It makes you feel more attractive. Self-improvement is one of the most successful aids in overcoming depression. If you are overweight, lose, but don't wait to buy the new clothes. Do that now!

DEAR ABBY . . .

Husband Too Fond Of Sister-In-Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who says there is nothing wrong with being overly friendly with his sister-in-law? He says the Eskimos do this. Is this true or should I tell him that he is crazy? I answer all his needs every time he asks me. Thank you very much.

WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your husband that the Eskimos stopped that practice a long time ago, and that if you ever catch him so much as rubbing noses with another woman he'll get a freezing out like no Eskimo ever had.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 years old and I'm engaged to a man I'll call Frank who is 28. We have known each other a long time, but we have been engaged only two months. Before the engagement we didn't discuss having a family, which was a mistake.

Now Frank tells me that he would like to have four or five children. Maybe I'm selfish, but I don't want any.

Abby, I have absolutely no patience with children, and knowing myself as I do, I wouldn't make a very good mother.

Frank and I love each other, but this has become a big issue. Please don't tell me that I should have one, because I will feel different about my own child. I really don't want the work and responsibility of children. Maybe I'm peculiar, but I don't think they're worth it. So what is your advice?

TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED: Tell Frank that unless he sees it your way, he'd better find another girl. I agree, you'd probably make a poor mother, but I admire your honesty.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Wants Marriage" that a common law marriage is as legal as one in which a minister has mumbled a few words over the couple. And a man is all wet if he thinks he can escape the responsibility of marriage by not going through a ceremony. He has a legal duty to support the woman, and any children they may have. And the children will be considered legitimate, too!

If a man wants to get rid of a common law wife, he must divorce her in the courts, as there is no such thing as a "common law divorce." And if a man tries to give a woman the old line about a "trial" period of living together, it won't work because when a man and woman present themselves to the world as man and wife—they are! At least that's the way it is in Texas.

LAWYER'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Thank you! And if your husband ever finds out who you are, you'll catch it for "practising" law without a licence.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Furious in Prescott, Ariz.," who suggested that housewives do their marketing early in the day so as not to crowd the "working wives":

I have to wait until my husband comes home from work before I do my marketing because we are a one-car family. So if I get in your way, please provide me with a second car and I will be glad to do my marketing in the morning just to accommodate you.

Babysitter Fees Should Be Tax Deductible

OTTAWA (CP) — If businessmen can claim tax exemptions for expenses incurred in taking their wives on business trips, working mothers should be able to deduct the cost of babysitters, Mrs. Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) argued in the Commons Thursday.

"Discrimination of the most rank kind," she called the present Income Tax Act provisions.

She quoted a letter from a woman who said she is the sole support for her family and the money she pays a babysitter provides full-time livelihood for another person.

Yet she could not deduct the babysitter's salary for tax purposes.

Mrs. MacInnis argued that workmen, such as carpenters and plumbers, should be allowed to deduct the cost of their tools.

Herb Gray (L—Windsor West), parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Edgar Benson, said exemption for babysitter fees for working wives would necessitate amending the act.

He said a government policy paper to be ready in June, is expected to outline policy proposals for a major revision of the federal taxation system.

School Board 'Prudish and Victorian' In Attitude Toward Pregnant Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Is it prudish to assume that children will be shocked on seeing a pregnant teacher?

Ruth Foster, director of a teachers' committee to study problems of young married teachers, says it is.

"It is prudish—Victorian—to assume children will be shocked at seeing a pregnant teacher," Mrs. Foster said in an interview. "They see their mothers and the mothers of their friends when they are pregnant."

She made the comment after learning of a Grade 2 teacher here who had to leave her job in March. The rules of the Toronto school board stipulate a teacher cannot teach from four to six months before the birth of her child.

Many schools in Ontario do not grant maternity leave. Of 102 school boards surveyed by the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, 83 have no maternity leave clauses.

Mrs. Foster said that for some boards this means: "Please resign." The federation wants the situation changed and each case of a pregnant teacher decided individually.

Mrs. Foster said the present situation contradicts the message in sex films shown at schools, where pictures of pregnant women are taken as a matter of course.

Pearson objected at the time that the press release gave far more detail on security matters than was normal, but was assured by his security advisers that it was necessary and desirable to warn the Soviet authorities of the extent of the RCMP's knowledge and also to alert the Canadian public to espionage activities.

The press release did not of course identify Spencer by name. But Pearson did admit, under questioning at the time, that no action had been taken against the unnamed spy because he was about to die from cancer.

Cobalt Bomb Treatment

What Pearson did not know was that Spencer was receiving cobalt bomb treatment which prolonged his life until the following April, 1966.

After a brief flurry of interest in the case in the spring of 1965, the matter disappeared from the headlines. As Pearson later wrote in his diary—in March, 1966, during the Spencer-Munsinger crises:

"The Spencer case might have dropped from public notice if: (1) Spencer had died, as the doctors, last May, said he would, shortly; (2) if a Vancouver reporter had not discovered his identity in October . . ."

The reporter was Tom Hazlitt, then with the Vancouver Province and now in the Toronto Star's Ottawa bureau. His identification of Spencer as the unnamed spy resurrected interest in the case.

But—as Pearson also noted in his diary—not much might have happened if Cardin had not made his first mistake of officially confirming the identification on the CBC TV program, This Hour Has Seven Days.

SPENCER

Parson noted that Cardin had ". . . been lured into making some unfortunate rather silly and sensational remarks about the case; more particularly about the government's decision (there wasn't any) to subject Spencer to surveilance 'as long as he lives.' That certainly put the fat on the fire."

If Cardin got him into trouble, Pearson had only himself to blame.

When Justice Minister Guy Favreau resigned in the wake of the Rivard scandal, Pearson looked around for a French-Canadian successor. He settled on Cardin, an unassuming and unambitious man who had served quietly as associate minister of national defence.

Pearson dictated a diary memo on July 6, 1965—which he classified as secret—in which he recorded his thoughts while shuffling the cabinet after the Rivard affair:

"First, I persuaded George McIlraith to accept, with as good grace as possible, public works. I told him I would help him out as House leader by giving him a special parliamentary secretary.

Vote Talk In July

"Then, at 3 p.m., I saw Lucien Cardin who is hesitant about his qualifications (for the justice portfolio). He may be right on this as a long-term proposition but he will fill the bill admirably until after the election, at least. He is competent and gaining confidence in himself; and is a good organizer, something that department desperately needs.

"George McIlraith would have been better in many ways but this would have been too much of a slap at Quebec. In any event, we need him as House leader and I don't want to link this with justice again (as it had been linked in Favreau's case)."

It is interesting that as early as July, 1965, Pearson was talking of an election, which was eventually held in November. And it is significant that Pearson pushed Cardin into the justice portfolio, despite his hesitations, where he was later to flounder into the Spencer and Munsinger troubles.

This was the situation in November, 1965. Spencer had been identified by Hazlitt. Cardin had unwisely confirmed the identification and made the whole affair seem more dramatic than it actually was. Spencer had been fired from the post office, without a pension, but had not been prosecuted. The government was under daily pressure in the Commons to explain its actions in the case and to hold a judicial enquiry.

The Commons rose from the Christmas recess, giving the government a respite and Pearson then wrote letters marked secret to Cardin, and to Solicitor-General Lawrence Pennell. The letters were in almost identical terms, and Pearson told his two law ministers:

Severe Criticism

"As you are aware, the government has been subjected to severe public and parliamentary criticism for its handling of the (Spencer) case, and there is no question in my mind that the matter will be the subject of a difficult debate in the forthcoming session of arliament.

"In order to clarify the public misunderstanding which has attended this case throughout, and to provide the necessary assurance that the government intends to deal firmly and effectively with these matters, a number of actions will be required."

Pearson then outlined the four steps he proposed to take:

1. There would be a press statement giving the decision to dismiss Spencer from the post office and the reasons for it;

2. Cardin would issue a statement "elaborating fully on the remarks that you recently made in a national television program which, as you know, have given rise to considerable public concern:"

3. A white paper would be tabled in the Commons in January or February "to indicate more fully than has been done in recent years the nature of espionage activities in Canada, with particular reference to this recent case, and to explain some of the difficulties which arose in dealing with it;"

Full-Scale Inquiry

4. The government would initiate a full-scale inquiry into espionage and subversive activities in Canada and the means of dealing with them.

Pearson's letters asked Cardin and Pennel to consider this program and commented: "I believe that these actions would have the necessary effects of informing and reassuring the public and Parliament."

What happened? At some later time, Pearson scribbled a note on his copy of his letter to Cardin: "After long and careful consideration and discussions in the cabinet it was decided not to proceed with any enquiry at this time."

In his diary notes, Pearson recorded: "After the Christmas holiday, cabinet began to consider the matter, as we felt it would be a major target for Diefenbaker's criticism when the House reassembled on January 18, 1966.

"We had decided some time earlier that Spencer should be fired under a clause in the civil service act that did not provide for an appeal.

"We had a good deal of discussion about this but the general opinion was that an appeal would be objectionable on 'security' grounds and that the clause in question was put in the act precisely for cases such as Spencer's. He was lucky merely to be dismissed, having confessed to improper association with Soviet agents."

'We Were Handicapped'

When Parliament resumed, as Pearson had forseen, the opposition parties, with the support of almost every newspaper, demanded an inquiry into the Spencer case.

"We were handicapped in answering by not being able to give the evidence, on security grounds, which abundantly justified Spencer's dismissal and which, indeed, could not even be given at any public inquiry or appeal," wrote Pearson when he dictated his diary notes later.

He was not much concerned with Conservative leader John Diefenbaker "and his crew" because he thought they were so vicious and partisan they made little impact on the public. But: "The NDP—especially (David) Lewis—were much more impressive in their criticism, because they made a more reasonable appeal to justice and the rights of a 'little man,' convicted without a chance to defend himself."

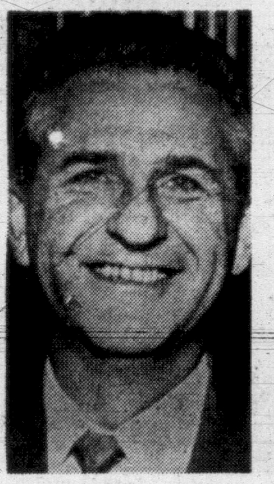
Pearson recounted: "In cabinet, there was a division for and against an enquiry, with a strong majority against. My own feeling was that we should have one, 'in camera,' because the issue had been now transformed by the press and the opposition into one of civil liberties and human rights:

Treated Fairly

"But, as there was in fact no question of principle at stake (we had treated Spencer fairly) I accepted the view of two-thirds of the cabinet; especially as the minister most concerned, Cardin, took that view very strongly. He had stated it publicly and its repudiation by the cabinet could have been interpreted as throwing another French Canadian to the wolves. He would have resigned."

So Cardin reaffirmed in the Commons there would be no enquiry. The opposition redoubled its attacks until Pearson agreed to the request of NDP leader T. C. Douglas to undertake a personal review of the case.

"I certainly did review the matter, spending hours and hours reading every police report on Spencer over all the time he was being watched—and the whole record after he had been confronted," said Pearson to his diary. "My conclusion was that he had been fairly treated, as he admitted himself in his signed statement, which of course we could not unfortunately use, as it gave so much detail about his contacts with the Soviet agents etc."



LEWIS

When Pearson told the Commons he saw no reason to change the government's decision not to hold an enquiry, criticism mounted to a new intensity.

Couldn't Give Evidence

". . . we couldn't give the evidence to rebut it, or at least the best part of it, unless we violated security procedures," wrote Pearson. "It was really a desperate dilemma, especially as Spencer was a sick man and if he died, would become a 'martyr' to the cruelty and injustice of a despotic government."

Cardin, meanwhile, was under no illusion about the difficulties he had caused Pearson. In a personal and confidential letter to Pearson, on February 3, 1966, he wrote: "I need to tell you how dreadful I feel about the embarrassment the mishandling of the Spencer case has caused you and for which I am largely responsible."

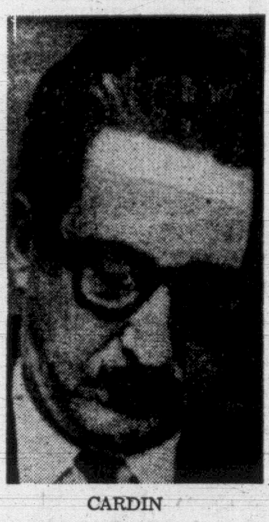
Cardin was not of course saying that the decision not to hold an enquiry represented mishandling. He was saying that his own statements on television, which precipitated the crisis, had been a mistake.

But now the problem was to find a way out of the situation caused by the mistake. A vote was approaching in the Commons and Pearson was uneasy about the result for his minority government:

"All the opposition groups were against us and we had no reason to be sure they wouldn't vote against us. Some of our own members opposed our refusal of an enquiry and at least two would have voted against the government. It was agonizing to think that a Liberal government could be defeated on such an illiberal position; as it would be considered in the country.' '

Suddenly, on March 4, 1966, the NDP's Lewis produced a telegram in which Spencer requested an enquiry into the circumstances of his dismissal particularly as it affected his pension.

"This seemed to give us a way out, to accept this kind of limited enquiry while rejecting the demand for a full one which would bring in security issues," wrote Pearson. "We could save our face and give public opinion reassurance that the dismissal was just, by the report of a judge appointed to make an enquiry."



CARDIN

Ten cabinet ministers were out of Ottawa that day. Pearson swiftly consulted two who were available and whose judgment he valued, Solicitor-General Lawrence Pennell and Health and Welfare Minister Allan MacEachen, who had previously been on his personal staff.

Limited Probe

He noted in his diary that both agreed the government should accept the proposal for a limited enquiry. Pearson then asked Cardin to his office and: "We talked over the latest developments and he agreed that we should change front in the new circumstances. Indeed, he asked me to write out a statement to this effect that he would give.

"There was not a word about resignation. MacEachen confirmed later that Cardin had agreed with him in the House that we should now have to accept a limited enquiry—with not a word about his own position having been made impossible by the change.

"So I told Cardin I would take full responsibility for the change by making the statement myself (he seemed grateful and relieved) but that I would associate him with it so that there would be no repudiation of himself; either in fact or in appearance."

Pearson made the statement to the Commons, and — to his surprise — ran into bad reaction in his own party. The "hawks" he noted sarcastically now became sure the government could have won the vote because Social Credit and Creditiste members would not have voted against the government.

"It was a depressing reaction and result but I am satisfied I did the right thing," Pearson noted in his diary.

Quebec Caucus Very Hostile

His difficulties however had only just begun as he was working that weekend on the terms of the Spencer enquiry.

"Cardin now decided to resign and, as a result, the Quebec caucus became very hostile to my decision and attitude of Friday. Some of them began to accuse me of having repudiated Cardin, tossed him aside, without even consulting him etc. etc.

"Marchand felt he should resign if Cardin did; so did Cadieux and Cote. Things were really falling apart."

(Manpower Minister Jean Marchand was then Pearson's new Quebec strongman. Leo Cadieux was associate minister of national defence. Jean-Pierre Cote was the new postmaster-general).

This was the most serious political crisis Pearson had faced. "I talked to Cardin—had him out to the house both on Sunday and Monday—talked with him alone and with (Senator Maurice) Lamontagne, who was very helpful, and Favreau," he reported in his diary.

"He was adamant. Expressed a regard and affection for me that was deep and sincere and not affected by anything that had happened—but he could not and would not remain any longer in politics. He had not wanted to run again (in the 1965 election); his home life was being destroyed; he hated the lonely life and nastiness of politics; he was not cut out for it; he had been a failure in justice, wasn't up to it, and this was his chance to leave."

Humiliated By Decision

Cardin apparently gave the impression to the Quebec caucus and to other observers at the time that he was determined to resign because he had been humiliated by Pearson's decision to reverse the cabinet policy on a Spencer enquiry. But in his private conversations with Pearson, he made it clear he was using the Spencer crisis as an excuse to get out of a political life that had become a burden to him.

Perhaps Cardin's motives were mixed. But in subsequent letters to Pearson he made clear beyond any doubt his great affection and respect for his prime minister. Certainly, he harbored no feelings that he had been unfairly treated.

This respect for Pearson, in fact, saved the day for the prime minister. Just when it seemed that Cardin was determined to resign and that the cabinet must collapse:

"I discovered Monday evening, however—that he was really shaken by the possibility that his resignation would break up the government and lead to my resignation. He claimed this would be a tragedy for Canada and especially for Quebec and that it mustn't happen.

Hope, Unity, Rejoicing

"I passed this on late Monday to Lamontagne and we agreed that, if Cardin could be finally and firmly convinced that if he went, we all went, he would stay. His Quebec friends worked on him Tuesday and, as a result, he agreed to stay on."

Cardin announced his decision to remain to the Quebec caucus and then to the national Liberal caucus at the regular mettings on Wednesday, March 9.

"What might have been a national caucus meeting of despair and dissension became one of hope, unity and rejoincing," wrote Pearson in his diary notes 12 days later. "It was a very moving experience. Cadieux was eloquent and very impressive; Cardin quiet and effective, and I made the strongest statement to caucus I have ever made on the necessity for mutual trust, confidence, discipline and unity.

"Afterwards I had half hour with Cardin in his office. He was happy and relieved—as far removed from his mood of Sunday and Monday as light is from darkness. He felt that everything would be better now; that my own position was stronger than ever etc."

Pearson concluded that section of the diary with an ironic note: "So all our immediate troubles seemed over—for a few hours . . . Munsinger succeeded Spencer."

DeMolay Youths Help Children's Hospital

Free car-washes will be order of the day Saturday when local members of the Order of DeMolay roll up their sleeves and set to work at the Esso station, corner of Tillicum and Burnside.

The give-away project is part of the youth organization's celebrations marking DeMolay Week which runs from Sunday to March 22.

Although there's no charge the DeMolays will have a donation box at the ready. The contents will be sent to Winnipeg to help the Shriners' Children's Hospital.

Representatives of the four local chapters visited City Hall Friday morning and Mayor Hugh Stephen signed the official DeMolay Week proclamation.

Close to 300 youths between 14 and 21 years of age belong to the Victoria, Oak Bay, Signal Hill and Goldstream chapters.

Rick Paterson, master councillor for Coldstream reports there are 2,500 DeMolays in 11 countries.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the order which was started in Kansas City on March 18, 1919.

Local DeMolays held two church parades Sunday at First United Church and Gordon United Church in Langford.

Approximately 200 Masons and Shriners are expected to attend Tuesday evening when DeMolays perform ceremonials and show a film on DeMolay work.

After their car-washing chores are completed Saturday, the DeMolays and their friends will don semi-formal dress for a dance to be held in the auditorium of the Central Junior Secondary School.

The Northwest Company from Vancouver will play for dancing. Tickets may be obtained from DeMolays or the box office at the Bay (Blanshard entrance) from 5.30 to 9 p.m. on Thursday.

DeMolay Week festivities end Sunday when the Signal Hill chapter holds its third annual rowboat regatta.

One spokesman reports, "We'll be using anything that floats, providing we can squeeze four bodies into it."

The course is approximately two miles long. The race begins at 3 p.m. at Kinsmen's Gorge Park. An entry of 20 boats is expected.

New Type Shotgun Wedding

AVVELINO, Italy (AP) — Mario Capobianco and Anna Farisiello left Sunday on their honeymoon after a shotgun wedding of another kind.

Capobianco still nursed a shot wound on his arm, while 13 others from the wedding party were suffering from light pellet injuries.

"I did it for jubilation," explained farmer Annibale Toto, 66, who said he was merely observing a centuries-old southern Italian custom, by shooting up a storm as the wedding party procession came out of the church Saturday.

He was charged with "shooting in an inhabited area and causing light injuries."

He was released pending trial, but the shotgun remained in police custody.

Cambodians Get Apology

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The United States has apologized for violating Cambodian territory, the official Cambodian news agency said today.

Agence Khmer said the apology was in a note, passed on by the Australian embassy here, for a border incident March 2 in Kompongcham province.

The incident involved a mixed U.S.-South Vietnamese patrol, which came under fire after having crossed into Cambodia, Agence Khmer reported.

The U.S. note asked Cambodia "for any information" about two Americans and three South Vietnamese reported missing, and presumed wounded, during the patrol, the agency said.

THREE DAYS WITHOUT MAIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians will go without mail delivery for three days during the Easter Sunday weekend, a post office spokesman said Friday.

There will be no delivery of mail on Friday, April 4; Saturday, April 5, and Monday, April 7.

Arts, Religion To Combine In Festival

In the early centuries of the history of mankind, the arts were felt to be the most supreme means of expressing the wonder of creation and spiritual awareness.

Through etchings in rock, dance, music, painting sculpture, man strove to reflect the glory he sensed beyond the mundane.

Believing that the union was right and mutually nourishing, and that it is still viable, the First United Church in Victoria last year first sponsored a festival of Religion and the Arts which was highly successful.

On Wednesday the second annual festival will open and will continue through Sunday at First United.

Interdenominational, with Anglican, Roman Catholic and United Church participation, it will include musical programs, films, plays, a hootenanny, lectures, poetry reading and an art show.

A highlight will be the final program entitled Celebration II. This will take place in the church Sanctuary at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday and will consist of a multi-media worship experience, including multi-screen projections and light show, music of many styles, poetry readings and modern dance.

On Saturday there will be a day-long children's creative drama workshop in two age-group sections. Registration for this is limited and details may be had by phoning the church office.

Presentation of Drama Awards Ends 10-Day School Festival

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Climax of 10 sessions in the 29th annual Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival came Saturday night at Oak Bay Junior Secondary, with presentation of individual awards and an honor performance of three outstanding productions.

Mrs. Jane Benson, adjudicator for the event, in her closing remarks said that this was her sixth appearance in the role since coming to British Columbia two years ago.

Of all, she had found this to be the happiest festival as well as having the best standard.

Top honors in the list of awards are for performances by a senior boy and girl and carry as well as certificates and book prizes, $100 scholarships to be used at a drama class of their choice.

Susan Belford, already known to adult Victoria audiences for roles in major productions, was named winner for her role of Agnes in Oak Bay Senior's The Apollo of Bellac.

DIFFICULT PART

Winner among senior boys was Robert Hudson who had played the difficult part of Lomov in Mount View's A Marriage Proposal.

Runners-up in this section were Bernice McGowan of St. Ann's Academy's So Wonderful in White, and Sue North in Norfolk House School's Mirror for Elizabeth.

Boys were David Burke who had shone in two roles—the clerk in The Apollo of Bellac and Daniel in Oak Bay's The Parents Propose, and Terry McColgan from Victoria High's The Hole.

Victoria Times book prizes for senior students presenting the best spoken characterizations went to Helen Borden of St. Ann's Academy and Don Orlesky of Victoria High.

JUNIOR WINNERS

Junior secondary students who gave best performances also received the Daily Colonist prizes. They were Sandy Galbraith of Edward Milne's Bluebeard Had a Wife, and Murray Price of Glenlyon's The Diary.

Runners-up to these two were Karen Jackson of Colquitz Junior, Lisa Iwaskow of S. J. Willis, David Avren of St. Michael's and Chris White of Lansdowne.

The six elementary winners are not graded and were as follows: Sharon Welsh, Sooke; Margaret Dijak, Blanshard; Charlene Krahn, Millstream; Steve Glover, Frank Hobbs; Douglas Bozak, Blanshard; Don Cameron, Millstream.

Ross scholarships offered at the elementary level by Mrs. Ian Ross for study at Bastion Theatre School, the recipients selected by Bastion School, were awarded to Charlene Krahn Millstream's lively Ghost, and Kerry Wilson, McKenzie Avenue's Hansel.

The Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council award of a framed picture, given to the school demonstrating the finest all-round team spirit, was won by Millstream Elementary School and presented by PTA fine arts chairman, Mrs. J. S. Hayhurst.

Other awards were presented by Miss Gwen Hewlings, Miss Anne Adamson of the Community Programs Branch and Chris Taylor of the Department of Education.

Mrs. R. A. Fraser, chairman of the festival committee, presided at the ceremony which followed performances of Glenlyon Preparatory's original play, The Snake; Colquitz Junior's The Mighty Mr. Sampson, and Oak Bay Senior's The Apollo of Bellac.

Viet Picture Best

HAMBURG (AP)—Edward T. Adams, Associated Press photographer, has been named winner of the World Press Photo Foundations' prize for the best photograph of 1968. Adam's winning picture showed the Saigon chief of police firing a bullet into the head of a suspected Viet Cong agent. It was taken during the Viet Cong's Tet offensive a year ago.

'Dozer Razes Old Mansion

A bulldozer took just 30 minutes Saturday to topple Fernwood Manor.

The 109-year-old house at Vining and Begbie was the centre of controversy last month when local historians made a frantic last-ditch effort to have the historic manor preserved.

A search for the money and land to relocate it failed.

A 200-unit apartment will rise in the area where the old house stood.

Korean Assault In War Games

YOJU (AP) — A total of 1,320 United States paratroops leaped into South Korea today at the climax of an 8,500-mile trans-Pacific assault operation. It began five days of war games called Focus Retina.

The men of the 82nd Airborne Division were flown from Fort Bragg, N.C., to the muddy reaches of the North Han River, 35 miles south of Seoul, in what the U.S. military said was the longest air operation in history.

C-141 Starlifter jet transports ferried the first batch of 720 soldiers into the operations area from Okinawa, 2½ hours away. delayed 24 hours by a snowstorm here Sunday, they completed the journey from North Carolina in close to 55 hours.

While the airdrops were taking place, North Korea called a special meeting of the Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom to demand the exercise be cancelled. It was the second North Korean protest in a week.

The U.S. delegate, Maj-Gen. James B. Knapp, rejected the North Korean demand. In a reference to a sharp increase of hostile North Korean action during the weekend in which seven Americans and a South Korean were killed, he said:

"Your naked aggression convinces the United Nations Command that exercises such as Focus Retina will continue to be necessary to enable the UN Command to defeat aggression whenever and wherever it may come."

At Panmunjom, North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Choon-sun charged that UN troops fired first in the border incident Saturday. He said that this and other armed clashes along the demilitarized zone as well as the Focus Retina exercise were part of U.S. preparations for a new war in Korea.

One American soldier was killed and three others, including one Korean soldier, were wounded. The three wounded and four more Americans died when a medical evacuation helicopter crashed shortly after takeoff from the area in which the shooting took place.

Indian Army Officer Held As Guerrilla

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian security forces have arrested Gen. Mowu Angami, commander-in-chief of Kohima, a defence ministry spokesman announced.

Angami, the spokesman said, was in a party of 200 that entered Nagaland across the Burma border on the night of March 6-7 after receiving training in guerrilla warfare in China.

The spokesman said large quantities of weapons with Chinese markings were captured when Angami was seized early Sunday.

India's smallest state of Nagaland, 6,366 square miles in size and with less than 500,000 population, was formed in December, 1963, in an effort to satisfy demand of sections of the people for an independent sovereign state. But some elements continued guerrilla warfare demanding independence.

Medicare Talks Set

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Harry Strom says he intends to discuss the federal medical care scheme when he meets Prime Minister Trudeau this week in Ottawa. The premier told the legislature he "regretted" that he could reveal no further information on what form the talk on medical care would take.

WEATHER DAMPENS ROCKY POINT INVASION

Driving rain and cool temperatures attended the invasion of Rocky Point by sea Saturday as 110 reserve soldiers of Canadian Scottish Regiment won the day.

Forty reserve sailors from HMCS Malahat, acting as a defending force, were over-run.

The invaders, brought to the point in naval harborcraft, used an LCVP landing craft operated by regular forces, and rubber boats, in the landing. The exercise continued Sunday.

Anniversary Recalls Martyrdom of Jesuits

WAUBAUSHENE, Ont. (CP) — Two-hundred pilgrims representing Canada's three founding cultures — Indians, French and English—joined Sunday in outdoor ecumenical worship commemorating the 320th anniversary of the martyrdom of two of North America's eight Jesuit saints.

The Roman Catholic and Protestant congregations stood in two feet of snow in freezing weather before a 15-foot cross marking the location of the fatal tortures by the Iroquois at Saint-Ignace, a Huron village. lage.

The rites started at 4 p.m., the death hour of Jesuit Jean de Brebeuf who succumbed a day prior to Gabriel Laemant.

"We say a special word of thanks to the people of Christian Island," said Rev. J. F. McCaffrey, director of the Martyrs' Shrine at nearby Midland.

"We pray for them and their needs and we ask them to pray for us."

He was referring to 25 members of the Beausoleil band of Ojibwa Indians who drove across the Georgian Bay ice from their island reservation. Father McCaffrey celebrated the mass.

The eight French Jesuit martyrs were the first saints canonized by the Roman Catholic church for deeds on this continent.

Judy's Vows Duplicated

LONDON (AP) — Judy Garland married her fourth husband for the second time Saturday to make it legal.

"I feel like a 16-year-old," she said.

Bubbling with excitement, the 46-year-old American singer announced at the end of January she had married Mickey Deans, 35-year-old New York discotheque manager, secretly in a Roman Catholic Church ceremony Jan. 9.

Today's civil ceremony at Chelsea register office was necessary, she said, because they were married "in the eyes of God, but not in the eyes of the law."

Opening lead—♠K

Jim: "I would be inclined to jump right to five clubs with the South hand. Maybe I would make it. Maybe I would get my opponents up to five spades, which I would double."

Oswald: "I think I would bid just the way this South did. I hope to be doubled at four clubs. This time South did very well with his bids."

Jim: "Yes, indeed! He ruffed the opening spade lead and locked over dummy without any particular zest. He didn't expect to be hurt at five clubs but his chances of making the contract weren't good."

Oswald: "He was going to get to dummy once and clearly the best he could do with that one lead would be to play a heart and finesse his queen. Therefore, it was up to him to get away with the loss of just two trump tricks."

Jim: "After coming to this decision, South played his king of clubs. When West followed with the queen, South was down to only two trump losers. All that remained was the heart finesse and that worked."

Oswald: "If any of our readers think that the success of South's play was pure luck, we want to disillusion them. He gave himself the best chance."

Jim: "If clubs divided 2-2, it didn't matter a bit which club he led. He would lose exactly two tricks in the suit. If they broke 4-0, it still didn't matter. He would lose three club tricks. If they broke 3-1, the king play gave him a chance to pickle either the queen or the jack; a low play would give him a chance to pickle only the ace. Two chances are twice as good as one."

Soviet Union Warns China After Border Gun Battle

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union said today that its borders are sacred and warned China any further violations will be rebuffed.

(China, meanwhile, accused Russia of "white fascist terror.")

The Soviet warning came in an editorial, in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, commenting on weekend border fighting around a disputed island in the frozen River Ussuri on the Far Eastern frontier. Russia says China used troops up to infantry regiment strength there.

"The impudent armed provocations staged by the Chinese authorities on the Soviet-Chinese border have evoked the profound wrath and indignations of the Soviet people," the editorial says.

"Those who like aggressive ventures should remember that Soviet borders always have been, are now and will remain reliably protected. Any attempt to violate them has met and will meet with a resolute rebuff."

The fighting Friday and Saturday came almost two weeks after the first flare-up March 2 in which 31 Russians were killed.

So far, Russia has not revealed its exact casualties in the latest clashes but identified one of its dead as a senior lieutenant of the border troops.

POUNDED BY ARTILLERY

In a report from two of its correspondents in the border area, Pravda confirms that the Russians used artillery against Chinese positions during the battle Saturday.

The Russians had already said the Chinese used heavy artillery and mortars during the seven-hour battle, while the official Chinese account said the Russians shelled targets four miles inside Chinese territory.

Pravda says that throughout the battle Soviet frontier guards facing Chinese regular troops came under "a hurricane of fire."

Then "a powerful artillery barrage burst on the firing position of the Maoists—the instigators of the clash."

"A decisive assault completely cleared Damansky Island of the Chinese raiders."

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported that new protest meetings against the latest clash were being held all over the Soviet Union.

Pearl Harbor Assault Head Resigns Post

TOKYO (AP) — Minoru Genda, the architect of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, resigned today as chief of the defence policy board of the governing Liberal - Democratic party after a meeting with Premier Eisaku Sato.

He said it was for "personal reasons," but political observers felt statements he made recently in the United States made him a political liability to the government.

Genda returned to Tokyo Sunday after a lecture tour in the United States sponsored by the U.S. Naval Institute. On the tour he said Japan probably would have used an atomic bomb if it had had one during the Second World War, a remark that brought heated attacks from the Socialists and the Communists.

Red Intellectuals On Hunger Strike

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviet intellectuals serving terms in a labor camp began a hunger strike Friday to seek relaxation of restrictions on visiting rights, reports reaching Moscow said Sunday.

The prisoners, in the huge Potma camp 250 miles southeast of Moscow, include Yuli Daniel, the writer whose trial three years ago marked the beginning of a crackdown on intellectual dissenters.

Reliable sources close to the striking prisoners said the hunger strike will go on indefin-strikers could not be deter-striktrs could not be determined.

Sources said the strike was touched off when a prisoner referred to himself as a "political prisoner" during a talk with a camp official and, because of that, was denied permission to see his wife.

A similar strike a year ago in the same camp won concessions on visiting rights. Prisoners were reported to feel those concessions now have been revoked.

Others known to be participating in the hunger strike are Yuri Galanvskov and Alexander Ginsburg, convicted a year ago of underground literary activities that were considered by the authorities to be anti-Soviet.

Paris Summit Unveils Gaullist Europe Plan

PARIS (WP) — French President Charles de Gaulle has spelled out in unequivocal terms his vision of a new "European Europe" and its relationship with the United States and the Atlantic Alliance.

The general stressed, once again, that he would not permit Britain and other European applicants to enter the six-nation Common Market. But he offered to open talks with West Germany about forming a new grouping with wider membership.

De Gaulle also made it clear that he considers the conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China of overwhelming importance, opening up broad perspective for new co-operation between Moscow and western Europe.

OUTLINES VIEWS

The French leader outlined his views in the closing session of a two-day summit meeting with West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger. Both sides indicated that the net effect of the meeting was a "frank and cordial" agreement to disagree on key aspects of how to build a united and independent Europe.

Although the meeting produced no dramatic results, it spotlighted the difficulties the continent faces in producing its own "grand design" for the future now that the U.S. has adopted a hands-off policy.

GRAND DESIGN

The de Gaulle-Keisinger talks were the first top-level European consultation since President Nixon's visit to the continent in February. German sources said they got the impression that de Gaulle was convinced that the American president had given him a green light to build a Gaullist Europe.

De Gaulle's personal "grand design" was made public by Roger Vaurs, the official spokesman of the French foreign ministry, in a press conference after the end of the summit talks.

The general said the prerequisite for a European Europe would be a grouping that organized its own political, economic and defence arrangements. He stressed that such a grouping would not be incompatible with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Atlantic Alliance or with the continued presence of American military forces in Europe. No member of this new Europe, he said, would have to renounce its alliance with the U.S. or alter its economic and trade relations with Washington.

New Premier Sworn In By Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Golda Meir was sworn in as the new premier of Israel today after winning a vote of confidence in parliament by 84 votes to 12.

The 70-year-old grandmother is the first woman ever to hold the post.

Former premier David Gen-Gurion abstained from voting.

In a policy statement preceding the vote, Mrs. Meir firmly rejected any suggestion of "an imposed solution" to the Middle East problem and, in an apparent reference to the United States and Britain, warned "No decision can be adopted without us."

Mrs. Meir, presenting her broadly-based coalition government to parliament, said there could be no solution to the Middle East question except through a "real peace between the parties to the conflict."

Mrs. Meir sought the confidence of the Knesset (parliament) in her 21-member cabinet, identical in composition to the one headed by the late premier Levi Eshkol who died in Jerusalem Feb. 26.

Mrs. Meir said: "Only those who took part in the war can make peace."

Man Injured In Nanaimo Explosion

An explosion at an acetylene plant on the outskirts of Nanaimo this morning injured one man and a fire that followed heavily damaged the one-storey building.

The explosion occurred at about 8:30 a.m. at Liquid Carbonic Canadian Corporation in Nanaimo's industrial park. The injured man was identified as John D. Fargie, plant manager.

He was taken to Nanaimo Regional Hospital with undetermined injuries.

The blast, believed to have been caused by a generator used in acetylene processing, blew out an entire wall.

The explosion rocked a large area on the outskirts of the city but did not cause any damage other than to plant property.

Three fire departments fought the flames, bringing them under control two hours after the blast.

Fish Boat Ownership Restricted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ownership of fish boats by the three major salmon packing companies on the west coast has to be limited to a small proportion of the total, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Friday night.

"A few big companies cannot be allowed to own all, or even a major part, of our unique salmon fishing fleet," he told a university gathering studying fisheries.

"They can help to finance Canadians as individual fishermen . . . but outright company ownership and control is something else again."

Mr. Davis said he was countering talk among British Columbia fishermen that the big packing companies, B.C. Packers, Canadian Fishing Co. and New England Fish Co., were going to "buy up all the boats."

Eight Sheets For Saanich Curling Rink

A $75,000 expansion program will double the size of Allan's Curling Club, 4240 Glanford.

Harry Gulka, president of Playland Enterprises Limited which bought the club last fall, said the work should start shortly after Easter.

He expected the expansion will be completed by September in time for the new curling season.

The present four sheets of ice will be increased to eight which Gulka said makes it the same size as the Victoria Curling Club.

The upper and lower lounge will also be expanded with the new work.

Held at Quamichan Junior High School, the symposium will be attended by all Cowichan teachers.

HOME GARDEN

Try These Fine Shrubs

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

It is a great pity that gardeners are not better acquainted with the hydrangea family, for there are many kinds which can be successfully grown in gardens on southern Vancouver Island. Local nurseries have them among their stock for they appear in newspaper advertising each year, yet the buying public seem to ignore these fine shrubs.

A reason, with perhaps a smattering of logic in it, could be that only the enormous pink and blue hydrangea hortensis group bloom in the early season, that is, from late April through May when new gardeners are inclined to do all their buying.

All the other species and their varieties bloom from June through summer into September, and some have glowing fall colors in foilage as additional attraction.

The shrub known as pee-gee, short for hydrangea paniculata grandiflora, is a magnificent plant, easy to grow, easy to control as to size, and accommodating in its adaptability to sun and soil requirements.

Flower heads are cone-shaped, up to six or eight inches in length, creamy white fading to old rose. Pee-gees should be pruned hard in late March for best results, since blooms come on the new branches in late summer.

The climbing hydrangea is priceless for a northeast or northwest wall, a brown fence, an old tree, or an outcrop of rock, in partial shade.

A true climber, using aerial roots, hydrangea petiolaris forms strong branches resembling grapevine growth with flaking bark, with the newer wood smooth and cinnamon color.

Flowers are produced on short side shoots in May and June. These are flat heads of white, four or five inches wide. After a slow start, the vine makes rapid progress.

Hydrangea quercifolia is the oak-leaf species with huge conical flower heads; H. serrata has interesting flat heads of ping and blue together; H. arborescens is another summer bloomer, Hills of Snow aptly describing its flowers.

Occasionally seen in dense woodland gardens is H. sargentiana with large hairy leaves and stems. It seldom produces flowers here.

YOUR HEALTH

Symptoms of Acute Appendicitis

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Probably most people today know that acute appendicitis is likely to produce pain in the lower right side of the abdomen; that is the most common symptom. The pain may be misleading when at first it starts higher up, perhaps around the navel. Nausea and vomiting may be severe. I can remember when acute appendicitis hit two college students at the same time, after they had bathed in a swimming pool and apparently picked up a virus. They became nauseated and vomited all afternoon — because there were waves running up the small bowel, away from the lower end of the small bowel, where the inflamed appendix was.

Fever is generally not high until after the rupture of the appendix, when it may go up. Constipation is usual, but not always present. Often, if one feels the person's abdomen, the wall is rigid and stiff. Acute appendicitis is most common in children; it is seldom seen in old people.

★ ★ ★

Once I asked an eminent pediatrician what was the main recognizable difference between an acute appendix and a bad stomach ache, due perhaps to eating green apples. I have never forgotten his answer, which was a good one. He said that the difference is that with the acute appendicitis, the mother has to stay up all night with the child. When, many years ago, two of my children came down with acute appendicitis (at different times) around 10 p.m., each one and his mother and I did not sleep; as soon as five a.m. came, we rushed each to a hospital where he was operated on.

The more I study epilepsy, the more I see that the disease is commonly not falling spells, but more a collection of weird spells of great nervousness or violent temper, "shakiness," numbness, pain, great fear, indigestion and weakness. I have in my library a dozen books on epilepsy in which the writers talked of phychic or mental or emotional epilepsy, or non-convulsive epilepsy, or borderline epilepsy, and an epilepsy so mild and atypical that the patient, his wife, the family doctor, and a psychoanalyst had never suspected what was wrong.

As we say in medicine, the patient's trouble was "subjective" rather than "objective." Subjective means that the person only feels something wrong, like a pain, while objective means that someone looking at the patient can see something wrong, such as a face contorted with agony, or such as black-out, a fall or a convulsion.

Any physician who will think for a minute can see that if the irritable bit of brain which is sending out a "storm" is in a certain sensory part of the brain, the person will sense only a vile taste in his mouth, or he will hear people calling him, and that will be his seizure; but if the storm comes out of another motor part of his brain (the part governing physical movements), a muscle in his thigh may twitch so violently as to throw him to the floor.

Bowman

This is the day when millions of people, especially in North America, wear something green and try to sing Irish ballads (composed in Tin Pan Alley) even though they have never been anywhere near Eire or Ulster. They have helped to make a fortune for Bing Crosby. Perhaps the most exciting St. Patrick's Day in Canada was March 17, 1866, when great efforts were being made to sustain the Confederation movement in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. In fact Canada should give thanks to the Irish revolutionaries in the U.S. known as Fenians, for helping to make Confederation possible.

As St. Patrick's Day 1866 approached there were indications that the Fenians were gathering a strong force at Portland, Maine, and intended to attack New Brunswick on March 17.

New Brunswick and Nova Scotia called out their militia, while in Canada John A. Macdonald organized a force of 10,000 men. Nobody was sure where the Fenians would attack, but they had raised about $15,000,000 from American sympathizers and were rumored to have 30,000 men ready to fight. They were hardened veterans of the U.S. Civil War.

On the night of March 16, members of the New Brunswick militia patrolled the St. Croix and St. John river borders, knocking on doors, and persuading as many men as possible to get their guns and be ready to repel the invaders. There were scenes like the ride of Paul Revere.

The Fenians did not attack New Brunswick, and their raid on Canada (Niagara area) was delayed until June when it was easily defeated. However, the threat to New Brunswick caused anti-Confederationists in that province and Nova Scotia to do some more thinking about the deal with Canada. It was realized that union was necessary for defence.

Other Events March 17:

1766—Stamp Act was repealed by Britain.

1776—British forces and civilians left Boston for Halifax as General Washington attacked.

1816—Hudson's Bay Company traders destroyed North West Company post, Fort Gibralter.

1885 — Saskatchewan Metis formed provisional government.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Janet Leadaman, age 13, of San Diego, Calif., for her question:

How long is a comet's tail?

In 1967 a record number of comets visited our skies. Fifteen of them were spotted but none of them were showy enough to be seen by the naked eye. Many of us saw at least one with the help of binoculars or small telescopes. But none of them had tails worth mentioning and some had no tails at all.

We have heard old timers tell of dazzling comets with golden tails fanning far over the sky. The bitsy comets of 1967 and 1968 were so disappointing that many young space-agers wondered whether those tales of glamorous old comets were true. Perhaps, like so many things, they were exaggerated as the stories were repeated. Not at all. The truth is that comets come in different sizes. The big ones are very rare — and it is the big ones that spread their long glowing tails over our skies

Comets are thought to be bulky blobs of meteor material and loose dusty debris held together by frozen gases. The giants may be much bigger than the earth, but it would take at least 100,000 of them to equal the weight of the earth. As they cross the dky, distant stars can be seen right through their featerweight heads. Their razzle-dazzle tails are made of even more gauzy material. Their glowing particles are much rarer than the thin, scanty gas particles in a neon tube.

But what it lacks in substance, the tail of a giant comet makes up for in size. Steaming from the comet's head, it may spread into a wide beam 100 million miles long. This is longer than the distance between the earth and the sun. In 1843 our skies were visited by a super, giant comet. Its bulky head was 100,000 miles wide and its stupendous tail was spanned 500 million miles, long enough to reach the orbit of Jupiter. Such big comets are rare but smaller comets with tiny or nonexistant tails are quite common.

Lighted Sky

The tenuous tail of a comet always streams away from the sun. As the bulky head approaches to make its close U-turn, the tail streams out behind it. As it leaves the sun, the tail streams on ahead of the departing comet. Sometimes a comet sprouts a forked tail or an extra streamer. More often it fans out in a curved arc, narrow as it leaves the comet and much wider toward the end. Even a small comet tail may be a million miles long and the bigger ones are hundreds of millions of miles long.

In the record year of 1967, 10 of the comets were strangers. This makes us wonder whether a visiting comet could collide with the earth. Experts estimate that this could happen once in about 15 million years. But twice in recent times the earth has passed through a monstrous comet tail. In 1861 this event coincided with a glamorous aurora. In 1910, when we passed through the tail of Halley's famous comet, the sky was slightly iridescent. But no one is sure whether the aurora or the iridescence was caused by the tenuous comet tail substance.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Pam Chance, age 12, of Grimes, Iowa, for her question:

What causes rabies?

Pets are one of Andy's favorite topics, and rabies is a topic that all owners of pet dogs must keep in mind. Most important is our duty to protect our precious pets from this dread disease. We all know that our dogs must be vaccinated with anti-rabies shots at regular intervals. Some of us tend to lose track of these life-or-death visits to the veterinarian. This is a reminder to check up on when your dog had his last shot and when the next one is due. Chances are, your pet will not be struck by the dread disease. But if he is, you would never forgive yourself for leaving him defenceless.

Rabies is caused by a virus that thrives in the saliva of certain animals. An infected animal becomes frantic with pain and attacks any creature it can reach. The virus is transmitted by a bite or when infected saliva touches an open wound. Recent studies prove that the rabies virus also can be inhaled and infect mucous membranes of the nose and lungs. No animal has a chance of surviving infection and the treatment of infected human beings is long, painful and not always successful. So check to make certain that your dog has his shot.

KYOTO (AP)—A mild earthquake jolted southwestern Japan Saturday. No damage was reported but the Japanese National Railway said three new Tokaido super express trains linking Tokyo and Osaka suspended operations for up to 17 minutes.

U.K. MAY RAID DEFIANT ISLE

LONDON (Reuters) — British paratroopers left for the Caribbean tonight as a military invasion of the rebel island of Anguilla appeared imminent.

More than 100 paratroopers in full combat dress moved from their Aldershot barracks near London to an RAF base in Wiltshire before leaving.

It was also learned that three British warships — the frigates Rhyl, Minerva and Rothesay — are within striking distance of the defiant little island, which has for almost two years refused to be part of a federation with nearby St. Kitts and Nevis.

Britain also has 250 troops stationed in British Honduras on the Central American mainland.

In the House of Commons, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart fended off a direct question about the invasion plans by telling Parliament to wait for a later statement on the Anguillan situation.

The 34-square-mile island, with a population of 6,000, broke away from the British-created Federation of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla in May, 1967, and later declared itself an independent republic.

Its leaders rebuffed British attempts to bring Anguilla back into the federation. Last week, a British government peace-maker was forced off the island at gunpoint.

The rebuffed peace-maker, Junior Minister William Whitlock of the foreign and Commonwealth office, returned to London with a warning that the islanders are being held in complete subjection by armed "gangster types," including Americans.

Death Toll 155 In Worst Air Disaster

MARACAIBO (AP) — The death toll in aviation's worst disaster reached 155 today as searchers combed through the wreckage of homes destroyed by the crash of a Venezuelan jetliner bound for Miami, Fla.

Five more persons died today from injuries suffered when the Viasa airline DC-9 with 84 persons aboard plunged into a residential area Sunday and exploded minutes after taking off from Grano de Oro airport.

All 74 passengers and 10 crew members, at least 47 of them U.S. citizens, were killed in the crash. Authorities estimated that at least 71 persons have perished on the ground and feared the total would increase as the grim search continues.

Airport officials said Sunday night one of the passengers was a Canadian. However, the passenger list did not show any Canadians aboard. It listed one of the passengers as John J. Heney of Los Angeles, who was born in Canada. His Canadian birthplace was not known.

ONLY ROSE 150 FEET

The DC-9 had attained an altitude of only 150 feet when it faltered minutes after takeoff and plunged into a cluster of low-cost homes in Maracaibo's La Trinidad and Ziruma districts. The area was quickly enveloped in flames.

Eight separate investigating teams are trying to determine what caused the crash.

An airport official said the pilot reported no trouble and his last radio contact with the control tower was a routine request for permission to take off.

The plane lifted off the end of the runway, climbed to about 150 feet, then suddenly lost altitude and went down. The explosion appeared to have occurred when one of the plane's two rear-mounted turbine engines grazed a high-tension wire.

Fifteen other air crashes have taken more than 100 lives. The previous worst aviation accident occurred Dec. 16, 1960, when two airliners collided over New York City, killing 134 passengers and persons on the ground.

HIT POWER POLE

A policeman who was a witness said the plane lost altitude after taking off, hit a high tension pole, spun and fell in pieces on the residential districts of Ziruna and La Trinidad. The area on the outskirts of Maracaibo, Venezuela's principal oil centre, is inhabited by about 15,000 Colombians, Venezuelans and Guajiro Indians.

The plane had been in service only 10 days. The flight originated in Caracas, 330 miles to the east, and picked up more passengers in Maracaibo. The airline said there were 74 passengers and a crew of 10 aboard.

VIASA sources said the pilot was Capt. Emiliano Sabelli Maldonado, who had logged more than 1,000,000 miles in the air.

Killed in the crash were three Venezuelan baseball figures—Nestor Isaias Chavez, a pitcher on his way to San Francisco Giants' training camp in Tucson, Ariz.; Antonio Herrera, owner of the Venezuelan Cardenales de Lar club, and Carlos Santeliz, a player with the Cardenales.

THE DOTTED LINES show the curving route the final section of the Rose-Blanshard through-road will take sometime this year. With the Rose-Bay intersection already completed but not yet in use, the new road will swing onto McBride and emerge on Blanshard about 50-yards north of Memorial Arena. The small section of road shown angling from Bay to Blanshard will be closed and the land sold by the city to private developers. Blanshard will continue to carry traffic across Bay but only as far as Kings where it will terminate at the southern boundary of the Rose-Blanshard low rental housing project. Remaining on the small "island" flanked by Rose and Blanshard will be two or three houses, Island Farms Dairy, Hollyrood House and Andy and Jack's Batteries. The new road link will sweep right past the front entrance of Hollyrood and the Armories parking lot.

$200,000 Link-Up For Rose-Blanshard

By JIM HUME

Victoria got its first look today at the final link of a major road which, to date, leads nowhere.

The new road section, on the books for two years but now close to the tendering stage, was brought to light when the city advertised for demolition prices for the last eight properties standing in the way of phase two of the new Rose-Blanshard six-lane highway.

Phase one, running from Bay Street to Hillside, was started last year and, apart from a few finishing touches has now been completed at a cost of $160,000.

Phase two, which will link the new Rose-Bay intersection with Blanshard at Pembroke via McBride, is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Closing date for demolition tenders is March 19 at 11 a.m.

The properties involved are: 942 Kings, 2515 Rose Street; 753 Queens, 2548 Blanshard, 738 Queens, 2016-18 Blanshard, 2502 Blanshard and 2347 McBride.

Construction of the remaining link will give Victoria a four to six-lane highway from Pandora to Tolmie where it ends abruptly.

City officials are still hopeful that revised provincial plans for the Patricia Bay Highway will provide a link-up at this point

CBC Hit By Strike In Toronto

Rotating Walkouts Planned

TORONTO (CP) — More than 500 members of the Association of Radio and Television employees of Canada walked off their jobs at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation today following earlier warnings by the union that it may stage a series of rotating strikes.

A CBC spokesman said the union has about 560 workers at CBC Toronto but it was believed not all had left their jobs. The workers represent CBC sales, clerical, international service and announcer personnel.

The spokesman said it was not immediately known whether the walkout was a temporary work stoppage or when the workers might return to work. Union leaders were not immediately available for comment.

The CBC spokesman also said it is "the intention of the corporation to stay on the air, with news getting top priority." He said CBC news broadcasts would not be interrupted and that management personnel are filling in on some jobs.

The walkout followed a breakdown in talks between the CBC and ARTEC in Ottawa at 4 a.m. EST today. The union initiated a work-to-rule campaign following the breakdown but a union spokesman later indicated in Ottawa that surprise rotating strikes would be the union's next step. The work-to-rule campaign included a ban on overtime and a request that bilingual employees speak one language only

VOTED TO STRIKE

ARTEC members last week approved strike action by a vote of 1,617 to 184. At that time, members also voted to back demands for implementation of a conciliation board report recommending wage increases to ARTEC members because they had slipped behind other groups of CBC employees.

However, the board made no specific recommendations.

ARTEC, affiliated with the Canadian Union of Public Employees, has asked for a 20-per-cent wage increase in a one-year contract and an additional seven per cent for members who must speak a second lanouage in their ordinary work.

Fernand Daoust, the union's chief negotiator, said Monday in Ottawa the CBC last week agreed ARTEC members needed 6.5-per-cent increases in addition to guideline-type increases to catch up with other CBC workers.

However, he said that the CBC on Sunday offered only an additional 1.5 per cent in the first year of a new agreement and one-half per cent in the second year.

SPILLER PRISON TERM RAISED TO SIX YEARS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ann Kathleen Spiller, 26, today had her three-year prison term for the theft of $494,000 from a Royal Bank of Canada branch doubled by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Miss Spiller was given a six-year term by a unanimous decision of the three appeal court judges.

The Crown had protested as "grossly inadequate" the term imposed Nov. 8 by Magistrate R. D. Colliver after she pleaded guilty to theft over $50.

'Separatists Don't Belong'

Bertrand Launches Campaign On Strong Nationalist Plank

By DAVE BAZAY

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand lanuched a campaign for the permanent leadership of Quebec's governing party during the weekend by saying the separatists do not belong in the Union Nationale.

The 52 year-old interim leader announced his candidacy at a special party meeting which voted to hold a leadership convention here before June 30.

Mr. Bertrand told a news conference that if there are members of the Union Nationale who prefer separatist leader Rene Levesque's ideas, "they should join Mr. Levesque's (Parti Quebecois) movement."

His comment on separatists was a sign of possible change in the Union Nationale, which began courting separatists under the late premier Daniel Johnson, an advocate of "equality or independence."

No cabinet ministers made an immediate move to challenge Mr. Bertrand.

WILL DECIDE LATER

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, viewed by some Union Nationale elements as the best leadership bet, said he preferred "to think things over" before making up his mind.

One of the "things" to think about was the pro-Bertrand atmosphere of the one-day meeting of the party's national council, ruling assembly of the Union Nationale.

During the meeting Mr. Bertrand got four standing ovations and four rounds of bravos. When he announced his candidacy, delegates jumped to their feet amid shouts of "hip, hip hurrah."

On the Bertrand bandwagon already are at least nine cabinet ministers, including Finance Minister Paul Dozois and Tourism Minister Gabriel Loubier.

All this contributed to making Mr. Bertrand more confident, tougher and more powerful than ever since he was named interim leader following Mr. Johnson's death last Sept. 26.

Last Act Tragedy For CSP

The final act of Commonwealth Savings Plan Ltd. will be played out next Monday in the 2,800-seat Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

For most of the audience it will be grim tragedy.

That's the date set by bankruptcy trustee Harold S. Sigurdson for a meeting of the creditors to decide how they will share the "deficiency" of almost $3.3 million which the company owes them and cannot pay.

Most of the audience will be composed of depositors who kept their savings in the company's vaults, and purchasers of its investment certificates.

Claims against the company—one of three in the 50-firm Commonwealth group which was ordered into bankruptcy last week—must be filed before the meeting, Sigurdson said in a weekend circular letter.

(Commonwealth Savings Plan's affairs were intimately interwoven with those of Commonwealth Trust Company but it did not have the benefit of Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation coverage for depositors, nor is it included in the provincial government's proposed legislation to advance a

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Former prime minister L. B. Pearson has failed to explain why he remained "silent" so long, in effect helping to destroy his then justice minister the late Guy Fabreau, both Peter Newman, editor of the Toronto Star, and Judy LaMarsh, former secretary of state, said today.

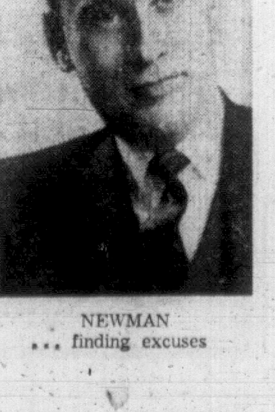
They said Pearson by his actions in releasing confidential papers to the Toronto Star and Montreal Star had simply stirred up the controversy again. It had not "cleared" Pearson but had supported the claims they had made in their books, both the authors said.

BETTER DEFENCE

"He should have stayed silent unless he had a better defence than he has produced. He has stirred it all up again. Why does he have to pick on Guy Favreau who is dead and cannot say anything now?" asked Miss LaMarsh from her law office in Niagara Falls.

In an article by Anthony Westell, Pearson is quoted as saying:

"I am anxious to remove the impression—created by LaMarsh and Newman and perhaps others—that I sacrificed Favreau and Cardin for my own selfish purposes and that they felt that this was being done: that I was throwing them to the wolves to protect myself."



NEWMAN

STAYING SILENT

Newman said the memoranda and correspondence Pearson released "does not excuse his actions in staying silent so long. "Pearson is trying to rewrite history.

"The fact is that as a result of these episodes the careers of both Cardin (Lucien Cardin, former justice minister) and Favreau were ruined while Pearson went merrily on," he said.

Miss LaMarsh said Pearson's disclosures "don't answer or explain anything. He has missed the point completely."

The two authors were not

Cabinet Almost Disintegrated Under Stress of Spencer Case

SECOND OF A SERIES

Two months before the Spencer spy case plunged his government into its worst political crisis, in 1966, Prime Minister Lester Pearson proposed to his colleagues a course of action that would almost certainly have averted the difficulties.

But the cabinet decided against the Pearson plan for dealing with the issue before it became critical in Parliament. The result was:

- The cabinet almost disintegrated under the stress of the crisis, and Pearson, surveying the resignation threats, wrote in his diary a few days later: "Things were really falling apart."
- The Commons sank deeper into bitter debate of the Spencer case which led directly to the disclosure of the Munsinger scandal—one of the low points in Canadian parliamentary history.

Former Prime Minister Pearson discloses his inside version of the Spencer case in the private papers he has released. He is anxious to answer suggestions that he betrayed his justice minister, Lucien Cardin, during the crisis.

Letters from Cardin included in the Pearson papers show in fact that the justice minister remained deeply attached to his prime minister throughout the affair, and eventually left public life without in any way blaming Pearson for his troubles.

Cardin took the view, contrary to most opinion, that it was his mistakes that caused Pearson's problems, and not Pearson's performance that brought him down.

George Victor Spencer was an obscure postal worker in Vancouver who was recruited as a small-time agent by the Soviet spy masters working out of the embassy in Ottawa.

His main task seems to have been to collect information which could be used to create "legends," or false identities, for more important Soviet spies.

But he also provided information on pipelines, on farms for sale near the U.S. border, and on the security system in the post office.

The RCM had been aware of his activities for a long time, but took action only in May, 1965—perhaps because the force wanted a dramatic success at that moment to offset the bad publicity it had received during the Dorion enquiry into the Rivard scandal.

In any event, the RCMP encouraged the external affairs department to announce that the two Soviet spy masters had been sent packing and to describe their activities in colorful terms.

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The hot but still unpredictable Cougars are one game and three chances away from bringing the British Columbia junior "A" hockey championship to Victoria for the first time in history.

Cougars applied a 2-0 headlock on the B.C. Junior League championship series Saturday night by tripping Penticton Broncos 4-2 before 3,078 fans at Memorial Arena.

Now the Doug Anderson-coached youngsters need only one more victory to sweep the best-of-five final and earn the right to advance against Alberta's representatives in the inter-provincial playdowns for the Memorial Cup.

They have three chances. The third game is scheduled to be played tonight in Penticton. Other games, if required, will be played in Penticton on Tuesday and in Victoria on Wednesday.

The odds would indicate the Cougars, who now have won 13 of their last 15 starts, are in excellent position to write a new chapter on Victoria hockey history.

In a series between two well-matched clubs, Penticton's main advantage tonight will be home ice. Cougars have mementum and a psychological factor on their side.

As well, the Cougars may operate against a decidely weakened Penticton defence. Talented Jack Taggart Jr., who toiled most of the winter with Canada's national team, was scheduled to return to Winnipeg at the weekend.

Madden's Effectiveness Hampered

Jack Taggart Sr., the coach, said Sunday he was trying to postpone his defenceman son's return in hopes of using his talents tonight. But, the elder Taggart said, "the chances look slim."

Penticton also is suffering from the fact team captain Tom Madden is operating well below form because of an injured ankle. The one-time Victorian has been playing with the ankle frozen to ease the pain, but it is obvious he is hampered by the injury.

Saturday night, for example, Madden was on the ice when Victoria scored its first three goals.

Defenceman John Van Horlick sparked Victoria's sixth straight playoff triumph by scoring two goals. Doug Gibson and Lonnie Miles rattled in singles, while Reg Cherenko and defenceman Jim Whitlam scored Penticton's goals.

Van Horlick's second-period goals enabled the colorful defenceman to quickly shed the goat's horns and emerge as one of Victoria's heroes in a game of missed chances. He was on the ice when Penticton scored both of their goals—along with wingers Adrian Blais and Len Barrie.

It was Van Horlick, in fact, who actually steered Whitlam's high-and-wide shot into Victoria's net.

But he quickly atoned for that miscue to bang in the winner a few minutes later.

Van Horlick's fortunes somewhat typifies Cougars' success against Penticton and Vernon in a four-game semi-final sweep. The Cougars have had altogether too many stuttering moments on defence but managed to prevail because of Ron Grahame's steady goaltending and an adequate attack.

Murray Kennett and Laurie Moore were by far the best defensive alignment for Victoria. Moore was especially strong in body-checking. His best hit of the night was a cruncher applied to Taggart in the opening period.

Victoria wingers, particularly Dave Williams, Barrie and Graham Brown, didn't help Victoria's efforts in their own zone. The wingers consistently strayed out of position to compound defensive woes.

Eight Bruin Tallies Come in One Period

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League players, led by high-scoring Boston Bruins, continued their assault on NHL records during the weekend, breaking two and tying three.

Leading the march were Phil Esposito and his Boston teammates. Esposito picked up eight points in games Saturday and Sunday against Toronto Maple Leafs to increase his league-leading point total to 118 and wipe out the record of 113 points for regular-season and playoff games set in 1958-59 by Dickie Moore of Montreal Canadiens.

And the Bruins equalled the NHL record for goals in a period when they scored eight times Sunday night in the second period as they overpowered Toronto Maple Leafs 11-3 at Boston Garden.

The eight goals matched the record set by Detroit Red Wings in 1944 during a 15-0 win over New York Rangers. The Bruins also equalled the record of 22 points in a period, set by Detroit in the same game.

Other marks broken or tied during the weekend:

—Bobby Orr of Boston broke the record for most points by a defenceman when he gained an assist for his 60th point Saturday night in Toronto's 7-4 win over the Bruins. Pierre Pilote held the record of 59 scored when he was with Chicago in 1964-65.

—Boston scored 15 goals during the weekend to give them a team total of 276 for the season, breaking the old mark of 264 set by Chicago in 1966-67.

—Danny Grant's assist during Minnesota's 2-2 tie Saturday with Philadelphia Flyers gave him 62 points to equal the rookie scoring record set by Gus Bodnar of Toronto in 1943-45.

EXTEND WIN STREAK

Other milestones also were reached. The Rangers extended their unbeaten streak at home to 16 games Sunday night when they came from behind to defeat the Red Wings 6-4.

Despite the loss, the Red Wing line of Gordie Howe, Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio picked up eight points for a total of 230, breaking the mark of 226 set in 1955-56 by Howe, Norm Ullman and Ted Lindsay.

In other games Sunday, Bobby Hull scored his 52nd and 53rd goals of the season to pace Chicago to a 6-2 victory over Philadelphia, Minnesota North Stars downed St. Louis Blues 3-2 and Oakland Seals thumped Pittsburgh Penguins 7-2.

In games Saturday, St. Louis edged Detroit 3-2, Philadelphia and Minnesota played to a 2-2 tie, Los Angeles Kings beat Pittsburgh 3-1 and Montreal beat Chicago 3-1.

At Boston Sunday, Derek Sanderson also contributed to Toronto's downfall with a three-goal performance and three assists while Esposito collected one goal and four assists.

Ken Hodge had his 40th and 41st goals and rookie Garnet Bailey added a pair for Boston. Ron Murphy, Wayne Cashman and John McKenzie also scored for Boston.

Ullman, who got two goals, and Mike Walton, scored for the Maple Leafs, who had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period.

SPARKS THE RANGERS

At New York, Ron Stewart scored two third-period goals to rally the Rangers to their victory over the Wings. Jean Ratelle also scored two and Rod Gilbert and Bob Nevin got one apiece.

Mahovlich scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season and assisted on Howe's 40th and Delvecchio's 23rd as Detroit took a 4-2 lead, but New York rallied with third-period goals to keep their 2½-month unbeaten streak at home intact.

Canucks Nip Bucks To Prolong Battle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks prolonged the race for the Western Hockey League pennant Sunday night when six players scored in their 6-5 defeat of league-leading Portland Buckaroos.

The Buckaroos, bidding for their fifth straight title, lead the Canucks by 10 points and each club has seven games remaining.

Art Jones, the league leading scorer from Portland, scored twice, boosting his total to 105 points.

On Saturday night 6,108 fans saw the Buckaroos strengthen their title claims when they bombed the luckless last-place Phoenix Roadrunners 10-1 in Portland.

In San Diego Saturday night, 12,261 fans saw Len Ronson tie a league record and break a San Diego club record by scoring five goals to lead the Gulls to an 8-6 victory over Seattle Totems.

Portland now has 87 points and Vancouver 77. San Diego has 72, Seattle 68, Denver 49 and Phoenix 47. Seattle is at Denver tonight and Phoenix is at Vancouver Tuesday.

Saturday's game in San Diego featured the league's second bench-emptying brawl in two weeks.

KILPATRICK OUSTED

At 6:22 of the third period, Seattle's Gary Kilpatrick and San Diego's Jack Stanfield squared off. Kilpatrick received two major penalties and a misconduct, and was thrown out of the game for hitting referee John d'Amico.

The Gulls led 5-0 midway through the second period as Ronson scored two and Bruce Carmichael, Fred Hilts and Warren Haynes each added one.

John Hanna and Bob Courcy scored as Seattle narrowed the score to 5-2 but Ronson made it 7-2 with his third and fourth goals of the evening.

Don Ward, Hanna and Courcy made it 7-5 and Ronson then tallied his fifth. Courcy closed out the scoring with his third goal of the night for Seattle.

1¾ horsepower.
And that's just for starters.

Unlike most cars, the Corona has more starting power.

The result: Faster starts without power drain and engine wear. A starter motor that delivers a power kick that takes the whine out of Arctic cold starts and turns the Corona oversquare engine into a hot, roaring 90 hp powerplant.

Even when conditions are reversed. It cruises with ease at a sleek 80 mph. Backed by a full-synchro 4-on-the-floor and big double barrelled carb.

And forget about pussy-footing around. The Corona's rugged unit construction takes potholes, bumps, dust and salt in its stride. It's been pre-conditioned.

So get started with Corona.
It's never been easier.

Regionally: Confusion, Disagreement

This is the first of three articles by City Hall reporter Jim Hume on regional government.

By JIM HUME

In 1965 Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell introduced the Regional District concept of government to British Columbia.

It was designed primarily to provide a vehicle of government which could cross rigid municipal boundaries for the common good of an area as a whole.

Four years later, at a recent Qualicum Beach seminar, some 90 elected and hired municipal officers met for two days to try and find out whether the new idea was working, where it was heading and what problems it was bringing in its wake.

While the two-day conference resulted in no solid policy statements, no positive requests to government, it did reveal a great deal of confusion among municipal administrators. And it did demonstrate, beyond doubt, wide areas of disagreement as to how Regional District legislation should be introduced and the areas in which it could be effective.

There were some at Qualicum who saw Regional Districts as a fourth level of government in the federal, provincial, municipal hierarchy.

There were others who viewed Regional Districts and their growing strength as a third level of government designed eventually to eliminate historic municipal governments.

Most elected officials leaned, half-fearfully, towards the latter view. One by one they aired their fears, sometimes to find blunt answers, at others a polite waffle and occasionally an honest "we don't know."

'Co-ordinate, Not Interfere'

When it was suggested that regional planning must become a Regional District function, Mayor Hugh Stephen agreed—if city's like Victoria were permitted to retain their own "within municipal boundaries" planning rights.

"When a municipality surrenders the right to control, its own land it surrenders its sovreignty," is the way he put it with the added thought that "regional planning should co-ordinate but not interfere."

A. H. Kennedy, of Ottawa, executive director of the Community Planning Association of Canada, took exception.

"Without regional planning, municipal planning doesn't mean too much," he said. "You can have the excellent plan of a city destroyed by unorganized development in unorganized areas on the periphery of the city."

For months Victoria has balked at a proposal to bring the Capital Region Planning Board under the control of the Regional District Board until it is clearly spelled out that the city still controls its own destiny.

That stand has brought off-stage criticism that the city wants to have a say in the development of rural areas, but wants rural areas to have no say in the development of the city.

The existence of that conflict in the Regional District structure in the Capital Region area was readily admitted by Mayor Stephen at Qualicum.

Seminar leader H. M. Rosenthal, of the University of British Columbia extention department, asked if there was conflict between rural and urban representatives on the Regional District of the Capital of British Columbia.

"There is a very real conflict," answered Stephen. "Although unspoken, it is present; although dormant it is there all the time."

What causes the conflict?

Stephen felt it was simply a matter of priorities.

"Our priorities (urban versus rural) are very different. How do we rank a city's urban renewal program againt the need for sewers in Central Saanich?"

Difficult to Switch Hats

Stephen went on to say that what he was really talking about was the structure of the Regional District Board. It was, he said, very difficult for an elected municipal official to take off his local government hat and start thinking regionally.

"If they (regional directors) are elected by the people rather than appointed from various municipal councils, it could be a truly regional government. As it is now I am sure board members find it very difficult to take off one hat and put on another."

Throughout the two days, discussion of one subject led, tangent-wise, to another, related only because they both involved Regional District government.

If a Regional District Board is comprised of municipal council appointees, should those appointees report back to their council on various issues and decisions?

Should those council appointees vote freely at the regional level? Or should they vote on the instructions of their council.

Mayor Fred Hawes, Oak Bay, said he wouldn't dream of voting on a regional issue without direction from his council or without explanation to them as to why he had voted a certain way.

Mayor Hugh Curtis, Saanich, said that with three directors on the board he didn't see any necessity to report back. "We have a pretty good consensus, anyway. One third of our council sits on the board, but I can appreciate the problem when, as in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, only one seventh of the council becomes a director."

And Curtis disagreed with Stephen that there was any difficulty in the changing of the municipal hat to the regional hat.

"I don't share that fear. We have one alderman sitting on the Greater Victoria Library Board. He's an intelligent man and thinks library when he's on that board and municipality when he sits on council I don't think this has been a very serious problem."

'Wouldn't Achieve Anything'

Stephen stated bluntly that it would be impossible for board appointees to report back to council.

"We just wouldn't achieve anything at the regional level if we did that," he said.

"The Regional District Board must be a policy making body otherwise it will become a bureaucratic paradise and citizen's nightmare.

The questions were posed and discussed. Nobody asked for decisions because this seminar, like those before it and others to follow, was designed to air problems and promote discussion. The solutions may emerge during the ensuing months.

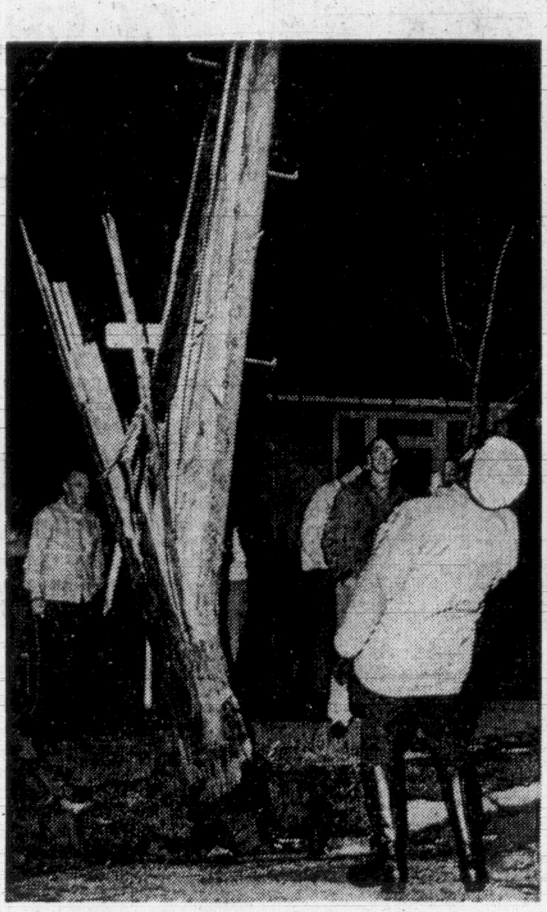
So may the answers to the problems of financing; municipal and public education as to the power and direction of Regional Districts; and, eventually, a clear-cut answer to the big question: are Regional Boards replacing municipal governments?

In Ontario, the only other province in Canada to endorse regional governments, that last question was answered loudly and clearly when the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Municipality was established on Jan. 1 of this year.

By provincial statute 16 city, town and village municipalities were swept into a Regional Government Board, its financing and its power spelled out.

British Columbia, to date, has preferred the voluntary route, groping for compromise, seeking solutions which will leave untouched historic municipal powers.

Tuesday the Times will discuss the Ontario legislation, for there is little doubt that, while travelling by a different road, the Regional District of the Capital of British Columbia is heading for the same destinations as Ottawa-Carleton—and in one word the terminus is amalgamation.



SNAPPED like a giant's matchstick, this pole emphasizes the force of collision when a car goes out of control. Driver Herman J. BIG APARTMENT SOLD FOR $2.7M

A Vancouver firm claims to have handled Vancouver Island's largest real estate transaction — the sale of Princess Patricia apartment building on Esquimalt Road for $2.75 million.

The building, which was completed last year, was listed by owner Slegg Bros. Ltd. through Rutherford-McRae and sold by Wall and Redekop Corp. Ltd., of Vancouver. The undisclosed purchaser obtained the property for investment purposes.

The building is 16 storeys and has 208 suites on two acres of land at 701 Esquimalt. There is water frontage of 1,500 feet overlooking the harbor entrance.

Assistant to Get Top School Post

By DON VIPOND

A. J. (Jake) Longmore, 43, will be named the new superintendent of schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

School board chairman Carron Jameson said today a letter from Education Minister Donald Brothers says he intends to name Longmore to the post.

The new superintendent has been assistant superintendent for the past three years and will succeed Joseph Chell, 65, who announced in January he will retire this summer.

The superintendent, who is the chief executive officer of the school board and the department of education's representative in the school district, is a government appointment.

Jameson said the school board is "very pleased" its recommendation has been accepted. The board considered two applicants and the other was not from the school district.

"Mr. Longmore has given every indication of being a man for the times and extremely competent in the three years we have been associated with him," said the board chairman.

Longmore was born and received his early schooling in Kamloops. He has a BA and a bachelor of education degree from UBC and completed his master's degree in education administration from the University of Alberta last year.

He said he sees his main task as continuing to build the local school system in co-operation with the school board on the strong base established by Chell and his predecessors.

This will involve clarification of aims and objectives in education to shape Greater Victoria into a "lighthouse" school district in the province.

Longmore began his teaching career at Oliver and Osoyoos in the south Okanagan in 1947 and was there seven years.

He was district librarian at Creston in the East Kootenays for two years and later was vice-principal at Grand Forks secondary school for three years and principal at Summerland secondary school, also for three years.

In 1962-63 he worked with the education department as curriculum consultant and was superintendent in the Burns Lake and Vanderhoof school districts before moving to his Victoria appointment in 1966.

Retired Man Charged With Murdering Wife

Remand Given To Next Week

By DEREK THOMPSON

A Victoria man was charged today with the non-capital murder of his wife, shot to death early Saturday.

William Clifford, 66, of 1001 North Park, appeared before Magistrate William Ostler and was remanded to March 25. He was represented by Foster Isherwood.

Clifford was taken into custody just after 5 a.m. Saturday.

Police found his wife Edna, 63, dead of a single bullet wound and lying face down on the front room floor of their house.

Clifford a landlord, and retired painter, appeared briefly before a crowded courtoom. Police officers stood on both sides of the dock. He was expressionless and wore a dark blue blazer and open-necked shirt. He said nothing.

NO BAIL

He was charged with unlawfully causing the death of Edna Clifford and thereby committing non-capital murder. Penalty for the offence is life imprisonment. No bail is allowed.

Isherwood, in asking for the remand, said he had only briefly conferred with his client before court began.

The drama leading to Clifford's arrest began when city police answered a call to his home concerning "some trouble."

Two bullets were fired over the head of an approaching officer and tear gas was used to flush an armed man from a small shed attached to the east side of the house.

FIVE ROUNDS

A .303 rifle with five rounds in the magazine was found inside the shed.

The Cliffords lived in an upstairs two-room apartment at the North Park Street address. A daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Parley, lives nearby at 1018 North Park.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said today he has ordered an autopsy. An inquest is tentatively scheduled to begin Thursday evening.

Clifford came to the city about 10 years ago from St. John N.B., and owned several houses in the area.

Florenda Suffers Setback

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Although her overall condition remains satisfactory today, Florenda Joy Dick's progress toward recovery has been interrupted by a slight stroke.

A small blood clot that lodged in the six-year-old's brain is held responsible for the setback that occured early Sunday afternoon.

"The immediate effect of the stroke was to deprive her of speech," a Mayo Clinic spokesman told the Times.

"Apart from this, her general condition is still described as satisfactory, and the stroke does not in itself endanger her life."

Clinic neurologists have joined heart specialists on her case, and an anti-coagulant is being administered through a vein.

Florenda has not spoken since the seizure, which came just short of five days after she underwent open heart surgery described as "most difficult and complicated because of heart abnormalities."

CONSCIOUS

She is conscious, however, and is able to communicate by gestures.

Mrs. David Dick of 355 Gorge Road had watched her daughter's condition improve steadily since the operation last Tuesday. She was with Florenda when the stroke occured.

Weary this morning from an all-night vigil at Florenda's bedside, Mrs. Dick returned to the hospital this afternoon.

Donations that totalled over $9,000 from well-wishers in Victoria and centres as far distant as Australia made the pilgrimage to Mayo possible for the child who suffered from cardiac abnormalities from birth.

Her present prospect is stated by a cardiologist as "wait and see," with the rider that in a child of Florenda's age, there is reason to be optimistic.

R. T. WALLACE
. . . standing ovation

Dean Pelted By Students With Praise!

It was a student demonstration with a switch Saturday night.

The "target" was Dean Robert Wallace, acting president of the University of Victoria, and the occasion the annual awards banquet of the students' Alma Mater Society at the Red Lion Inn.

At a time when university administrators frequently bear the brunt of stormy student protests, Dean Wallace got a clear message from Uvic students.

It was a five-minute standing ovation—in tribute to his diplomacy, understanding and co-operation in meeting student demands for participation in the university's decision-making process.

During presentation of special awards, last year's AMS president Frenk Frketich thanked the acting president for help and understanding of the student point of view presented in a controversial brief, The Need for Change.

He said the Dean is largely responsible for the number of students currently participating with faculty on committees and sub-committees which advise the president, senate and board of governors at the university.

Scientists Fish For Information On Pacific Trip

By W. RALPH THOMAS

The Canadian research vessel Endeavour left Esquimalt at noon today on the longest oceanographic expedition ever sponsored by Canada.

A crew of 10 scientists from Canada, the United States and Japan will participate in the seven-week, 15,000-mile expedition, studying stocks of algae and zooplankton in sub-arctic waters.

They will arrive in Tokyo April 6 to participate in an oceanographic conference before continuing to Hakodate for a symposium on salmon in the North Pacific. They will return to Esquimalt May 10.

Headed by Dr. T. R. Parsons, a principal scientist at the department of fisheries Nanaimo Biological Station, the cruise will supplement less intensive studies being made by the Smithsonian Institute and the University of Washington.

CLOSE LOOK

"We're going to be taking a close look at the plankton and algae drifting across the Pacific toward our continent in the sub-Arctic current," Dr. Parsons said.

"This is what high seas salmon feed upon and is naturally of great importance to Canada.

"We know it takes about 2½ years for these food stocks to drift across the Pacific, but in order to predict the amounts of food available for salmon in any given year we must understand the total environment," he said.

50 VARIABLES

"We'll be studying about 50 different variables to determine amounts and types of marine life in every type of condition, he added.

He said during the 30 daily samplings such factors as water temperatures at depths up to 400 meters, marine life from micro organisms to large fish, water salinity, radiation effects, and photosynthesis going on in the sea will be studied.

From the results Dr. Parsons expects to provide a formula for accurately predicting the number of salmon and other fish the available food will support two years ahead of time.

"It is our purpose to describe the actual environment the fish live in," said Dr. Parsons. "This will enable us to predict changes in fish here two years from now on the basis of looking at an existing environment somewhere else today."

A. Gordie Howe has a brother, Norman, who is a chief petty officer at the Canadian Armed Forces Base, Esquimalt. Gordie has no busines interests in Victoria.

Go-Withouters Hope To Collect $30,000

Sunday was "go without" day for Roman Catholics across Canada.

They were asked to give up a pet luxury and donate its value to the Share Lent campaign to assist countries in need.

The money was collected at Sunday masses across the country. It is being augmented by the proceeds from rice lunches, marches, concerts, film shows, talks, discussions, socials and dances.

Last year the Share Lent campaign raised $1,405,100 across Canada, of which more than $15,000 came from the Victoria area.

"This year we hope to double these figures," said Michael Doyle, Victoria president of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace.

All Catholic schools and parishes have their own pet projects for raising funds.

ORCHESTRA MEASURES UP TO DYNAMIC PIANIST

Persistent Audience Wins Bach Encore

By BERYL PROUNDMAN

In the second half of the Victoria Symphony concert Sunday afternoon, pianist Dimitri Bashkirov left his audience breathless with the dramatic intensity and virtuosic fire of his solo performance.

The reaction of the audience was of such persistence that he finally capitulated and played an exquisite and calming Bach encore.

The Schumann A Minor Concerto (Op. 54) which had roused such excitement was a triumph for pianist and orchestra alike.

As if unleashed from the restricting classicism of the Mozart which preceded it, Bashkirov sprang at the piano with fierce vitality in the first movement of the Schumann.

It soon became apparent that his interpretation was to be as lingeringly romantic as it was forceful.

The orchestra under Laszlo Gati, measured up admirably to the guest artist although sections occasionally sounded understandably thin in tone beside the thunderous reverberations of Bashkirov's exciting onslaught.

By comparison, the Mozart Concerto, No. 14 in E Flat K 449, was unexceptional. Technically this seemed like the lilting third movement.

NOVEL IDEAS

"Missa Brevis," a work unfamilar to many Victorians, was full of interesting sounds and novel ideas typical of Kodaly. Not quite as "breva" as one might wish, this work originally composed as an organ solo, hence the stop like doubling of vocal and orchestral effects, has moments of dancing gaiety and several upsurging, inspiring crescendos, but its overall mood is of solemn if not sombre beauty.

The Victoria Choral Society, trained by Rodney Webster, presented a well - balanced sensitive and moving performance of this work made difficult by intricate orchestration and unusual intervals.

Fortunately, little was demanded of the feeble, apologetic trio of soloists whose part was not extensixe enough to spoil the godo choral performance.

Orchestral instruments enhanced vocal effects throughout. Stirring brass topped off the triumphant lines in several places and attended the resurrection from the depths.

A touch of hesitation or uncertainty made one slow section drag a little but celestial effects were added by a trio of sopranos who sang the highest and sweetest top notes.

The organ, played by Richard Proudman, accompanist to the Victoria Choral Society, added more variety of tone to the large orchestra.

Both Kodal's "Missa Brevis" and Pierre Mercure's "Kaleidoscope" are works which I hope to hear several times, for each is full of sound combinations that merit fuller investigation than one concert allows.

BRIGHTLY COLORED

Like its namesake, "Kaleidoscope" is made up of many brightly colored orchestral fragments shuffled and twisted to make the most of their glancing facets. Full of contrasts, the work has sections composed of pointed, irregular fragments depicted in the jerky, irritatingly irregular rhythmic patterns of jazz, and others which are soft and rounded and complete funeful spectra.

Syncopation and percussion are important in this work and several times the rhythm almost becomes Latin-American.

From time to time, the shuddering, gradual acceleration of a train setting off slows the pace of the basic beat. At one point the train comes so near to taking off that the whistle from the distant valley can be heard.

Aptly named, this symphonic fantasy throws the colorful splinters down and leaves the interpretation to the listener.

The last of this season's concerts will be conducted by Dr. Otakar Trhlik on March 30 and 31.

This ninth and penultimate concert, the last to be conducted by our own conductor, Laszlo Gati this season, will be repeated tonight in the Royal Theatre at 8:30.

Rebates on Water Bills Possible at Maple Bay

By ED GOULD

MAPLE BAY — Ratepayers here who have been complaining about the quantity and quality of water from North Cowichan's south end water supply may be able to avoid paying.

The Maple Bay Ratepayers' Association has been told in a letter from J. D. Baird, deputy inspector of municipalities, that it may be possible to "take action in the small debts court for a declaration voiding the charges until a portable water supply is provided."

The response by Baird came as the result of a query by a ratepayer acting on his own behalf.

Water from Quamichan Lake was used during January and February because of a shortage of water from the municipal well supplying this area due to a break in the line. Also, a burned-out pump was not discovered until the reservoir went dry. Metered water was used from Duncan for a short period.

REGULAR SUPPLY

Mayor Don Morton said the area is now back on its regular supply of water but many residents have complained of rust and silt in the supply and a disagreeable flavor caused by an increased amount of chlorine.

"I do not think that a municipality engaged in the business of supplying water should be in any more favorable position than a merchant or other commercial enterprise who bills a person for unsuitable or unuseable merchandise or for goods and services which in fact were not provided," Baird said.

The matter of whether a rebate should be requested for "inferior" water pumped to the South End during the two months is to be given further consideration at the next ratepayers' meeting.

Beaten Hotelman Improving

CHEMAINUS — A Chemainus hotelman beaten and robbed at the Green Lantern Hotel early Saturday is semi-conscious but "improving" in Chemainus General Hospital.

Austin Kennedy, 65, was found in his hotel room about 1:30 a.m. suffering from head injuries after a passerby reported finding a money bag behind the hotel.

The bag, used to carry cash and cheques from the hotel desk to Kennedy's suite in the hotel, was empty. The cheques were later recovered by about $1,000 in cash is missing, RCMP said.

Police are continuing to investigate but said today they have been unable to interview Mr. Kennedy because of his condition.

A hotel clerk said, "There was plenty of opportunity for someone to stay in the hotel after closing time and jump him from behind one these old, twisty corridors."

Four More Homes Hit at Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — RCMP are looking for a gang of thieves believed to be responsible for a rash of break-ins in private homes in the village during March.

Four similar break-ins were reported during the weekend to bring the total to 12.

Obviously looking for money, the thieves have taken only small goods, "a sweater here, a bottle of whisky there," a police spokesman said.

FURNEY

Pot-Hole Fairway Flattened . . . Sorry for Inconvenience

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

PORT McNEILL — Plans for the second Great International Pot-hole Golf Tournament almost never got off the ground over the weekend.

It was discovered Saturday night the department of highways had graded the proposed course to a smooth finish. No pot-holes!

The event was to be held on the uncompleted road from Port McNeill to Port Alice as part of a scheme to draw attention to the residents' demands for a road to the north of the Island.

The situation was saved when Chamber of Commerce members jumped into the breach.

First they rounded up a load of dynamite with which they intended to blast suitable holes in the road in preparation for the Sunday morning game. Driving rain doused the fuses but nothing would stop them.

They commandeered a bulldozer and hurriedly gouged enough ruts to create a hazardous 262-hole course, a mile long.

Hundreds watched a team of newspapermen from the legislative press gallery defend the cup it won last year.

There was some doubt as to the accuracy of the final calculation but Gerry Furney, swearing it was a computerized count, announced the broadcasters' team, led by CKNW's Maurie Gwynn, had toppled the scribes.

Prior to the game, guests had been hauled from their beds at the crack of dawn to witness the dedication of last year's pot-hole golf course, which as Furney commented, "had in the meantime been so cruelly blacktopped by the department of highways."

The tournament was part of a weekend's activities that had included dancing, speeches and high jinks.

Furney, publicity chairman for the Chamber of Commerce, said, "We've been cut off from the rest of the Island long enough. The Incredible Gap must go."

"We feel justified in asking for federal and provincial government participation in building the road between Kelsey Bay and Beaver Cove," stated Chamber president Verne Robinson in a dinner speech.

"It would mean redesignation of the Trans-Canada Highway on Vancouver Island. If the federal government will recognize our existence nothing will stand in the way of running the Trans-Canada Highway north from Nanaimo right to downtown Winter Harbor."

"If you pay half, we'll pay half," said Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell in a challenge to Liberal candidate Richard Durante (Comox-Alberni), who also attended the dinner.

With that the Port Hardy Chamber members rushed in carrying a huge blank cheque which they demanded that Campbell sign. Durante followed suit, as did NDP candidate Tom Barnett.

The local access road was christened Campbell Way and the minister hit a ball, which tripped an axe, which chopped a ribbon to officially open the road.

As the last busload of guests pulled away, calling out they would be back next year, Verne Robinson turned smilingly to a companion, "If the federal government does give us our road," he mused, "then what will we do for fun?"

The Gospel Arrives on Wheels

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Gone are the days when Shantymen carried the gospel to remote corners of Vancouver Island in the mission ship Messenger III.

Starting immediately, the work will be done by a jumbo-sized camper truck known as the Messenger IV.

Why? Because practically ever settlement on Vancouver Island can now be reached by road. At one time many could only be reached by water.

"The ship was more romantic," said Rev. Percy Wills, of Victoria, superintendent of the Shantymen's Christian Association, "but, like everyone else, we have to move with the times.

"By building so many roads, the government has made our mission ship obsolete."

The Shantymen's first mission-on-wheels — a 22-foot green and white unit — was dedicated to God's service Friday afternoon by Rev. Wills.

In charge of the camper are Mr. and Mrs. Don Robertson of Courtenay, long-time workers for the Shantymen's Association.

They travelled in the mission ship Messenger III when it was commanded by Capt. Harold Peters and was known to every port and inlet on the Island.

The Messenger has been Sold to Blayney Scott and Jack Case of Victoria.

"It has a great history," Robertson said. "At one time the crew rescued a family from a burning house at Ucluelet. Another time they performed a mercy mission at the height of a November storm.

SERVICES IN GALLEY

"A woman suffering from a serious infection was moved from Estevan Point into quiet waters to enable the Tofino lifeboat to take her to hospital."

The Messenger carried seven persons, was equipped with twin Chrysler engines, two-way radio and a spacious galley, where services were held and emergency operations sometimes performed.

The new Messenger has two bunks, refrigerator, stove, a cupboard for clothes and a nook.

"It is adequate for two people," Robertson said. "Soon we shall have another camper truck, known as the Messenger V, and I think the two of them will be adequate for our mission.

"We go mostly into mining, logging and fishing camps, where there is no church and hold services either in bunkhouses or in the open air — depending on the weather.

"We didn't distribute food, as we used to, because most pretty well everyone on the Island is cared for nowadays. But there are still lonely old folks living in isolated communities, and we like to call on them now and then.

"We show all kinds of films and, at Christmas, we try to play Santa Claus wherever we can. There is always a shortage of toys at Christmas — no matter where you go."

Robertson was formerly postmaster for the federal government at Port Alice. It was during that time he began working in his spare time for the Shantymen.

The association is an inter-church organization providing religious and welfare services to people in remote places.

Its pride and joy is the Shantymen's Hospital — a long rambling structure overlooking the choppy waters of Tahsis Inslet, which cares for sick and inuured from up and down the West Coast.

Duncan IWA Pushes Contract Reopening

DUNCAN — International Woodworkers of America members here voted during the weekend to seek reopening of their contract for new negotiation because of increasing taxes and higher lumber prices.

The coast forest industry has already rejected the idea.

The contract expires in June, 1970.

We asked Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hodson of Sidney what they like best about Electric Heating:

"We're very pleased with the economy."

"The extra insulation installed with our electric heating system keeps our heating costs way down. Helps keep the house nice and cool during the summer, too. We can't imagine why anyone building a new home wouldn't go all-electric."

20,000 homeowners have made electric heat B.C.'s hottest seller!

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — A weakness in oilseeds due to pressure of selling continued near the close of trading on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

A U.S. department of agriculture report that flaxseed acreage will be raised by 25 per cent this year has brought heavy selling pressure into flaxseed by local and commission houses. There was moderate exporter buying on oilseed declines with selling from local and commission houses.

Oats and barley saw a fair trading volume and commercial buying. Rye was under liquidation pressure meeting limited support from exporters on declines.

There was confirmation of sale of 100,000 bushels of flax and 40,000 bushels of rapeseed to Japan.

Friday's volume: flax, 596,000 bushels; rapeseed, 941,000 bushels; rye, 90,000 bushels.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 3 cents on the Board of Trade and led most other commodities lower.

Trade was fairly active and all facets were noted on both sides, but buyers were relatively scarce.

The principle factor in the general liquidation was a report the United States government issued Friday on the number of acres farmers planned to devote this year to major crops. The government forecast a 1969 production of 1,080,000,000 bushels of soybeans, 4,500,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,413,000,000 bushels of wheat. The wheat yield would be under the 1968 production but soybeans and corn would be just about what farmers produced last year.

There are surpluses of these three commodities now and these futures came under active selling pressures quickly.
